17 Lands Ask U.N. Backing for Test Ban

U.S. Sponsors New Resolve to Precede Geneva Conference

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The United States and 16 other countries sponsored a formal proposal Saturday that the U. N. General Assembly urge suspension of nuclear weapons tests during the coming Geneva talks on that subject.

Their resolution, handed in here Friday night and made public Saturday, rivals Indian and Soviet proposals whereby the Assembly would call for immediate cessation of such tests, even before the talks began.

The Indian and Soviet resolutions were submitted a week ago for consideration in the disarmament debate, begun Friday.

* * * *

SOME DELEGATES already were predicting that the U.S.-backed resolution eventually would win out. They noted that the committee had upheld its essential point in a procedural vote Thursday.

That day, the group voted 50-9 with 19 absentions for a U.S. motion calling for it to debate disarmament, reduction in military budgets and cessation of nuclear tests all together.

The vote, with only the Soviet bloc in opposition, eclipsed a Soviet motion to have the committee put cessation of tests first in its agenda and debate that separately.

Bridge's Collapse Kills One

BEATTYVILLE, KY. (AP) — A 52-year-old bridge over the North Fork of the Kentucky River collapsed near here Saturday, dropping one person to his death and injuring at least five others.

One span of the steel bridge upended as a dump truck loaded with concrete blocks and a pickup truck met, Sheriff Oval Gross said.

The dump truck, carrying two persons, and the pickup, with a family of three, dropped 40 feet to the river bottom. A boy walking on the bridge also fell, breaking his arm. Both trucks were demolished.

* * * *

RAYMOND EVERIDGE, 19, of nearby Pine Top, died en route to a hospital. He was riding in the dump truck.

Witnesses said the bridge began to weave and then the span upended.

'PIONEER' MODEL SHOWN

Southland Center Interprets Worldwide Moonshot Data

By JAMES A. ALLEN
Military Affairs Reporter

Southern California became the center Saturday of man's greatest attempt to probe the secrets of outer space.

As the moon rocket blasted from its pad at Cape Canaveral, 40 scientists and technicians manned the Data Reduction Center of Space Technology Laboratories in Inglewood.

They had the 'round-the-clock job of operating the worldwide tracking network which provided the only link with "Pioneer" on its flight toward the moon—223,700 miles away at launch time.

A powerful transmitter in the vehicle sent out a constant stream of radio signals which were picked up by 14 tracking stations. Position signals received at these points were relayed by telegraph to the Data Reduction Center.

* * * *

THE RAW DATA was fed into a giant IBM electronic digital computer, heart of the tracking operation, which pumped out information from which the scientists could determine the progress of the moonshot.

Another group of specialists translated the figures into a form understandable to the layman. The information then was released to press, radio and TV men who waited through the long hours in the nearby Lunar Probe News Center—a small auditorium ordinarily used by the Air Force for highly classified missile presentations.

The news center contained a "Probograph," on which the earth, moon and lunar rocket were charted, and a full-size model of "Pioneer," the highly instrumented payload of the rocket.

* * * *

SIMILAR IN SHAPE to a child's top, the final stage weighed 84 pounds and was 29 inches in diameter and 18½ inches in thickness. Within its fiberglass shell was 30 pounds of instrumentation to collect and relay information on the magnetic fields of the earth and moon, the number of micrometeorites it encounters, radiation intensity and internal temperture and to obtain a crude electronic picture of the

Lunar Probe Stirs Global Excitement

LONDON (AP) — America's moon rocket stirred vast excitement around the earth Saturday.

Surprise, delight and a chorus of congratulations welled up from countries west of the Iron Curtain on the rocket Pioneer's sky thrust.

Surprise — because few thought American scientists would get so near success on their second try.

Delight — because of a spectacular Western achievement to weigh against the loudly trumpeted Sputnik successes of the Soviet Union.

* * * *

CONGRATULATIONS and praise poured in from scientists who were astonished at the great obstacles overcome by the men at Cape Canaveral.

Perhaps the most delighted man was Prof. Alfred Lovell, scientist in charge of Britain's monster radio telescope which kept tabs on Pioneer's progress.

"This is tremendous," Lovell chortled, "Even if the rocket blew up at this moment I would still say it is a colossal achievement."

East of the Iron Curtain the news was received with restrained enthusiasm. Not until Saturday night did Radio Moscow mention the rocket to its home-service listeners.

* * * *

BRITISH afternoon papers splashed the story across front pages which on Saturday afternoons concentrate on sports contests.

"Rocket Out of This World," the London Star announced.

"All Well After 80,000 Miles," cried the Evening News.

The chairman of Britain's IGY satellite subcommittee said

Show-Goers Tear-Gassed

ORANGE, N.J. (AP) — Two makeshift tear-gas bombs exploded in a movie theater here Saturday night, sending out a noxious vapor that felled six persons.

The bombs went off about 20 minutes apart in the half-filled Embassy Theater. Each consisted of a glass container filled with an unidentified liquid and triggered by pencil flashlight batteries hooked up with adhesive tape and wires.

Three other bombs, which did not explode, were found in the theater.

Police said they had no indication who might have planted the bombs and for what motive.

Fails to Remain on Moon Course

WASHINGTON (UPI)—America's pioneer moon rocket shot into space Saturday on an epoch-making flight that broke the barrier of gravity for the first time but failed to find a path to the moon.

At 12:47 a.m. (EDT) some 20 hours after the predawn launching at Cape Canaveral, Fla., the Air Force rocket had streaked more than 77,740 miles into unlimited space—a new altitude record for a man-made vehicle.

But the Defense Department said the Pioneer had veered too far off course to reach the "near vicinity" of the moon and go into the hoped-for orbit.

Despite its failure as a moon shot, the Pioneer was a tremendous scientific achievement, ranking with Russia's Sputnik I earth satellite as a milestone in man's attempted conquest of space.

* * * *

IT BECAME the first man-made object to break free of the earth's gravity and in addition was supplying valuable scientific data that will bring closer the day of manned space flight.

The latest position report, almost a third of the projected 225,000-mile trip to the moon, indicated the rocket might be slowing down or perhaps striking a course more parallel to the earth.

Shortly after it roared off the Canaveral launching pad at 4:42 a.m. (EDT) the Pioneer was clocked at 25,000 miles an hour. By 4:47 p.m., it was making about 3,000 mph.

Between 4:47 p.m. and 8:09 p.m., the rocket covered some 7,830 miles.

* * * *

THE LATEST POSITION report gave the rocket's location at 3.42 degrees south latitude and 101.9 degrees east longitude.

The Air Force continued to maintain that the rocket still was too far off course to come within 50,000 miles or less of the moon.

The signals it was sending back shed new light on the mysterious band of radiation that encircles the earth and now poses one of the barriers to man's first venture out of the earth's atmosphere.

It became apparent as early

THURMON, Md. (AP) — President Eisenhower turned out on the golf course Saturday—three days ahead of his 68th birthday—looking about as healthy as any man of his age might hope to be.

He still takes precautions, and his doctors keep close watch on him. For there is no getting away from the fact that Eisenhower has had three serious illnesses in three years.

Boy Dies of Grid Injuries

DOWNEY — A 14-year-old Downey High School football player died Saturday night from injuries he suffered in a junior varsity game Friday afternoon.

Robert McLennan, of 10326 Downey Ave., succumbed in St. Francis Hospital, Lynwood, from head injuries.

School officials said the boy was tackled in a game with Long Beach Poly High School after catching a long pass.

* * * *

AS HE WALKED off the field, he told the coach, Chuck Hannah, "I have an awful headache." Trainer Dan Arnheim applied wet towels to the youngster's head as his father, Dr. Robert M. McLennan and his mother, Frances, who were watching the game, rushed up.

The boy was taken immediately to the hospital.

Surviving are an older sister and two younger brothers.

JUGGED 'JUDGE' JUGGED

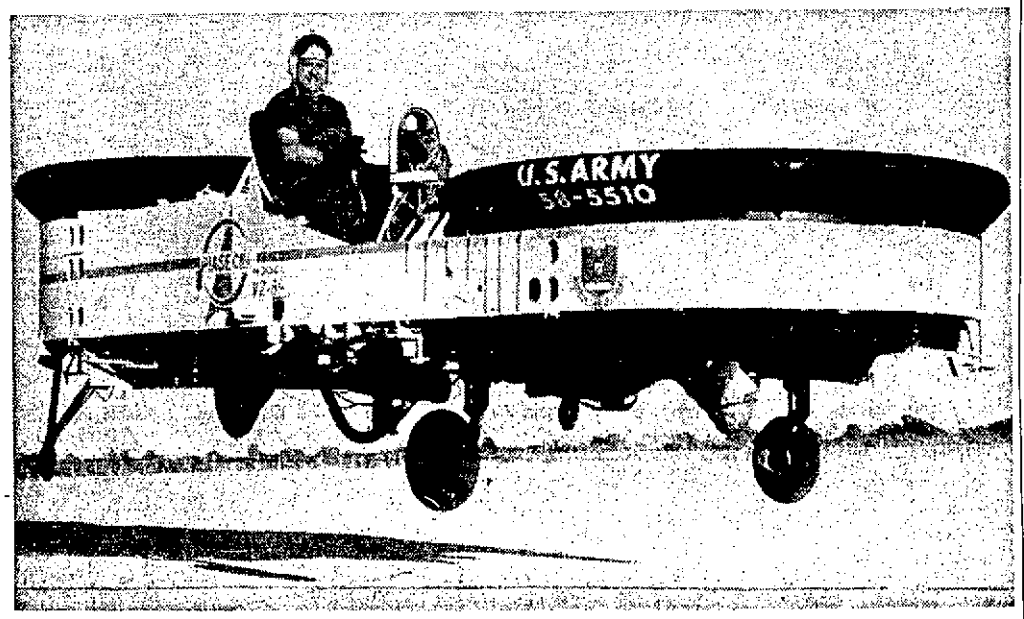

200 Jugs of Rum Lifted

Lawmen judged by the jugs when they jugged a Judge Saturday.

The "judge" was Judge Hedgemon, 53, of 928 E. 148th St. Compton.

He was jugged by California Highway Patrol officers on suspicion of stealing 200 bottles of rum from the Pope & Talbot Co. warehouse on Terminal Island after they stopped him for investigation of drunk driving at Avalon and Redondo Beach Blvds.

They found 20 of the bottles in his car, and Hedgemon admitted stealing them from his employer, they reported. He was booked on the driving charge at Firestone Sheriff's station, and will be returned to San Pedro for investigation of the theft.

'JUMPIN' JEEP

While the Air Force concentrates on the moon, the Army still is thinking about taking a load off its feet, as this weird buggy demonstrates. It's new wingless ground-and-air vehicle designed by the Piasecki Aircraft Cory. Two hidden rotors give the jumpin' jeep lift and thrust.—(AP Wirephoto.)

Egan Wails to Moscow: Bill of $72

AURORA, Ill., (AP) — Mayor Paul Egan got Russian Premier Nikita Khrushchev's interpreter on the telephone in Moscow Saturday and ran up a $72 bill unloading his woes on the unsuspecting Muscovite.

Egan, at odds with his police department, as he has been before, for three days had been trying to get through to the Soviet Premier, but settled for "a very nice man named Votkov," to press his plea for armed Russians to drive Aurora's police force out of the city hall.

Egan said Votkov told him he was sympathetic and would relay the message to Khrushchev. The Russian was more interested in Egan's proposal to arrange an exchange visit of U.S. and Soviet mayors. Egan wasn't sure if USSR cities have mayors.

The call lasted 18 minutes at $4 a minute.

"I can see the look on the faces of Aurora commissioners when they get the bill," Egan grinned.

Egan has suspended the Aurora chief of police and all the policemen. They have ignored his suspension.

Puffs of Smoke Will Announce Cardinals' Vote on New Pope

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—The Sacred College of Cardinals will begin the election of a new Pope of the Roman Catholic church on the afternoon of Oct. 25 in the hallowed Sistine Chapel, it was announced Saturday.

Sixteen cardinals already in Rome, including Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York, met as a special congregation Saturday amid the mourning ceremonies for Pope Pius XII to pick the date for the meeting that will choose from among 55 members of the college the one man who shall be 262nd supreme pontiff in direct line from St. Peter.

The College of Cardinals will gather at 4 p.m. in the chapel whose ceilings and walls have been painted by Michaelangelo. Msgr. Federico Callori di Vignale, the pontificial master of the chamber, was chosen Friday as governor of the conclave to prepare the chapel, private cells for the cardinal's and the extraordinary security measures surrounding the ultra-secret gathering.

* * * *

BY APOSTOLIC LAW, the cardinals will be walled up in the chapel area and will remain there until they elect a Pope.

The results will be known to the world by a puff of smoke from a narrow pipe inserted through a window. Black smoke means a deadlocked ballot. A puff of white smoke means one cardinal has received the vote of two-thirds plus one of all the princes assembled and has been chosen Pope.

Balloting, at the rate of four times a day, can continue for as many days as is necessary to arrive at a decision.

* * * *

AN ESTIMATED 50 of the 55 living cardinals are expected to attend. Among them will be Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski of Poland, the only one of the three cardinals behind the Iron Curtain who will be able to leave home.

The cardinals already in Rome acted under a mandate to set the election machinery in motion "as soon as possible."

Msgr. Enrico Dante, prefect of ceremonies, prescribed the costume of each cardinal for the conclave: a violet-colored cassock and cape, for mourning, with a silken sash, a white rochet or knee-length linen cloak with narrow sleeves and black shoes.

L.A.C. Says:

Vicious Intolerance

Through the mail we have received some of the most vicious literature against Catholics, Jews and Negroes we have ever seen. We find in some of this literature so-called documentation of how one or the other minority group is in control of government. Quotations are given to show how each of them are tied with communism. But each piece of propaganda is confined to only one of the minority groups. But all three are attacked by various types of literature.

We found no such violence of emotion among southerners concerning the segregation problem. It is a different sort of attitude. It is an opposition to granting equal rights to the Negro. But it is not a hatred such as is shown in these hate-breathing mailing pieces. We did find a reference to an equal hatred in New York and Philadelphia between the Negroes and the Porto Ricans. There is an animosity between these two groups of colored people equal to any racial intolerance in the country.

We have asked the post office about allowing such material in the mail. It was indicated it was being investigated. But the frightening part of the problem is that some of this religious and racial hatred is being circulated by organizations—not just individuals. Some people are allowing their politics to be guided by their aversion to candidates whom they support or oppose strictly on the basis of religious intolerance.

The Ku Klux Klan was a vicious, intolerant organization. But its intolerance was against all three of these minority groups. It was able to enlist members in virtually every community. Even here in Long Beach we had a burning of a cross on one of our streets. The KKK had some of our best citizens as members at the start—but most of them quickly left it as the intolerance became so disgusting. Today few if any of these men would admit having been members.

But again we say that organization was less dangerous than the insidious literature that reaches us through the mail. It rarely has a return address. In some cases it has an author's address somewhere in the country. It is an indication of the widely spread intolerance one finds of the religion, racial and political views of others. It is evidence that we in this country have a long way to go before we can claim we are really a united nation and even comparatively free of intolerance.

One finds such literature more prevalent during election campaign periods. It is then some people follow religious and racial prejudices rather than to make decisions on actual issues. It is a weakness found in many countries. But it is one that has no place in this country, where we seek to set an example for the rest of the world.

It is unfortunate that this intolerance is often more pronounced among members of these minority groups than it is by others. Some members of the minority groups seem to feel it necessary to throw their weight around to show they are equal to everyone else. In their attitude they give an impression of believing themselves superior. It is an attitude that should be watched by the minority groups because the responsibility rests on them as well as others to bring about a better understanding in this country. But first of all the Post Office Department should ban from the mails all such disgusting, dishonest and inflammatory literature. Or at least insist that anyone circulating it be identified so they will bear responsibility for it.—L.A.C.

$5,000 Gift to Handy Fund by Composers

MEMPHIS (AP)—The American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers chipped in $5,000 Saturday toward erecting a memorial to W. C. Handy, the father of the blues.

The check was presented to Frank R. Ahlgren, editor of the Memphis Commercial Appeal and chairman of the Handy Memorial Fund Committee. It boosted the cash on hand to nearly $14,000.

The famed Negro composer of such blues standards as "St. Louis Blues" and the "Memphis Blues," died last March in New York City.

FURTHERMORE, Eisenhower is holding his weight within 170 to 175 pounds. That isn't bad for a man who weighed in at 172 when he played football at West Point some 40 years ago.

For the second day in a row, Eisenhower left Camp David, his weekend retreat near here, and motored the 25 miles to his farm and the country club at Gettysburg, Pa.

His physician, Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, watched him get in some practice shots with irons and woods. And the doctor chatted with newsmen about his patient's physical condition.

Emotionally and mentally, he said he considers Eisenhower in better shape than most men his age. But it must not be forgotten, he said, that he has a couple of scars on his escutcheon.

Fishing Boat Sinks, 1 Drowned, 2 Saved

One crewman drowned and two others aboard the San Pedro fishing boat Pepita were saved Saturday when the craft sank about 70 miles west of Morro Bay.

The body of Ole Johnson, 27, listed only as a crewman, was recovered later with one of his legs gone, apparently taken by a shark.

Henry Watson, 41, of Bakersfield, owner of the boat, and crewman Robert Starr, 38, Morro Bay, were rescued by the fishing boat Mabel about a mile from where the Pepita went down.

THE THREE had started to swim to the Mabel after water began surging through a hole in the keel of their boat. They all wore lifejackets and were holding on to a paddle.

Johnson tired and slipped away from the other two as they tried to keep him afloat.

The Mabel picked up Watson and Starr, both exhausted, about 3 a.m.

Party Rates Brown Man of the Decade

By BOB HOUSER

Atty. Gen. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown shares top billing this November in the greatest political show of two decades. Advance reviews from both parties and at both state and national level are agreed on the impact of Brown's front-running bid for the Governor's chair in California.

Brown, 53 years old, 5 feet 10, 200 pounds, is the Democrats' man of the hour, the year, the era.

Although Brown's popularity was attested to in his 662,000-vote majority over Republican Sen. William F. Knowland in the June 3 primary, events since that date have, in the main, fallen to great advantage for Pat Brown. These events have enabled Brown to run "loose" — to steer his middle of the road course with sure hands. Thus, with impunity, he can oppose a labor-sponsored Proposition 17, can advocate labor reform legislation, or publicly commend the gubernatorial administrations of Republicans Hiram Johnson and Earl Warren.

PAT BROWN

* * * *

HERE'S HOW some of the chips fell in Brown's stack:

The Democratic state platform went on record against Propositions 16, 17 and 18—the measures which, respectively, would repeal tax exempt status of parochial schools, cut sales tax but impose staggering taxes on high incomes, and outlaw the union shop. The GOP convention took no stand on the propositions in deferring to Sen. Knowland's espousal of right-to-work.

Then on the heels of Democratic victories in the primaries, GOP incumbents on the statewide ticket almost unanimously recorded their individual opposition to Prop. 18 and announced they would run "independent" campaigns. Lt. Gov. Harold Powers even commented on the feasibility of having a Governor and Lieutenant Governor of opposite political faiths.

The New York Times disclosed Mrs. Knowland was promoting the spread of anti-Walter Reuther pamphlets by right-wing bigot Joseph Kamp. Although Mrs. Knowland pleaded ignorance of Kamp's checkered background, Time Magazine assessed Sen. Knowland's covering rebuttal as "a lame excuse."

GOP National Chairman Meade Alcorn added to Brown's chips stating he questioned the wisdom of Republicans advocating state right-to-work laws.

GOV. GOODWIN KNIGHT undercut Sen. Knowland's major blast at increases in California crime and narcotics traffic as did another Republican, San Francisco Mayor George Christopher. Recently Gov. Knight indicated—short of a point-blank revelation—that he would not support Sen. Knowland with his vote.

There was yet more to be tossed into Brown's kitty: The victory of Gov. Edmund Muskie in Maine's early election plus other significant Democratic gains in that state.

Then veteran Republican State Sen. Randolph Collier declared for Brown and condemned Sen. Knowland in strong language. Former GOP Mayor Elmer Robinson of San Francisco also endorsed Brown.

All these chips fell to Brown in addition to an all-out labor endorsement and significant newspaper support.

The "big switch deal" is apparently the most damning argument used by Republicans who have defected to Brown. They have been vocal in charging that Sen. Knowland did his party great harm in forcing Gov. Knight out of the gubernatorial race. State GOP leaders confirmed, in a survey by the Independent, Press-Telegram, that the Senator had not consulted them on his move for the governorship nor of his adamant espousal of right-to-work.

BROWN WORKED HIS WAY through school, attended law school at night and was admitted to the bar at age 21. He was elected District Attorney in San Francisco in 1943, Attorney General in 1950 and won both party nominations for a second four-year term in 1954.

He has been described as a man with liberal tendencies but conservative in judgment. He switched his registration from the Republican Party in 1936. He is a Catholic and has a son studying for the priesthood. The Browns have four children and two grandchildren.

Brown has pledged to overhaul the state's executive branch, building his administration on the basis of ability and character rather than partisanship; to form an economic development department to attract new industry; a small business counseling service; a public defender for consumer interests; equal job opportunities legislation; rapid and extensive expansion of educational facilities; personal executive leadership to help solve the state's water problem.

IN THE STATE, little-known nominees welcome the Brown coattails for a sweep into constitutional offices. They see Brown converting GOP edges in the State Assembly and Senate into Democratic margins and possibly equalizing California's present 17-13 edge in Congress. They see a balanced Senate representation in the election of Clair Engle.

Looking to 1961, if the Democratic bite stays firm in 1960, they savor the prospect of a state re-apportionment of congressional districts to gerrymander themselves into even greater strength and with even a larger congressional delegation—expected to reach 37 on the basis of the 1960 census.

The fell-swoop hinging on Brown's shoulders would at once kill off the political aspirations of Sen. Knowland and, if successful as hoped for, deliver a setback to the presidential aspirations of Vice President Nixon in 1960, saddling him with a home state in the Democratic column.

And while the Democratic camp is unanimous in its optimism, Pat Brown's advisers see consummation arriving on a 300,000-vote majority in spite of a recent poll which gave Brown a one-million-vote edge.

GOP's Team Spotlighted Next Sunday

Attorney General "Pat" Brown's wife Bernice plays an important part in his campaign for governor. In today's issue of Parade Magazine an article by Lloyd Shearer tells Mrs. Brown's story.

Brown and his running mate, Rep. Clair Engle, are profiled on this page by I. P-T political editor Bob Houser.

Next Sunday, Houser will bring you profiles of Sen. William F. Knowland and Gov. Goodwin Knight, Republican rivals of Brown and Engle.

Next Sunday's Parade will present another article by Shearer, detailing the campaign role of Mrs. Knowland.

Peppery Rep. Engle Fires Biting Salvos

By BOB HOUSER

Congressman Clair Engle of Red Bluff ("two words and 6,000 earnest, wonderful souls") popped out of California's June 3 primary with a 556,358 popular vote lead over his Republican opponent for the United States Senate, Gov. Goodwin J. Knight.

But the seven-man primary elimination contest split off 40 per cent of the total Republican vote and 12 per cent of the Democratic vote away from either Engle or Knight. Most of the split went to GOP candidate Mayor George Christopher of San Francisco. Thus the 558,000 GOP votes for Christopher and the 221,000 Democratic votes he got are the vital tokens which could swing for either Engle or Knight. In popular vote totals, Democrat Engle got 1,732,467 against 1,956,137 for Knight and Christopher, the top-running Republicans.

CLAIR ENGLE

The 47-year-old Engle, 5 feet 8½ inches, 150 pounds of scrappy confidence, has never lost a political race, has 11 successful political campaigns in the past 24 years. His northern mountains 2nd District is larger than 23 of the states. His constituency elected him District Attorney of Tehama County in 1934, re-elected him in 1938, elected him State Senator in 1942, Congressman in a special 1943 election, then re-elected him to that post seven more times at two-year intervals from 1944—giving him re-election each time in the primaries.

WASHINGTON, D. C., POLITICAL WRITERS rated him one of the 10 most effective congressmen in the national capital.

His chief, self-assessed liability in the Senate race is that he is not so well-known in the state as Gov. Knight. Wary of his handsome lead in the primary popularity contest Engle said he "jit arunnin' " when he returned to California to launch the fall campaign.

Since the last of August he has been making "prop stops" —until recently he flew his own plane—and throwing out his colorful range phrases wherever he finds an audience: "Whenever I see three people together, I adjust my tie and clear my throat."

Sample Engleisms: "Knight, a balloon with a slow leak"; "He wouldn't know an irrigation ditch if he fell in it"; "The GOP's game of political musical chairs has them sore to the bottoms of their feet, but people don't have the whole story and I intend to pry on the garbage can a little bit"; "Don't be over-confident, let's not forget that the Republicans can do a pretty good job of patching up a corpse and making a good four-minute political miler out of it"; "The GOP's tight money policy is like plugging the bunghole and leaving the other end of the barrel open"; "The foxes are watching the henhouse in Washington and they're doing the kind of job you would expect a fox to do in a henhouse"; Did Knight lie? That's a short country word for it"; "The term 'right-to-work' is a bucket of smoke."

ENGLE'S CAMPAIGNERS pridefully quote a Saturday Evening Post article saying he is a "man of unchallenged integrity." Gov. Knight's supporters use the same magazine to condemn him for referring to a welfare worker as "Mrs. God Almighty" and another woman as "the lady from hell" and boasted of getting saloon votes with a fistful of $20 bills.

Full of nervous energy and seemingly incapable of a saunter, Engle strides crisply through reception crowds at Democratic functions. His quick movements are likely to obscure the fact that he has spent much time chatting on his way to the head table. Once there he enjoys his cigar and scouts the audience for familiar faces and exchanges smiling nods.

A full crop of steel gray, slightly wavy hair further accents Engle's aspect of youthful vigor. He divorced his first wife in 1947 and married his present wife, Lucretia, a five-foot brunette who flies and campaigns with him, in 1948. Engle has a 25-year-old daughter, Yvonne, by his first marriage.

Engle's political philosophy is progressive. He is chairman of the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee which originated and pressed for one out of every five bills passed by the 83rd Congress. He authored legislation for every addition which has been made to the Central Valleys Project for water.

ENGLE HAS BEEN a leading opponent of President Eisenhower's power partnership program, favoring instead all federal construction. He is credited with forcing the Alaska Statehood Bill out of committee for favorable action.

The Congressman's campaigners make the point that Engle's election would give California a freshman senator young enough to climb the seniority ladder and that he would have better chances because of the Lyndon Johnson rule of giving every Democratic senator one major committee assignment before any can have two. They note that Gov. Knight would be a 62-year-old freshman with no such rule on the GOP side to get him an important committee assignment.

Engle's camp also holds to the need for a traditional North-South representation in the Senate but warns that Knight, joining Thomas Kuchel in the Senate would give the state two from the South.

The Labor League for Political Education, AFL, in the state has given a dual endorsement to Engle and Knight. But Engle has the sole endorsement of the State CIO's Committee on Political Education and endorsement by all the state railway brotherhoods. Engle had bumpy times with labor for awhile because of his vote for Taft-Hartley and his vote to override President Truman's veto. However, Engle told the CIO convention in November of last year that his Taft-Hartley support was a mistake and that he had since voted three times for repeal of T-H.

LUNAR SCOREBOARD

Rocket Fails to Find Path Moon Orbit

as 1:45 p.m. that the rocket was "departing from its intended trajectory." In a later announcement, the Pentagon said the Pioneer obviously would not come within 50,000 miles of the moon, the proximity necessary for the hoped-for orbit.

• • • •

IN THE FIRST 12 hours that it sped across the heavens, the rocket was hit by only one micrometeorite. As it penetrated deeper into space, its internal temperature began dropping from the 40 degrees reported earlier.

Dr. W. W. Kellogg, acting chairman of the satellite panel of the International Geophysical Year committee, reaffirmed an earlier report that the Pioneer showed a radiation reading of four roentgens an hour when it was about 10,000 miles up. He said the data indicated this was a "maximum reading."

A roentgen is a unit of radiation. Atomic industrial workers are permitted to receive no more than three-tenths of a roentgen per week.

The Pentagon reported that all ground stations in the worldwide network of monitoring posts had obtained telemetering signals by 8:09 p.m. (EDT).

• • • •

SCIENTISTS ESTIMATED that the odds were 10-1 that the Pioneer would fail to circle the moon. Thus, its failure in that regard did not detract greatly from its value as a scientific instrument and as a giant step for the United States in the race for space.

Rocket experts said the Pioneer's ultimate course would depend in large measure on the still unfired fourth-stage "retro-rocket" which originally was intended to boost it into orbit.

One trajectory expert speculated that it still might be possible to achieve some kind of an "interesting orbit" within the earth-moon system if the retro-rocket firing is timed properly.

If the fourth stage is not fired, he said, a "wild guess" might be that the Pioneer would soar on 300,000 to 400,000 miles from the earth, then come back in an eliptical orbit to within about 10,000 miles. He said this might take 10 to 15 days.

• • • •

THE RETRO-ROCKET was expected to be fired some time Monday, target date for the original moon orbit.

The projectile zoomed skyward at 25,000 miles an hour shortly after the launching, with all three rockets firing in sequence. The first stage, however, apparently flew straight up too long before tilting at an angle to the earth.

This pointed the remaining stages at too high an angle to reach the vicinity of the moon.

This mishap, however, was more than offset by the rocket's achievements. Within a short time after becoming airborne, it began sending back signals which gave scientists vital information about the radiation belt above the atmosphere, and other data.

• • • •

WHAT THEY LEARN will contribute to man's first venture into outer space. Scientists believe this is not too far distant.

By 4:47 p.m. (EDT) the Pioneer had reached an altitude of 65,000 miles and had slowed down to around 3,000 miles per hour.

Satellite's Radio Signals Analyzed

surface of the moon by means of a TV scanner.

The core is a retro-rocket designed to be fired by an electronic impulse from one of the tracking stations—probably the one in Hawaii—as "Pioneer" approaches the moon. This would enable the moon to capture the satellite in its gravitational field and cause it to orbit.

• • • •

MANY THINGS COULD happen to the satellite. It could be merely deflected by the moon and then drawn toward the sun—a remote possibility. It could hit the moon like a rifle shot. It could orbit the moon a few times, or indefinitely.

Maj. John E. Richards, special assistant director of the Lunar Probe Program, believes it will come back into the earth's orbit sooner or later.

"After two or three weeks, when the batteries run out, we won't know what's happened to it," he said.

The 6-foot-4, 245-pound officer told newsmen Saturday afternoon that in his opinion the firing was a success.

"The three stages worked," he said. "It's the first chance we've had to prove our hardware.

"We're getting the first radiation data out away from the earth.

"This is the first time man has hurled an object out at those velocities—and to these distances.

• • • •

"FOR THE FIRST time, we can determine how much protective cover you'll need as you go out into space.

"We're also measuring impingements of micrometeorites—particles of dust or rocks floating around in space. We're doing this at a higher level than any of our satellites has gone before. Further, to us it's very important that you can launch one of these missiles on the exact moment you planned months in advance."

He added:

"I'd consider it a real success if we get to fire the retro-rocket. If we push the button and it fires, we've demonstrated most all the components in the system."

Jazzman's Wife Dead in Home

HOLLYWOOD—Mrs. Lorraine Geller, 28-year-old pianist and wife of jazz saxophone player Herb Geller was found dead in her Hollywood Hills home Saturday.

Friends told police they heard Mrs. Geller's 1-year old daughter Lisa crying when they entered her home at 2984 Goodview Trail and found her body beneath the child's upset crib.

Detectives listed the death as apparently natural pending an autopsy.

Mrs. Geller's husband plays with the Benny Goodman band.

GALILEO'S SPYGLASS STARTED IT 350 YEARS AGO

Man May Soon Learn Elusive Secrets

WASHINGTON (AP) — Man may be getting close today to learning secrets that have eluded him since Galileo first peered at the moon through a crude spyglass nearly 350 years ago.

The answers—some of them at least—may be radioed back to earth by delicate instruments aboard Pioneer, America's moon rocket now streaking through space.

Scientists hope the rocket will reach close to the moon—perhaps 50,000 miles from it—by sometime late Monday, 2½ days after launching. Tracking signals indicated Pioneer may have strayed off course, but this was not certain.

What could earthman learn if the rocket comes within 50,000 miles of the moon, and perhaps goes into orbit around it?

• • • •

IT'S POSSIBLE, for example, that a television-type scanning device in the Pioneer's 85-pound payload tip may pick up crude pictures of the dark side of the moon—the side never before seen from earth.

Other information gleaned from the flight may add hitherto unobtainable details to data already gathered from long range earthbound observation.

Although project scientists have virtually no expectations that Pioneer will strike the moon on this first flight, a fairly close approach would be a giant step toward such an eventual landing.

If and when man was able to reach the moon, about 222,000 miles from earth at its nearest point, he would have taken a long stride toward the distant planets.

USING THE MOON as a base, astronomers could use telescopes to probe deeper into space than is now possible from earth.

Then, too, the moon could be a relay station for worldwide TV broadcasting. It also could serve as a base for much more accurate forecasting of the earth's weather.

And projecting the possibilities even further, the moon may contain vast quantities of minerals and precious gems.

From observations dating back over centuries, astronomers have determined that the moon is a desolate sphere with little or no atmosphere. They believe it is devoid of wind, weather, smells or sounds.

• • • •

THEY ALSO believe it may be covered by gray dust and temperatures ranging from 215 degrees above zero to 240 degrees below.

Main surface features of the moon are its mountain ranges, craters and great, arid plains.

Many leading scientists have said they think the hidden side of the moon will prove to be even more pocked than the side visible through telescopes. This, they say, is because the moon does not have the protection of the earth and the earth's atmosphere from celestial meteors.

SATELLITE OF A SATELLITE?

Pioneer Has Many Possibilities

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Pioneer, history's first moon rocket, might not even come close to the moon Monday but might hit it 10 years later.

The rocket might even orbit the moon indefinitely to become the first satellite of a satellite in our solar system.

Or the moon might "jar" the rocket, losing it in outer space forever.

These are but a few of the "fantastic" possibilities say scientists of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory.

Almost perfect precision in launching and timing would be needed to have the rocket circle the far side of the moon as planned, they point out.

Launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla., at 12:42 (PST) this morning, the rocket was aimed at a spot in space the moon will occupy in approximately 2½ days, about noon Monday.

Dr. J. Allen Hynek, associate director of the Smithsonian Observatory, says launching of the rocket, whether or not it gets near the moon, is already a "stupendous" achievement.

The rocket might orbit the moon and the earth a thousand times for the next 10 years, he says. Eventually the rocket might succumb to the web of the moon's weak gravitational pull, or the six times stronger tug of the earth.

If Pioneer travels too fast in its celestial rendezvous with the moon it could miss altogether or be deflected "back" towards the moon, circle the satellite and orbit back towards earth, making a figure-eight pattern in space.

If the satellite circles both earth and moon, a highly probable but very "eccentric" orbit, earth would have a new moonlet taking about 13 days to complete a round trip. Our natural moon circles earth every 28 days, taking longer because it maintains an approximately circular orbit about a quarter million miles away.

If Pioneer becomes a satellite, it is going to be earth's slowest man-made moon in part of its orbit even though it was launched with the greatest initial velocity.

This is because, with a highly eccentric orbit, the 85-pound moonlet would slow down to a space-age crawl at its high point or apogee. This would be about 2,500 miles per hour. In turn, as it swoops back towards earth a few days later, Pioneer would speed up to about 18,000 miles per hour.

This five-miles-per-second pace is the minimum speed needed to keep Pioneer aloft out of the flaming grasp of the earth's atmosphere.

Why No Russian Moonshot?

WASHINGTON (AP)—Why has Russia apparently failed to launch a moon rocket?

The Soviets almost certainly have huge rocket boosters, perhaps more powerful than those currently used by the United States, which would be adequate for the primary booster shot to start a vehicle on the way.

Speculation has been that the Russians may have used a rocket engine with a thrust as great as one million pounds to put their biggest Sputnik into orbit. The Air Force used a 150,000 pound thrust to launch its Pioneer rocket toward space Saturday.

Has Russia made moonshot attempts and failed?

The answer may be yes.

* * * *

THERE are reasons to believe the Soviets may have made at least two atempts which failed. These are believed to have been actual firing of rockets which, for some reason, failed to continue on through successive stages into the required 25,000 mile an hour speed needed to offset earth's gravity.

Other attempts may have been made, but gone unknown to the western world.

If Russia has the rocket engine needed to launch a moon rocket, why hasn't it been able to claim another outstanding achievement to keep the lead in propaganda prestige and technology which Moscow claimed with the first Sputnik?

* * * *

AMONG THE possible reasons is a suggestion that Russian scientists, despite their brilliant work in developing rocket engines of massive thrust, have encountered difficulties in perfecting some of the tiny but virtually important components for a moon rocket.

Lunar Probe Stirs Worldwide Excitement, Surprise, Delight

the launching was "an amazing feat."

"I certainly thought the odds were against them but they have beaten those odds," Prof. H. S. W. Massey said.

Prof. M. F. Mott, head of the radio astronomy section of Cavendish Laboratory, said:

"I count this experiment as one of the most hopeful activities of mankind."

In Italy the news filled front pages which had been given over solidly to the death of Pope Pius XII.

The politically independent Il Giornale d'Italia shared its front page between papal stories and the story and picture of the moon rocket.

The rocket news was bannered in the pro-Communist Paese Sera.

Three of the four evening papers in Paris gave the Pioneer top play.

"The most extraordinary event in world history," the mass circulation France Soir called the shot.

In Berlin the first Sunday editions played up all available news of the flight.

The big transmitters of Radio Free Europe beamed out the news to the lands of East Europe.

RADIO WARSAW was the first Communist station to mention Pioneer.

In Communist Czechoslovakia, Radio Prague brought a scientist to the microphone to explain how the American rocket worked.

Most East European broadcasts claimed that the Russians with their Sputniks are still far ahead of the Americans in rocket engineering.

Rocket news dominated Scandinavian papers.

The official Yugoslav radio and Belgrade's only afternoon paper gave the story top news treatment, but refrained from comment.

The moon rocket also dominated all major Japanese Sunday dailies. Japan's scientists praised it as a great stride forward achieved by American technology.

• • • •

BUT 10 HOURS after the rocket was successfully launched, Peiping's New China News Agency had not yet mentioned it in its English-language newscast.

Prof. Hideo Itokawa, in charge of Japan's IGY rocket program, said, "The fact that they reached 24,750 m.p.h. tells of an astonishing progress in rocketry.

"I believe that its success in achieving the velocity needed to escape into space demonstrates a great improvement in fuel and in making lighter the rocket's body."

Prof. Takeo Hatanaka, astrophysicist of Tokyo University, said, "If Pioneer should succeed in making even one circle around the moon, it would be a 100-per-cent success."

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Boy Tells Slaying, Burial of Parents

OMAHA (AP)—William Leslie Arnold, 16, told police Saturday he killed his parents after an argument with his mother in which she told him he couldn't have the family car to take his girl friend to a movie.

Then he took police to the back yard of the family's trim, white-shingled home in an upper middle class residential section and showed them the graves of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Arnold, under a lilac bush. Arnold was 42, his wife, 40.

WILLIAM LESLIE ARNOLD
Kept Secret a Week

Deputy County Attorney John Hanley said the boy told him the slayings occurred Sept. 27. The grisly secret was kept until Saturday when an uncle, becoming increasingly alarmed over the continued absence of the Arnolds, went to police.

Hanley said young Arnold described how he had shot both parents with a .22 rifle, hid their bodies in the basement until the following night, buried them and then returned to normal routines, telling neighbors and relatives his parents were out of town.

Special Embalming for Pope

ROME (UPI)—Prof. Riccardo Galeazzi-Lisi, Pope Pius XII's physician, said Saturday the body of the pontiff was embalmed by an entirely new process that could preserve it indefinitely in a "natural state.'

The physician helped develop the new embalming method which requires no incisions or injections. The process was originated by Prof. Oreste Nuzzi of the University of Naples who actually applied it to the body of Pius XII after his death Thursday in the papal villa at Castel Gandolfo.

Galeazzi-Lisi said the process is based on osmosis by which highly aromatic fluid is absorbed through the membranes and the skin. He told United Press International he and Nuzzi had been working on the process since 1930.

Jordan to Get U. S. Army Mission

WASHINGTON (AP) — With British forces due to leave Jordan soon, the United States is sending a military mission to that shaky Arab kingdom to make plans for strengthening its 25,000-man army.

A U. S. military aid program to Jordan may follow.

The State Department announced the special study mission Saturday and officials said it was sent at the request of King Hussein. The action indicated the United States is assuming more responsibility for the security of a country which in past years was primarily an area of British interest.

2 New Bishops Chosen

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI)—The Evangelical United Brethren Church Saturday elected two new bishops at its 39th quadrennial conference.

The new bishops are the Rev. Drs. W. Maynard Sparks, Annville, Pa., a teacher in the Bible department of Lebanon Valley College and college chaplain, and Herman W. Kaebnick, of Dayton, Ohio, formerly of Somerset, Pa., and executive secretary of the church's council of administration.

Reds Capture Parachutist

TOKYO (Sunday) (AP)—Communist China said today a Chinese Nationalist pilot who collided with a Red MIG17 in an air battle Oct. 10 parachuted safely and was captured.

The official New China News Agency identified him as 2nd Lt. Chang Nai-Chun. The Nationalists earlier said a pilot was lost in Friday's Sabre-MIG battle in which the Nationalists claimed five MIG kills.

TO KEEP THE WHEELS TURNING

'Round-the-clock operations of America's oil industry are symbolized in this twilight scene of a Dominguez refinery reflected in slough waters. More than 578,000 Californians depended for their livelihood on the state's oil industry last year, a Western Oil and Gas Assn. statement pointed out.

LOCAL NEWS BRIEFS

Job List Steady at U.S. Shipyard

Employment at the Long Beach Naval Shipyard is expected to remain fairly stable for the remainder of the year, officials said Saturday. There were 6,485 at the yard on Aug. 31, but current heavy work schedules have boosted employment well over the 6,500 mark.

A two-day Debt Collectors' Institute, sponsored by the American Collectors' Assn. and the California Assn. of Collectors will be held Oct. 18 and 19 at the Lafayete Hotel. Featured will be instruction in telephone techniques, interview procedures and composition of letters.

The South Dakota State Picnic will be held next Sunday, at Bixby Park, according to Eva B. Steelhoim, president.

Emily Kimbrough, co-author with Cornelia Otis Skinner of the novel "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay," will be the featured speaker Wednesday, Oct. 15, at the regular meeting of the Long Beach Dinner Club in the Lafayette Hotel.

Members of the Harbor Chapter, Disabled Officers' Assn., will host a six-chapter regional conference dinner at 7 p. m., Oct. 15, in the Navy Officers' Club, Terminal Island. Speaker will be Rep. Craig Hosmer.

Gary Evans, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Evans, 2707 Ladoga Ave., has been awarded his Eagle Scout badge. The youngster is a member of Troop 25. Award ceremonies were conducted by Don Wilson, scout executive of the Dan Beard District, who said that only 5 per cent of Eagle Scouts reach that position at 12 years of age.

EVANS

Color slides of his trip to the Yukon will be shown by Bud Bingham, Wednesday, at a public meeting of the Long Beach group of the Sierra Club. A potluck supper at 6:30 p. m. in Birney School, Spring St. and Maine Ave., will precede Bingham's talk at 8 p. m.

Members of the Alpine Court Memorial League will have a "Moonshot Picnic" at 6:30 p. m. at the league's pagoda.

"This was planned before the current lunar probe, and has no connection with that scientific effort," said Elroy Roamer, ACML president and picnic chairman.

"The name 'Moonshoot' is derived from the fact that this is the political season, and that a number of lesser candidates will be making an appearance at our soiree. Naturally, their empaign talks will be like shooting for the moon, thus the title."

India Firm Gets Blast Furnace

JAMSHEDPUR, India (UPI) Asia's largest blast furnace has been turned over to the Tata Iron & Steel Co. by American industrialist Edgar Kaiser, president of Kaiser Industries Corp.

The furnace, costing 14 million dollars, was built under India's second 5-year plan. Its daily rated capacity is 1,650 molten tons of steel.

He Must Hobble

KIDDERMINSTER, England (UPI)—Police here are seeking a man with a decided limp. They found his wooden leg lying on a street.

Fire Prevention?

RIPLEY, Tenn. (UPI)—Before fire prevention week started last Sunday, this city had gone 132 days without a fire. The Fire Department reported its sixth blaze of the week Friday.

WEEK OBSERVED

Oil Industry's Progress Told

One of the biggest factors in the economy of Long Beach and the surrounding area is the oil industry which today begins statewide observance of Oil Progress Week.

More than 50,000 persons (including families of employes) are directly dependent for a livelihood on the production and refining operations in this area—Long Beach, Signal Hill, Wilmington, Dominguez, Torrance and Redondo Beach.

The numbers of those in allied industry and trades, such as gasoline stations, etc., in the area runs into the thousands and the total numbers employed in industries dependent upon the products or supplying the industry runs into the millions nationwide.

Long Beach and the surrounding area sits on the Wilmington Oil Field — biggest producing area in the state and one of the largest in the nation.

* * * *

FOR THE WEEK ending Sept. 26, production in the field averaged 81,300 barrels per day as compared to its closest competitor, the Coalinga area, with an average of 69,100 barrels. Huntington Beach averaged 52,700 barrels per day.

Employed directly in the production and refining industries in the area are approximately 15,000 workers.

Statewide, oil companies employed more California residents and paid them more wages and salaries last year than in any previous year, according to the Southern California Oil Information Committee.

* * * *

FIGURES COMPILED by the Western Oil and Gas Assn., show that 130,978 Californians were employed by the oil industry doing business in the state. These include persons on the payrolls of oil companies, retail service station dealers, bulk plant dealers and oil field service contractors.

Average earnings per oil industry employe in the state last year amounted to $5,600.

The oil industry in 1957, according to SCOIC, was the largest taxpayer in the five western states of Arizona, California, Nevada, Oregon and Washington — collecting and paying $811,851,000 in federal, state and local taxes.

Police Assn. Plans Annual Conferences

More thann 100 delegates, representing 15,000 peace officers, will attend the annual meeting of the Peace Officers Research Assn. of California, opening Wednesday in Lafayette Hotel.

High light of the sessions will be a joint meeting with representatives of the State Federated Firefighters Assn., of which Battalion Chief Tullio Rizzo, Long Beach, is president.

Dr. Michael Wermel, actuary from the California Institute of Technology, will speak on the State Retirement Act.

Sgt. Donald M. Weiss, president of the Long Beach Police Officers Assn., will be conference chairman. Detective Inspector Franklin O. Estes is president of the research group and Detective Inspector Charles L. Greeley is secretary-treasurer.

The meeting will close with election of new officers.

Ex-Angel Star Chuck Connors Hits Big Time in Television

'Brooklyn Burp' Answer to Earp as Rugged Hero

By GEORGE ERES

My recollection of the concluding game of the World Series will remain forever hazy.

For this I can thank the "Brooklyn Burp" with whom I was trying to match pushups in his dressing room on the old 20th Century-Fox lot in L. A. (He won. His press agent came in second.)

The "Brooklyn Burp" it should be explained is Kevin (Chuck) Connors' description of himself.

"I'm the Brooklyn Burp—not to be confused with Wyatt Earp."

Connors, 37, and currently a pretty hot TV property as Lucius McCain in "The Rifleman" is a ball player turned actor.

* * * *

BETWEEN STRETCHING his 6 foot 5 inch frame on the dressing room floor and practicing "double situps" (lying on his back, hands behind his head) and doing pushups he had an ear cocked to the radio.

He had a liverwurst sandwich for lunch but that had nothing to do with his clutching his stomach.

"Butterflies," he explained. "It's not that I've got money on the Braves. It's the principle of the thing. The Braves should have won. That Haney, oh he's a great, great manager."

Connors confessed losses amounted to about $20.10. The 10 cents is a bet with the show's director. "He wouldn't even give me game odds."

"No, I don't miss playing the game any more. I played 70 games with the Cubs and had a couple of seasons with the Angels. I'm 37, getting pretty old for a ball player."

* * * *

HE RATES HIMSELF as not too hot as a major leaguer, but a good mipor league ball player.

"I'm like most people. I think they've got a drive for recognition. I wanted that recognition and didn't get it in baseball. But I've made the 'majors' in television. I feel good that I was asked to play the lead in 'The Rifleman.' I feel good that newspapers and magazines should want to interview me."

He recognizes that he was a crowd pleaser with the Angels. He batted .321.

IN 'TV MAJORS' NOW

Former Angel star Chuck Connors is hero of television's "The Rifleman" series. In this scene from next Tuesday night's episode he shelters Carolyn Craig as they face the wrath of an angry band of desperadoes. "I don't think they'll marry me off in the series," Chuck opines.

"I guess I might have gone back to the majors as an 'attraction'," he said. "Sh, sh . . ." He turned up the radio. "If only Stengel would put in Ford—Aaron can hit him."

As an attraction in Coast League ball, Connors started doing TV work, turned in some convincingly villainous roles as a character actor; and wound up with "The Rifleman" role on ABC-TV Tuesday nights.

THE TV SERIES is about 10 shows ahead. The town you see on the show, however, is not outdoors. It's all shot in an enlarged sound stage . . . The entire "outdoors," except for ranch shots, is shot indoors.

"We grow with the town. You'll see it grow up in the weeks to come," he said.

Love interest?

"Well, there may be women in the shows," Connors said, "but I don't think they'll marry me off." (As Lucius McCain, he's a widower with a son, played by Johnny Crawford.". In real life, Connors is married to the former Elizabeth Jane Riddell. They have four boys, Michael, 8; Jeffrey, 6; Steven, 5, and Kevin, 2).

"The Rifleman," like most Westerns is something of a strain on credulity, but if you accept the TV framework for Westerns as action-escape entertainment, you'll enjoy it. Rangy, 215-pound McCain runs true, thus far, to the western hero legend—a giant who singlehandedly cleans out the bad guys.

* * * *

CONNORS PLANS to stay with the westerns—"as long as they want me and as long as they pay off."

Personally Brooklyn-born connors, who still has some of the native flavor of speech and a locker-room vocabulary, exudes a likeableness that's hard to resist. While his troubles as Lucius McCain may make him appear grim on camera, in his dressing room he's a buoyant good-natured Joe who acts as if he hits the jackpot every time he pulls the lever.

He's certainly not the "yup" and "nope" type of "westerner" as a matter of fact most of today's TV westerners hardly fit into the strong, silent W. S. Hart type, who even before talkies required only the barest amount of tilles at the bottom of his scenes.

* * * *

CHUCK'S READINESS to talk made him a favorite on TV shows before he got his own shows, and he was a bit chagrined to find that a measure of his fame rests on his telling Zsa Zsa Gabor to "shut up" on a TV guest shot.

"She was stepping on my lines. I thought I had a funny line that depended on timing and she kept talking. I just turned to her and said, 'Why don't you shut up'."

Did she?

"She just sat there with her mouth open.

"But, heck," said Connors. "That's nothing. After all, I guess I'm the guy who holds the record for being tossed out of most games by umpires."

Call It Aggression—Not Love—When Gander W'oos Pretty Goose

NEW YORK (UPI) — When you tell your wife, husband or sweetheart "You're a goose!" you may be closer to the truth than you think.

This is one conclusion to be drawn — though it is not yet scientifically accepted — from unusual studies of behavior patterns in geese, conducted by world-famed naturalist Dr. Konrad Lorenz of Westphalia, Germany.

In the interest of science, Dr. Lorenz once substituted for a mother goose and reared a family of contented goslings. In the interest of mental health, he is reporting the latest in goose and gander lore to American psychiatrists and psychologists probing human behavior.

From the goose and gander world, here, briefly, is the report:

—Aggression, not love, is the basic quality of being. Picking and bickering are more natural than kissin' when two of the same sex met. Constant calm is abnormal.

—When a goose and gander get together for life, aggression, not love, draws them into a unit. The reason: two can be more aggressive than one, thereby gaining greater status in the life struggle than either could going it alone.

—When love finally comes to geese who pair off, it is preceded by a strong bond of aggression.

—The most powerful household in goose and gander circles is made up of two adult males and one female. But it's not exactly like the eternal triangle. For, according to Lorenz, one of the males appears to register only disgust at females. This intruder is drawn into the family by his attraction for the female's mate.

The mother goose doesn't get her feathers up, since three can be more aggressive than two and, knows she, the addition to the family will make for greater power in the life struggle.

Lorenz said that the pairing off or meshing in a triangle occurred spontaneously in the feathered community. He estimated that about one out of every five households are made up of the triangle, incidentally.

Britain's Israel Aid Irks Cairo

CAIRO (UPI)—The Egyptian press has launched a concerted attack against Britain's decision to supply two submarines and other arms to Israel.

Al Ahram charged Britain "once more wants to make Israel the spearhead of aggression against Arab nationalism." Similar comment appeared in other newspapers in Cairo.

Two Civilians Seriously Burned at Missile Range

Two civilians were seriously burned Saturday morning while engaged in secret activities at the Navy's Ordnance Missile Test Range on San Clemente Island.

William P. Koontz and Samuel Gee, both of China Lake, were treated for burns about the head, shoulders and hands at Seaside Hospital after being flown by Avalon Air Transport from the island, 44 miles from Long Beach.

* * * *

THE TWO MEN were accidently burned during an "uncontrolled ignition of ordnance equipment on the island," according to a spokesman for the Naval Ordinance Test Station at China Lake, Calif., the organization employing the men.

"That's about all we can say concerning the accident," the spokesman said.

Among other announced military activities on San Clemente Island are the development and testing of the Polaris missile system for launching the 1500-mile rockets from submarines under the water.

NEW EPISCOPAL BISHOP

Cardinal of Poland Due in Rome

WARSAW (UPI) — Stefan Cardinal Wysyznski will travel to Rome for the funeral of Pope Pius XII and the election of a new pontiff, authoritative sources said Saturday.

He will be the only one of three princes of the church in the Communist world to attend.

Official announcement of the trip by the only cardinal free to move behind the iron curtain was expected today night or Monday morning.

Alysius Cardinal Stepinac, of Yugoslavia, is ill and confined to his native village near Zagreb, Yugoslavia, under the terms of his parole from prison by the government of President Tito.

Josef Cardinal Mindszenty, of Hungary, still is in refuge in the U. S. legation at Budapest where he fled during the Soviet-counter attack that crushed the freedom rebellion in November, 1956.

Bugle Blows, Fists Fly at Tory Meet

BLACKPOOL, England (UPI)—Bugle blowing and fist swinging shattered the calm of the Conservative Party conference Saturday.

Prime Minister Macmillan appeared before the conference to deliver a wide-ranging home and foreign policy address highlighting the four-day annual party convention. As he began the speech, the sound of a bugle echoed round the big Winter Garden hall. A voice from the gallery boomed:

"The League of Empire Loyalists sounds retreat."

Stewards rushed the bugler and shouter outside amid indignant cries from the 5,000 party delegates.

* * * *

THE EMPIRE LOYALISTS are an extreme rightwing group who often indulge in public heckling.

About eight of them stationed around the hall kept up a stream of yelling. They also were hustled out by ushers.

The disturbances continued through Macmillan's speech, which was mainly a restatement of established policies.

He said he was still ready and anxious to attend an East-West summit meeting, inside or outside the United Nations. He blamed Soviet Premier Khrushchev for frustrating Western proposals that Big Four leaders meet in the U. N. Security Council.

* * * *

THE FORTHCOMING American-Russian-British talks on suspension of nuclear talks, Macmillan said, could pave the way for a real program of disarmament.

The prime minister expressed anew Britain's solidarity with U. S, insistence that the Formosa dispute should not be settled by force. Conceding that Britain believes the Chinese offshore islands should be handed back to mainland control, Macmillan at the same time warned of dangers to British-American friendship in "public recrimination and nagging."

Boy Catches Fish, Drowns in Rough Sea

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—An excited 15-year-old boy caught a striped bass while fishing off a rock at Land's End Saturday.

A big wave then swept Ronald Miller off the rock and he drowned in the rough waters. The body had not been found many hour later.

The boy's death was witnessed by his father, Lawrence Miller, traffic chief for Radio Corp. of America, two young boy friends, and scores of other fishermen.

The father helplessly watched his son battle the waves—strongly at first — before he weakened and disappeared.

Former News Woman Sails Pacific Voyage

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Ex-newspaperwoman Connie Hitchcock—hale and hearty at 67—is checking the rigging of her 58-foot ketch for another voyage.

The former wire service reporter, who sailed her Makai on a 15,000-mile Pacific voyage in 1954, said Saturday she plans to sail Wednesday for Baja California, a trip of about 2,500 miles. With her will be chief mate Eric Johnston, also an ex-newsman.

Soviet Skipper Refuses Gesture Honoring Pope

GENOA, Italy (UPI) — Authorities Saturday accused a Soviet freighter captain of a breach of maritime tradition.

The skipper of the freighter Chervonograd refused to lower his flag to half-mast in memory of Pope Pius XII when the vessel pulled into Genoa harbor Saturday.

Every other ship in the harbor had lowered its flag, including a Yugoslav vessel and ones from the United Arab Republic.

Kiss Burglar Visits 16th Shore Victim

BEACH COMBING

With MALCOLM EPLEY

WHEN Lawyer Geo. Johnson got elected to the presidency of the Chamber of Commence, Mrs. Johnson relayed the information with some pride to their six-year-old son.

The lad took the news with excited awe, and passed it along to the housekeeper and other friends. Presently he returned to his mother with a puzzled look on his face.

"If daddy's going to be president," he asked, "what's going to happen to Eisenhower?"

FAILURE has met the first effort to get directions to the Long Beach Freeway added at the Los Angeles interchange, a need discussed in this dept. a week ago.

As far back as Aug. 5, the local Chamber of Commerce called this situation to the attention of the highway department and urged that the proper signing be done.

District Engineer L. E. Gillis sent "regrets." He said that freeway signs, to be effective, must use large-size letters with the message confined to two lines. Drivers, he said, are unable to read a long list of place names and directional arrows without slowing down with great hazard to traffic.

"At locations such as the 'four-level area' it is not feasible to name all the possible destinations to be reached from each road," wrote Gillis.

The chamber of commerce had urged that signs be placed at both the interchange and at the intersection of Santa Ana and San Bernardino freeways to indicate the direction to the Long Beach freeway. Asst. Mgr. Glenn Irvin says the question is not closed and the chamber will continue to fight for the signs.

THIS DEPT. agrees that the effort should be continued.

While it obviously would be silly to put the names of every possible destination ahead on the freeway interchange signs, there's a difference in our situation.

What we want is a sign indicating another freeway—not just another city.

Evidence continues to mount up showing that large numbers of motorists do not know how to reach Long Beach from Los Angeles by freeway.

By the way, County Supervisor Burton Chace has joined in the demand for better signing. Let's keep the pressure on.

THE NEW 'phone books were distributed at an exceptionally appropriate time last week for a Long Beach secretary whose boss, a top executive, has a way of calling her at any time and place and rattling off some dictation.

He called her at home the other night about 10 o'clock and promptly launched into dictation.

The poor gal had no paper at hand and his voice indicated he would brook no interruption. So she began making notes on the margins of pages in the telephone book, filling several before the session ended.

Next day, she tore out the pages and took them to the office for transcribing. She felt a little bad about the ruined 'phone book but had no alternative.

When she arrived home that evening, a brand new 'phone directory lay at her front door.

A FELLOW who already had been arrested more than 80 times for drunkenness got picked up again the other eve. From his jail cell he sent a note to the Long Beach area office of the county probation dept. which read:

"I am an applicant for prohibition and I think I'm a good suspect."

He'll get no argument from the police and probation staff on that point.

Some Chest Units Sight Their Goals

All but two divisions of the United Neighbors Community Chest campaign are in the field following unit kickoffs during the past three weeks, James G. Craig, Jr., drive chairman reported Saturday.

"Progress reports from the advance gifts division and the residential special gifts section reveal that they are within sight of their quotas," Craig said.

"Thanks to the 120 firms which have furnished 276 executives to man the financial, industrial, commercial, retail, oil and Lakewood business unit divisions, we have the best coverage we have ever had."

Open House at Douglas Aircraft

The huge Long Beach aircraft plant, at Lakewood Blvd. and Carson St., will hold open house today from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m.

On view to the public for the first time here will be a Douglas Thor missile, erected inside its special shelter. Although the missile is not produced at Long Beach, the vital ground equipment is in production here.

The first DC8 jetliner, now under test at Edwards Air Force Base, is expected to return to Municipal Airport for display during the open house.

Also ready for inspection will be the giant C133 Cargomaster, C124 Globemaster and the jet RB66 Destroyer aircraft, products of the Long Beach Division of Douglas.

Due to plant security, no cameras will be permitted on the Douglas premises.

HOMEOWNERS PROTEST

Company Wants Reserves Hiked

By EARL GRISWOLD

A Carson Park home owners meeting will be held Thursday to protest a mortgage company's action in sending out bills ranging up to $300 to boost reserves in house payment funds.

Benny A. Hernandez of 3709 Ostrom Ave. said the meeting, scheduled at 7:30 p.m. in De Mille Junior High School auditorium, is open to the "hundreds of families" who have received the bills from Investors Diversified Services, Inc. (formerly Syndicate Mortgage Co.

Hernandez, whose house is in Long Beach, said the letter he received from the firm requests him to pay $236 by next April 1 to cover the shortage in his reserve fund.

* * * *

HAROLD WELLS, senior accountant for the City of Lakewood, said "about 100" homeowners in that city have called him for explanations of the bills. The firm holds mortgages on about 4,500 homes in the City of Lakewood, with about 8,000 homes outside Lakewood.

R. E. Forsman, spokesman for Investors Diversified, said the letters for reserve fund payments were sent out to "probably 1,000 or so" homeowners in Lakewood and east Long Beach areas.

Forsman said the company's action followed audits which show "adjustments" are needed because of "changes in the amounts of tax payments and/or insurance bills. The firm's accounts normally pay their property taxes and home insurance through their monthly house payments.

* * * *

HERNANDEZ SAID the firm's letter to him showed his reserve fund had dropped to a deficit of $34.82, whereas it should be $261.35 in the black.

"I don't question the figures," he said. "But I think we homeowners do have good reason to protest the company's method of auditing which would permit our reserve funds to be depleted, making a big lump-sum payment necessary to bring it up to date. I think they should extend the time to pay beyond the April 1 date."

Post New Signs on Speeding

Posting of new speed limit signs on five more Long Beach streets was announced Saturday by Sgt. Gil B. Smith of the motor patrol.

In several areas, limits have been raised in line with a program of "realistic" postings. Affected streets follow:

Pacific Ave.—Ocean Blvd. to 7th St., remains the same, 25 mph; 7th to Spring St., increased from 25 to 30; Spring to Appian Way and continuation of Appian Way to Wardlow Rd., reduced from 55 to 35; Wardlow Rd. to San Antonio Dr., increased from 25 to 30; north of San Antonio Dr. remains 25.

Pine Ave.—Ocean Blvd. to 7th St., remains 25; 7th to Willow St., increased from 25 to 30; north of Willow, remains 25.

California Ave.—7th St. to Signal Hill city limit north of 23rd St., increased from 25 to 30; Wardlow Rd. to San Antonio Dr., increased from 25 to 30; north of Market St., remains 25.

Magnolia Ave.—Ocean Blvd. to 7th St., remains 25; 7th to Anaheim St., increased from 25 to 30; Anaheim to 16th St., remains 25; 16th to Wardlow Rd., increased from 25 to 30.

Cedar Ave.—Ocean Blvd. to 7th St., remains 25; 7th to Pacific Coast Hwy., increased from 25 to 30; north of the highway remains 25.

Delay Faces El Dorado's Golfing Fans

By GEORGE WEEKS

Golf enthusiasts looking forward to the development of a proposed new course in El Dorado Park will have to wait their turn.

After a series of parleys involving park, planning and recreational authorities, city officials have rejected a plea that the golf project be advanced in priority at the expense of other scheduled improvements an the same park.

Some pro-golf advocates had urged that all available bond funds be alloted to construction of the new course and improvement of the park areas in the 278 acres west of San Gabriel River.

That would have left most of the 549 acres east of the river in its present status of farm land, with the city continuing to lease it for farming.

* * * *

IT ALSO WOULD have meant a sharp departure from the original allocation of the $924,000 authorized for El Dorado at part of the $4,900,000 park and recreation bond issue.

That schedule called for $450,000 to be spent for irrigation and tree planting east of the river. The balance was to go for the clubhouse and playground area west of the river and south of Spring St. (now developed) and for water lines and trees in the remaining westerly area.

City administrative officials recommended, and city councilmen agreed, to retain the original plan with only slight modification.

* * * *

UNDER THIS PROGRAM, the Studebaker Rd. area will be developed more thoroughly for park purposes. Only grading and tree planting will be done immediately in the golf course section of 167 acres. Tree planting and extension of water lines along with some grading will be carried out in selected portion of the easterly area, which is remote from Long Beach's center of population.

Thus the completion of the golf course must await the availability of special projects money from the regular city budget — not bond funds — for sprinkler installation, more intensive planting and construction of a clubhouse.

City Mgr. Sam E. Vickers refused to speculate on the schedule for the completion of the 18-hole course. He noted however, that a similar method of special projects financing is being followed in construction of the Skylinks course east of Municipal Airport, scheduled for completion early next year.

PEDESTRIAN KILLED

Navy Man Jailed in Hit-Run Death

A Navy fireman was charged with the hit-run death of an elderly pedestrian early Saturday following his arrest by police aboard the USS Isle Royale.

Francis J. Simons, 22, admitted he was the driver of the car which struck and killed Paul Salerno, 51, of 645 E. 9th St., shortly after midnight at 5th St. and Alamitos Ave., according to police.

Simons' swift arrest came after officers found the death car parked near Municipal Auditorium. Asleep in the back seat was the car's owner, David Scioli, 21, who said he had no recollection of the accident but gave police the names of several buddies he had been with the previous night.

* * * *

SIMONS ADMITTED he was the driver, and said he fled from the scene because his driver's license had been revoked following another Long Beach accident earlier this year.

Scioli was booked on suspicion of armed robbery when police found a .22-caliber automatic pistol in the car.

Salerno died in Seaside Memorial Hospital at 1:50 a.m. He was the city's 25th traffic fatality this year, and the 15th pedestrian to be killed.

* * * *

HE IS SURVIVED by his wife, Beatrice; two sons, Joseph and Caesar; three daughters, Louise Wiggam, Irene Denham and Jean Salerno, and five grandchildren.

Rosary will be recited at 7:30 p.m. Monday in Mottell's & Peek Mortuary chapel, and requiem Mass will be offered in St. Anthony's Church at 8 a.m. Tuesday.

Thief Flees Bedroom as She Screams

By HERB SHANNON

Wakened from a sound sleep by a warm sensation on her lips, the young woman in the Belmont Shore apartment suddenly realized a strange man in her room was kissing her.

At her terrorized scream, he leaped back, lifted a finger to his lips and whispered:

"Shhh. It's only me."

This incident early Saturday morning ended in the same way as 16 similar incidents since the first one in July, according to police records. Screams of the victim finally succeeded in frightening off the osculating prowler.

In some cases the boudoir burglar has taken whatever money he could find, but in every instance the victim has been young and attractive and awakened by a kiss or by being fondled.

* * * *

HAS THIS MACABRE game of post office become a group fad or is the bussing burglar of Belmont Shore a single satyr?

Police Sgt. Joe Morrill, in charge of the investigation, is of the latter opinion.

"For one thing," Sgt. Morrill explained, "he generally works the same area—Belmont Shore or close to it. And he always uses the same expression when the women start screeming.

"He never wears a mask and we have a pretty good description of him now. There's no question in my mind that all these jobs were done by one person."

* * * *

THE ROBBER ROMEO in Saturday's incident was described as about 20 years old, slender and with a thin face. This tallies closely with previous descriptions varying from 19 to 23 years of age, tall, crewcut brown hair and a small, thin mouth.

Sometimes the kissing bandit partly disrobes and has been seen in some weird costumes, but all in similar theme, Sgt. Morrill said. He has been glimpsed in swim trunks, with a towel wrapped around his waist, in split-knee shorts, and at least once in a woman's slip with lace on the bottom.

* * * *

THE LATTER GARB led to the arrest of a Navy sailor when he was found carrying feminine underclothing inside his jacket on Oct. 3, but Sgt. Morrill is convinced the sailor was not the kiss-and-steal suspect. He has since been released to the Navy.

Of one thing, Sgt. Morrill is certain. The lips that touch those of his victims are not averse to the kiss of the hops.

"All the women agree on that," Sgt. Morrill disclosed. "He drinks."

CALL A TRUCE

Democrats, GOP Back S and T

Long Beach Democrats and Republicans Saturday called a truce long enough to announce that they agree on at least one point—that Propositions S and T are strictly non-political, non-partisan measures deserving the support of all.

Emanuel Gyler, president of the 18th Congressional District California Democratic Council, and Mrs. John D. Bowler Jr., president of the 18th Congressional District Republican Women Federated, jointly announced the backing of their organizations for the "Jobs for Long Beach" program.

* * * *

SAID GYLER: "We are strongly urging all Democrats, together with all other public-spirited citizens to vote for S and T."

Said Mrs. Bowler: "My organization feels that S and T will increase job opportunities and improve the general standard of living in this community. It is a pleasure to lend the support of our group to non-partisan propositions that have been conceived and developed for the long-range benefit of every man, woman and child residing in this area."

Gyler's organization, the CDC, includes all organized Democratic groups in the area. Their memberships total about 1,800. Presidents of 15 Democratic organizations plus delegates from the 18th District State Committee and the 70th and 44th District County Committees attended the meeting at which the CDC endorsed the measures.

* * * *

MRS. BOWLER'S organization of Republican women endorsed the measure through an executive board representing 900 members.

Propositions S and T will provide Long Beach with more spacious convention facilities and beautify access streets. The program is designed to attract new investments to Long Beach and create new jobs here.

Two hundred groups have endorsed the program, and 35,000 individuals have announced their support.

Fred Miller, general chairman of the "Jobs" committee, reported Saturday that both group and individual endorsements continue to pour in.

Heat Linked to Cancers

NEW YORK (UPI)—Scientists have turned up evidence indicating that extreme heat might be a cancer-inducing factor, the American Cancer Society said Saturday.

It said that Dr. Stephen Zamenhof and Dr. Sheldon Greer, both of Columbia University, have produced mutations in bacteria with temperatures of 140 degrees Fahrenheit.

Many scientists, the society said, believe that the cancer cell is a body cell which has mutated.

It said that the work of Zamenhof and Greer "could indicate — but not prove — that temperature, along with light, may be one explanation for the fact that there is five times as much skin cancer in the warm and sunny southwest as in the Great Lakes area."

The two scientists used common intestinal bacteria in their experiments.

Brown Cites Actions Taken on Bonelli Extradition

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — Sen. William F. Knowland charged Saturday that his Democratic opponent for governor, Atty. Gen. Edmund G. Brown, "was trying to delay the return of William Bonelli from Mexico until after the November election."

Brown said Knowland's statement was "far-fetched" and that Knowland evidently had chosen to ignore the record of the attorney general's office in connection with the Bonelli case.

"The senator," Brown said, "persists in playing politics with law enforcement in this state."

* * * *

KNOWLAND in a statement said he had asked in a telegram to President Eisenhower that Bonelli "be returned to California expeditiously" for prosecution, but Brown had made no such request.

Brown also commented: "I deeply regret that the senator has by implication cast a reflection on the sincerity and ability of Dist. Attys. Mackey of Riverside County, and Keller of San Diego County, as well as Gov. Knight, who has been very active in the matter of cooperation on the Bonelli extradition.

* * * *

"I HAVE FULL confidence," Brown continued, "in California law enforcement officials, and as soon as Bonelli is returned to California by the federal authorities pursuant to the indictments we obtained, I am sure the accused will be brought to trial by Dist. Atty. Mackey in Riverside County, where the indictment is returnable."

Bonelli, former State Board of Equilization member, faces bribery and conspiracy indictments in Southern California.

"When Bonelli, as a state official, was extorting money from the liquor industry, my opponent did nothing," Knowland asserted.

* * * *

"WHEN BONELLI escaped to Arizona, Brown dragged his feet in obtaining extradition papers."

Brown's spokesman said the attorney general had made many efforts to bring Bonelli back to California, and on two occasions had sent investigators to Mexico to look into the matter.

Brown, in a speech at Vallejo Saturday, proposed a "one-stop center" in California where industries considering moving to this state could obtain unbiased economic information.

"California's economy must provide 200,000 new jobs a year for our rapid population growth, and to accomplish this we must attract business to invest an additional one billion dollars a year in this state," Brown said at a Democratic campaign luncheon.

Unions Fight Referendums in Six States

By WILLIAM J. EATON

WASHINGTON (UPI)—AFL-CIO officials said Saturday that organized labor's struggle to block passage of "right-to-work" referendums is far from won.

Once source within the federation said the vote could go either way in five of the six states where the issue will be placed before voters Nov. 4.

"But we haven't given up," the official said. "We believe that if enough people know what it's all about, they will dump right-to-work."

Washington is regarded as the state where labor's forces have the best chance to stop enactment of a law banning the union shop, AFL-CIO sources said.

California, Ohio, Kansas, Idaho and Colorado voters also will decide whether to adopt "right-to-work" measures this fall. The six-state stakes have trigged a record propaganda barrage from business organizations and labor unions.

* * * *

IN ADDITION, Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif) has made "right-to-work" the central issue of his campaign for governor in California. It's a heated topic in Ohio, too.

Opposing the AFL-CIO in the fight, the National Right-to-Work Committee here is optimistic.

W. T. Harrison, executive secretary of the committee, said reports from right-to-work proponents two weeks ago indicated that Kansas was certain to adopt such law.

"I don't see how we can lose in more than two states," he told United Press International.

He said a groundswell of public opinion, partly due to disclosures of labor-management corruption by Senate investigations, was responsible for the trend. Eighteen states already have right-to-work laws on the books.

AFL-CIO pessimism is based on the fact that even where labor-backed candidates are far ahead in opinion polls, the labor-opposed proposal is getting considerable support.

* * * *

REPORTS FILTERING in to AFL-CIO headquarters indicate that unions are faring the worst in Idaho, Kansas and Ohio.

If Ohio voters outlawed the union shop it would be a major setback for labor in the nation's third-ranking industrial state. AFL-CIO aides take heart from the fact that Ohio voter registration is at a record high this year.

In California and Colorado, labor leaders are "running scared." But they believe the polls showing Knowland running far behind his Democratic opponent are good news for foes of the right-to-work campaign.

There is one trump card labor could play if it had the support of a majority of Congress. By repealing a section of the Taft-Hartley law authorizing state "right-to-work" measures, Congress could wipe all such laws off the books in one fell swoop.

14,000 Out on Strike at Cat Tractor

PEORIA, Ill. (UPI) — A strike at Caterpillar Tractor Company's three plants idled more than 14,000 workers Saturday.

Officials said 12,000 Peoria workers walked out of the company's main plant, while another 1,800 workers struck at Caterpillar's Decatur, Ill., plant and 560 struck at the firm's York, Pa., shops.

The United Auto Workers' contract with Caterpillar had expired July 30 but workers had remained on the job under a temporary agreement. The UAW announced five days ago it would strike at 7:18 a.m. Saturday.

Union officials said the primary issue involved getting similar contracts for all three plants. Union negotiators earlier rejected Caterpillar's proposal of a three-year contract with annual wage increases.

The union said the proposal did not meet patterns set in UAW bargaining with auto manufacturers in Detroit.

Knowland, Engle Plan L.B. Talks

By THE LOOKOUT

Sen. William F. Knowland, Republican nominee for governor, will spend a busy three hours in Long Beach, Tuesday, leading off with an "Issues for Californians" address before Long Beach Kiwanians in the Lafayette Hotel at noon.

At 1:30 p.m., the senator will stop by Republican Headquarters, 250 E. Ocean Blvd., to cut an "Ike Birthday" cake. The cake-cutting is a feature of the Republicans' 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. open house in honor of President Eisenhower's birthday. Visitors may sign a scroll to the President which will be sent to him immediately after the open house.

Knowland's next stop will be a tea from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Lorne D. Middough residence, 1121 El Mirador. He is scheduled to enplane at Long Beach Airport at 2:45 p.m. for a flight to San Francisco and a reception and $100-a-plate Nixon dinner in the Cow Palace.

* * * *

ENGLE SPEAKS HERE MONDAY

Congressman Clair Engle, nominee for U.S. Senate, will head a bill of five Democratic candidates speaking at 1:30 p.m. Monday before the California Institute of Social Welfare at Morgan Hall, 835 Locust Ave.

Others are Glenn Anderson, nominee for lieutenant governor; State Sen. Richard Richards; Superior Judge Stanley Mosk, for attorney general, and Joseph M. Kennick, for 44th District (west Long Beach) Assembly. Institute Chairman George McLain invited public attendance.

* * * *

BURMESTER LAUDS GRANT

H. F. (Hank) Burmester, retired Press-Telegram editor, said Saturday it would be "ridiculous" to turn Assemblyman William S. Grant out of office in the face of such accomplishments as:

"Chiefly responsible for obtaining State College; instrumental in saving a large portion of tideland oil revenue for the city; fought for strict narcotics laws; wrote a proposed constitutional amendment to give the Southland legal right to surplus northern California water; struggled 12 years to keep the recently finished Long Beach Freeway on the priority list."

* * * *

HERB KLOCKSIEM

Assemblyman Herbert R. Klocksiem (R-44th) urged "more self-control and self-discipline . . . doing without some things, possibly good things . . . not to expect more and more services from government if we are to keep taxes down."

He cited his vote against driver-license photos which "is proving so costly that the Motor Vehicle Dept. has urged its discontinuance," and his aid in killing a bill for $300,000 to reflectorize license plates.

* * * *

JOE KENNICK

S. S. Conklin said the original "Committee of 1,000" for election of Joseph M. Kennick to the State Assembly, 44th District, "has grown to over 19,000 and the committee has set a goal of 25,000."

Conklin characterized Kennick as a man "whose ability and vigor are needed to help solve serious problems including tidelands oil money, freeways, soaring cost of living, inefficiency and duplication in government agencies, education, water and population expansion."

MAY CHARGES SMEAR

Taking exception to Congressman Craig Hosmer's reference to "this stranger who migrated here . . ." Harry S. May, Democratic nominee for Hosmer's 18th District seat charged Hosmer with "the McCarthy-Nixon tactic of smear and fear . . . he called Congressman Clyde Doyle a Communist, Clair Engle a boondock congressman, Sen. Wayne Morse a carpetbagger and now me, the stranger and immigrant.

"I am proud to be a stranger who migrated here. American history is full of examples of men who have come here and made their contributions to American civilization, men who have left an indelible imprint on the cultural firmament of their adopted homeland. The native son has neither an exclusive claim to greatness nor restricted prerogatives to brains. A man's stature can be appraised only by those men and women who find in his acts and pronouncements a true reflection of their own hopes and desires.

"Long Beach is no longer a country club. It has grown from a small town into a metropolitan community through the toil and contributions of its strangers."

GEN. SCHRIEVER
For Space Supremacy

Moon Rocket Schriever's Pet Project

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chalk up a victory for Maj. Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, a strong advocate of Air Force leadership in space exploration.

As commander of the Air Force Ballistic Missile Division, the 48-year-old German-born Schriever had over-all responsibility in the firing of the moon rocket, Pioneer.

Recognition of Schriever's role in this feat came from Dr. T. Keith Glennan, chief of the new National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Glennan sent a message of congratulations to the general, and to military and civilian personnel who helped in preparation for the launching at Cape Canaveral, Fla.

* * * *

AFTER RUSSIA sent aloft the world's first satellite about a year ago, Schriever argued that freedom itself may depend on space battles of the future. And he spoke repeatedly about the race with Russia for space supremacy.

One of Schriever's biggest jobs is supervising development and testing of the Air Force's intercontinental-range and intermediate-range ballistic rockets—weapons designed to deliver nuclear destruction to the homeland of any would-be aggressor.

Although a veteran warplane pilot, Schriever has been pictured as contending missiles and space craft are certain to succeed manned aircraft before very long.

Schriever, an engineer as well as a soldier, flew 63 bomber missions in the Pacific in World War II, winning an array of decorations. He came out of the war a colonel and got his first star in 1953.

* * * *

BORN IN BREMEN, Germany, on Sept. 14, 1910, Schriever came as a boy to New Braunfels, Tex. This was after his father, a seafarer, had been interned in the United States at the outbreak of World War I. The family was naturalized in 1923.

Schriever is tall and ruddy-faced, with dark hair and a youthful look. An engineering graduate of Texas A & M, he served a tour of duty with the old Army Air Corps in the early 1930s, then worked as a civilian airline pilot before going back into service to stay in 1938.

In 1938, Schriever married Dora Brett, daughter of an Air Corps general who had been his commander during a tour in the Canal Zone. The Schrievers have one son, Brett, and two daughters, Barbara and Dora.

Mars Vapor Measure Try Slated

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Navy said Saturday that a scientist next month will try to measure water vapor in the atmosphere of Mars with a special telescope carried to 80,000 feet by a balloon.

The balloon will be launched early in the month from the Stratobowl near Rapid City, S. D., site of previous high altitude launchings. It is expected to stay aloft 24 hours.

Dr. John Strong of the Johns Hopkins University will study water content of the Martian atmosphere by means of a camera mounted on top of the gondola. Cmdr. Malcolm D. Ross, veteran Navy balloonist and physicist, will go along as pilot.

In later flights the Navy plans to study the oxygen content of Mars and observe conditions on the other planets, the sun, and possibly stars.

Japanese to Brazil

KOBE (AP)—A Japanese ship is en route to Brazil with 516 immigrants from Japan. They plan to settle near Manaus City, 650 miles up the Amazon River. Brazil already has a big Japanese colony.

Ray Dangers Measured by Ion Chamber

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — A small, silvery tube inside the moon rocket may give the answer on how soon and how far man may go into space.

Radiation measurements by the 1½-ounce ionization chamber may reveal that several thousand miles out in space there is little radiation danger to man, Dr. James A. Van Allen and Carl E. McIlwain of the State University of Iowa said Saturday.

The two physicists designed and developed the particle counter which can measure radiation intensities from one to a million Roentgens an hour.

Data analyzed here from the Explorer IV satellite disclosed radiation intensities of up to 10 Roentgens an hour 1,2000 miles above the earth. Scientists said sufficient exposure to radiation of such intensity could prove fatal to man.

* * * *

THE TUBE IN the moon rocket may disclose, however, that several thousand miles in outer space radiation is not a barrier to human space travel, the Iowa physicists said.

The particle counter is an argon-gas-filled cylinder 2½ inches long and 1¾ inches in diameter which continuously radios its radiation count back to Earth.

Dr. Van Allen said success of the study does not depend on whether the rocket even comes near the moon.

Van Allen planned the experiment about six months ago and McIlwain, a research assistant, designed the counter's sensitive circuitry. The tube was built by Anton Electronic Laboratories of Brooklyn, N.Y.

4 Stations Triangulate Moon Rocket

WASHINGTON (AP)—The distance of moon rocket Pioneer away from the earth is determined by a triangulation method similar to that used in air and sea navigation.

Pentagon officials explained that four tracking stations are able to obtain bearings on Pioneer. Calculations as to its distance from the earth can be made by using any of the two bearings as the base of a triangle.

The bearings are sent to the control center at the Air Force Ballistic Missiles Division, Los Angeles, where reports and trajectory predictions are made.

The four stations obtaining the bearings are at Manchester, England; Patrick Air Force Base, Fla.; Millstone Hill, Westford, Mass., and in Hawaii.

Von Braun Hails Shot as Success

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y. (AP) —Dr. Wernher von Braun, the Army's top civilian scientist and developer of Germany's V2 rocket in World War II, Saturday night called the Pioneer missile to the moon "a remarkable success."

"It's a tall order to expect to orbit the moon on the first try," Dr. Von Braun told the Study Club of International Business Machines in a lecture.

He said that the Army does not expect to send Explorer missiles to the moon but will launch "two lunar probes with configurations in the near future." He did not elaborate.

MANILA, Philippines, (Sunday) (UP)—A motor launch with 200 persons aboard was reported sunk north of Cebu Island today.

Ships in the area radioed 137 survivors were picked up but said many bodies, mostly children, were seen floating on the water.

The motor launch was on a trip from Masbate Island across the Visayan Sea to Bantayan Island.

Balloon Atomic Shot Postponed to Monday

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (UP) — A nuclear weapons test slated for detonation at 6:20 a.m. today has been postponed 24 hours for technical reasons.

The Atomic Energy Commission said the shot, fifth in the current series of ten, now is scheduled for 6:20 a.m. Monday. It will be fired from a balloon tethered 1,500 feet above Yucca Flat.

4th Trigger of Pioneer in Hawaii

HONOLULU, T.H. (UPI)—A husky 39-year-old grandfather whose trailer headquarters is the most remote outpost for control of American moon rockets will fire the fourth stage of Pioneer Monday, even though the missile may never reach its destination.

Engineer Richard G. Stephenson, the "golden fingered triggerman," is in charge of the Air Force tracking station at South Point, on the Island of Hawaii.

Stephenson and his small staff of scientists played two key roles in Friday's firing of the rocket Pioneer. They have tracked it from the moment it left its Cape Canaveral, Fla., launching pad and pressed the button which dropped a cluster of already dead booster rockets.

• • • •

SOMETIME Monday Stephenson will trigger the final "retro-rocket" stage of the missile, even though chances are the fourth stage boost will not carry the Pioneer into orbit around the moon as planned.

Chief of space communications and tracking for the Space Technology Laboratories, of Los Angeles, Stephenson is a graduate of Oberlin (Ohio) University, the father of four and a grandfather.

His trigger button is housed in a 25-foot Air Force trailer parked inside a 500-square-foot fenced field. In the center of the field is a huge parabolic antenna used to follow rocket tracks. Other equipment at the site include four sets of four helical antenna—long white pipes with tubing spiraling around them.

The site is in direct teletype contact with the Air Force Ballistics Missile Division in Los Angeles.

Red Papers Give Report of Pioneer

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet Sunday newspapers Saturday night printed a 250-word factual report on the U.S. moon rocket.

The story was a Soviet Tass news agency dispatch from New York and included basic facts about the rocket, including its dimensions. The dispatch said it was continuing on its course toward the moon.

Neither Tass nor Moscow Radio had carried any word on the rocket for home consumption Saturday. Only news broadcasts to southeast Asia in English and to the Middle East in Arabic mentioned it, quoting United Press International dispatches.

If the rocket does reach a successful orbit around the moon, Soviet scientists were sure to extend their congratulations to the American rocketeers.

Failure probably would bring man-in-the-street talk of "another American failure"—a favorite topic of conversation during the initial unsuccessful efforts of the United States to launch an earth satellite.

California Firms Key to Moonshot

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fifty-two scientific and industrial firms worked with the Air Force on the moon rocket probe project.

Key roles were played by Space Technology Laboratories, Douglas Aircraft Co., and Rocketdyne, all of Los Angeles, and Aerojet-General, Azusa, Calif. Most of the other companies involved were subcontractors.

Space Technology Laboratories had over-all technical direction and systems engineering responsibility for the project.

Douglas was the test conductor for the rocket and handled instrumentation and assembly of the first stage.

Rocketdyne was responsible for the propulsion system in the first stage.

Aerojet-General handled the propulsion system for the second stage.

All four companies were represented in the launching crew.

Quemoy Isle Waiting Out 7-Day Truce

TAIPEI, Sunday (AP)—Nationalist China waited out today the final hours of the Communist - proclaimed seven - day cease-fire in Formosa Strait.

Under the silent Red guns, the Nationalist garrison on Quemoy has been solidly strengthened by new troops, heavy cannon and more supplies than it had before the firing began Aug. 23.

Evacuation of an estimated 6,000 civilians from Quemoy and Little Quemoy to Formosa was in its final stage late Saturday. The stream of refugees, mostly elderly persons and children, was attempting to beat the Sunday midnight deadline, when the firing might be resumed.

For the third straight day, cargo ships, including two merchant freighters and two LSTs, stood off Quemoy beach and pumped ammunition, oil, barbed wire, blankets and foodstuffs into the island. Those waiting to be evacuated boarded the cargo ships after supplies were unloaded.

• • • •

THE POSSIBILITY of an extension of the cease-fire was a great unanswered question in the Nationalist Chinese capital, as elsewhere in the world. Nationalist officials have repeatedly expressed the belief the Reds will start shooting again when it suits them.

But there was speculation the Nationalists had left an opening for accepting possible reduction of their Quemoy garrison if a more permanent cease-fire is negotiated by the United States, providing they get some new form of new guarantee from America.

This feeling was based on Foreign Minister Huang Shao-ku's Independence Day message, in which he rejected two suggested solutions to the crisis —turn over the offshore islands to the Communists or agree to their neutralization.

Marshall, Air Pioneer, Dies at 84

Retired Rear Adm. Albert Ware Marshall, 84, pioneer Navy aviator, died Wednesday of a cerebral hemorrhage in the San Diego Naval Hospital.

A long time member of the Long Beach Propeller Club, he made his home in Coronado, across the bay from San Diego.

An 1896 graduate of Annapolis, Adm. Marshall commanded a destroyer squadron at San Diego in 1922. He was holder of the Distinguished Service Medal for mining operations in the North Sea during World War I.

• • • •

HE PUT INTO commission the aircraft carrier Lexington and served as its first captain in 1927. He also commanded aircraft squadrons of the Battle Fleet, now known as the Pacific Fleet.

He was commandant of the 15th Naval District, Panama, when he retired in 1938.

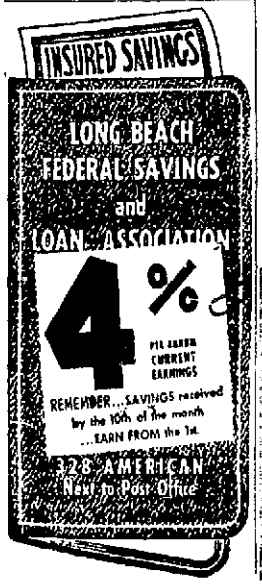

Survivors include a son, Ware, with whom he made his home in Coronado and two sisters in Texas.

Services will be in San Diego Tuesday.

EDITORIAL

We Endorse Pat Brown

THESE NEWSPAPERS recommend the election of Atty. Gen. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown as California's governor.

We have reached this position after long and careful consideration. We are convinced, first of all, that Mr. Brown has the qualifications of ability and experience to make a top-flight governor.

We are not unmindful of the many qualities of Mr. Brown's opponent, Sen. W. F. Knowland. If Mr. Knowland had sought re-election to the U. S. Senate, he would have our endorsement and support today.

But Sen. Knowland chose to run instead for governor, and that has brought a new set of factors that have strongly influenced our decision.

AS WAS STATED ON THIS page a few days ago, we like the way the state is presently run. We feel strongly that the present state officials are doing a good job, and we are recommending the re-election of those statewide office-holders now seeking re-election.

Atty. Gen. Brown is one of the state officials whose work has won our respect and approval. He was twice elected to the attorney-generalship, the last time winning both the Democratic and Republican nominations. We supported his candidacy in that primary.

While Mr. Brown is not seeking re-election, he is running for another state office. We feel that it is consistent to support his candidacy along with those of Lt. Gov. Harold Powers, State Controller Robert Kirkwood, State Treasurer Ronald Button and Secretary of State Frank Jordan. These five men have performed most satisfactorily in state office; it is good sense to elect them to state office this November.

Eight years in a key state office have made Pat Brown thoroughly familiar with the state government and its problems. In this field, he has the edge over Sen. Knowland, whose work has been in the federal Congress. Sen. Knowland has borne great responsibilities as Republican leader in the Senate, leaving him little time to keep tab on the state government in which he had no direct responsibility for more than a dozen years.

THERE IS AN INTERESTING and significant contrast in the ways in which Atty. Gen. Brown and Sen. Knowland got into the governorship race.

Last Sunday, we pointed out here that Sen. Knowland made his decision without consultation with leaders of his party or with the elected Republican officials—despite the obvious probability that his candidacy would have grave disrupting effects on the party this year.

Before we made those comments, we interviewed Republican leaders and confirmed that Sen. Knowland had not consulted with them. We also interviewed a number of Democratic leaders and asked them similar questions about the attitude of Atty. Gen. Brown before he announced for the governorship.

We learned that Mr. Brown's decision followed numerous party consultations, as well as a questionnaire to Democratic leaders throughout the state, and that Mr. Brown was strongly urged by his fellow Democrats to go for the governorship. Those who gave us this information include William C. Rosenthal, State Democratic chairman; Joseph Wyatt, head of the California Democratic Council, and State Sen. Richard Richards.

ALL OF THIS SHOWS that Pat Brown has the qualities that make for a good team man—a man who will cooperate and work with others. We believe that if elected Governor, he would work in close coordination with other state officials, even though they be Republican.

We do not hesitate, therefore, to endorse his candidacy, along with those of a number of Republican incumbents seeking state office. We believe voters generally would be wise if they followed this pattern, basing judgment on the candidate and his particular qualifications and experience rather than blindly marking their ballots according to party label.

GOP Leaders Try to Rally the Party

By WALTER T. RIDDER, ROBERT E. LEE AND BILL BROOM

WASHINGTON—Republican strategists admit they don't expect to frighten many voters with the revival of the old war cry that the Democrats are trying to lead the nation into socialism. But the new campaign technique of pinning a Socialist label on nearly every Democrat outside the Deep South was carefully planned with an important object in mind: rallying GOP organization workers around a familiar old slogan. Party leaders figure this is the surest way to fight what they frankly acknowledge as a severe case of apathy in the ranks.

Many grass roots Republican workers, GOP chieftains say, just aren't giving it the old college try this year because they're sore about two things: measly patronage pickings and the fact that the party has been asked to support a lot of White House legislative proposals they think more properly should be the property of the Democrats. However, one thing all Republicans can agree on is the danger of socialism and party headquarters is using it to stir up some enthusiasm.

THIS COLUMN REPORTED two weeks ago that GOP Chairman Meade Alcorn calls the Democratic Party the "Democrat Party" because it enrages his opposite number, Democratic Chairman Paul Butler. Well, it also annoys the Washington Post, if that gives Meade any additional pleasure. The Post commented editorially last week that the Democrats may want to accuse the Republicans of "being so desperate about the forthcoming elections that they are reduced to chipping away at the opposition party name in the fashion of the old-time coin chippers as the only way to cut down their foes."

The Post management also suggested that the Democrats start referring to "Mr. Alec and Mr. Eisenhow and Mr. Nix of the Publican Ministration."

Pope Dies but His Doctrines of Moral Force Will Survive

WASHINGTON—a great man—perhaps one of the greatest of the last hundred years—has died in Rome. But his works, his utterances, his preachings, not merely of the gospel but on the ethics of mankind, will live on for generations.

LAWRENCE

For Pope Pius XII was more than the head of a powerful church in the world. He was an inspiring leader of men, and much of what he said could be accepted as sound logic, irrespective of sectarian beliefs.

The late Pope made so many remarkable addresses that the books which contain them will be read and reread for pertinent quotations concerning affairs of state, including both internal and external policies.

For many years this correspondent has studied the papal utterances, and has frequently quoted from them the doctrines of moral force that could influence governments as well as peoples in the attainment of world peace.

Not only on international but on internal affairs, his holiness has been incisive in his comments. An address on the Christian aspect in business, which he made to a group of businessmen in Rome on April 14, 1956, particularly comes to mind. It applies as much to controversies of the day in this country as it does in many other democracies of the world. He said:

"Your labors make it clear once again how much can be accomplished in the field of production by private initiative properly understood and reasonably free from interference. This private initiative contributes to the wealth of the community, alleviates, as well, the burden of human toil, raises the efficiency of labor, diminishes the costs of production and develops the habit of saving.

* * * *

FOR THIS reason the church has never ceased and will not cease to react unfavorably to the attempts which have been made in certain countries to attribute to the state powers and duties which it does not possess. The Church, after the example of her Divine Founder, gives to Caesar all that is Caesar's; she could not give more without betraying her mission and mandate entrusted to her by Christ.

"Wherefore, just as the Church does not hesitate to raise her voice in protest when the civil power tries to arrogate to itself a monopoly of the instruction and education of the young, so in like manner she opposes, on the basis of moral principles, everyone who would attribute to the state excessive control over the economic life of its citizens.

"Where this interference is not restrained, there can be no adequate solution of the social question. Where this interference is extended to 'total planning,' certain aims are realized, but only at the cost of inestimable losses brought about by an insane and destructive urge. The just liberties of the individual are destroyed. The serenity of labor is disturbed. The sacred character of the family is violated. The love of country is corrupted. The precious patrimony of religion is obliterated.

"We hope, therefore, that responsible men will not yield to the easy temptation of inviting, on the part of the state, an excessive interference which would embarrass, discourage and suffocate the independent action of men who, while they work, of course, for their own legitimate interests, still are making an essential contribution to the welfare of all their fellow-citizens as well as to the prosperity of their native land."

John D. Rockefeller Jr. Rich in Humor as Well as Dollars

WASHINGTON—Bernard Gimble, the big department store owner, was helping dedicate a new development near his store at 34th St. in Manhattan. All sorts of visiting dignitaries were invited. Thirty minutes before the event, his secretary telephoned to say that one guest had arrived early. Mr. Gimbel was busy and said he would come up as soon as he could.

"I think you'll want to come right away," said his secretary. "It's Mr. Rockefeller."

* * * *

GIMBEL returned to his office and found John D. Rockefeller, Jr., son of the famous oil pioneer and father of Nelson Rockefeller, candidate for Governor of New York. The two men, one a Baptist oil magnate, the other a Jewish retail merchant, sat for 30 minutes chatting.

"Mr. Gimbel," said Mr. Rockefeller, "I'd like to have your advice. The Social Register wants to change my name to John D. Rockefeller, omitting the junior. I've told them that I am John D. Rockefeller, Jr. Since my father's death, however, they say that I am John D. Rockefeller. I've told them that there was only one John D. Rockefeller and never can be another. One of my boys is named John D. Rockefeller III, and I am still John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

"However, the Social Register insists that I am now John D. Rockefeller. Yesterday," continued John D., "they sent me the new register. Mrs. Rockefeller and I take six copies. I sent them my check in payment signed 'John D. Rockefeller.'

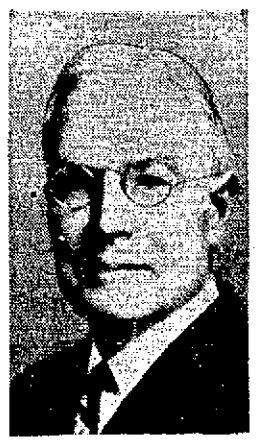

"Do you think," asked John D. with a smile, "they'll be able to cash it?"

JOHN Foster Dulles has been so busy worrying about the brink he faces on the distant island of Quemoy that the State Department has completely neglected a serious economic brink much closer to home.

Thanks to Russia's ruble war, we have let one of our best friends in South America, Bolivia, face near economic disaster.

What's happening is that Russia is dumping cheap tin on European and Asiatic markets. This year she is selling 18,000 tons of tin and it's being gobbled up by England, Japan, and West Germany, all allies of the United States who hitherto bought from Bolivia and the Malays.

ROCKEFELLER
His Check Any Good?

This has undercut the international tin agreement by which Bolivia in the past has been guaranteed a market of 20,000 tons of tin annually.

With this market gone, Bolivia's tin has been piling up at home, unemployment is increasing, and the country faces serious internal problems.

Ambassador Victor Andrade, newly appointed Foreign Minister of Bolivia, has called at the State Department repeatedly to urge that the United States stockpile surplus tin.

But the State Department, busy with Quemoy and Matsu, has not budged.

The Bolivian Congress recently voted overwhelmingly to recognize Russia. For 40 years it had refused to recognize Russia. But the ruble war against Bolivia has convinced the Bolivian Congress that if you can't lick 'em, join 'em.

Disenchanted With Knight

TO THE EDITOR:

You ask in your editorial of Sunday, Oct. 5, whether Sen. Knowland is "a good team player."

You might ask the same thing of Gov. Knight, the Republican candidate for U. S. Senate. What is Gov. Knight doing for the Republican team? Nowhere on his billboards does the word Republican appear. He has two local attorneys sending out literature to Democrats in envelopes that would appear to come from the Democratic Headquarters—envelopes that are designed to create the impression that Mr. Knight is, indeed, a Democrat.

* * * *

GOVERNOR KNIGHT has been pictured in several magazine articles to be a man with little intellectual ability. A man who is likely to break into a fast "buck and wing" at the slightest provocation. Our Governor has never escaped his favorite role—the one that he held many years ago in his high school days — of the "Good Time Charley," happy-go-lucky, cheer-leader.

If there are some Republicans who are unhappy with Sen. Knowland because of his many, grievous faults, there are many others who have long been disenchanted with sometimes Republican Goodie Knight.

Will Cast Her Vote for S and T

TO THE EDITOR:

We have a hard-working convention bureau that does a wonderful job of bringing business to Long Beach year-round. Let's back them up by building the additional exhibit space needed to house the large trade shows and conventions in our auditorium.

I'm going to help Long Beach get a bigger share of the multi-billion dollar convention business by voting in favor of Prop. S & T on Nov. 4

Speaks Up For Sen. Knowland

TO THE EDITOR:

It is certainly the privilege of your newspaper to take a stand on issues as you do, but I am not happy with your editorial of Sunday in which you discussed the worthiness of Sen. Knowland as a "team man."

We have a primary system under which Sen. Knowland entered the arena to offer his wares as a final election candidate in the gubernatorial contest. Your editorial would seem to infer that party bosses should name the candidates and thereby dictate who should or should not be a candidate. If there were so many people so deeply pained by the good Senator's announced intention to run for governor, then why did they not stand up to be counted by encouraging Gov. Knight to fight for his job? Why did not these party stalwarts exert their influence at the California Republican Assembly? If Gov. Knight is so seemingly put upon, where were his supporters?

* * * *

SEN. KNOWLAND has the courage of his convictions and doesn't masquerade under one party's label while wooing the ultra-liberals and union leadership of another party, nor does he try to be all things to all people, if expediency dictates.

May I remind you of the heavily financed attempt in 1948 to defeat the late Sen. Robert A. Taft? And Sen. Taft won by the largest plurality ever racked up in Ohio. I sincerely believe a man can be an effective leader, display courageousness and integrity without selling his soul to any group.

Suggests Vote on Integration

TO THE EDITOR:

Does it not seem rather childish, all this bickering and arguing, school closing, and government troops standing guard over certain schools, when all this could be settled once and for all by a simple little vote of the American people?

After all is not our government supposed to be, "By the People and for the People?"

How does the Supreme Court know whether we wish mixed races in schools or not? How can any branch of the government know, without a vote of all the American people?

Integration or segregation should be accomplished only by the request of all America, I doubt if there is one person in the Supreme Court young enough to have children in any school.

LETTER OF THE WEEK

Stop All Engines

TO THE EDITOR:

Your headline: SHIP GOES AHEAD . . . BACK (Sunday I, P-T page A-3).

The AP man is pulling your leg. It can't be done. Putting propellers on in reverse, I mean. You can put them on backwards but it would not make any difference in the direction the ship goes.

A propeller is just like a wheel. It pulls in the direction the shaft turns. No, that is not quite as clear as I wish to make it, because the propeller shaft does not roll forward but screws itself forward. In order to move backward it must reverse direction of rotation.

To move backward while turning forward you would have to put a left-hand propeller on a right-hand shaft. This may be what happened, but the propellers were definitely not put on "in reverse."

New German Vessel Visits Local Harbor

The 14th new vessel to be added to the fleet of Hamburg American Line and North German Lloyd since 1954 has just made her maiden voyage to Long Beach-Los Angeles Harbor.

The 397-foot freighter Marburg was greeted here by John F. Parkinson, the Los Angeles port's assistant general manager, and also by curvy Violet Rensing, German television and movie starlet.

Commemorating the occasion was presentation of a special Angels Gate plaque to Capt. Alfred Raschke, skipper of the Marburg, by Parkinson.

* * * *

BUILT IN LUBECK, the Marburg has a deadweight of 7,450 tons, a 54-foot beam, 26-foot draft and a service speed of 15 knots. She has 306,000 cubic feet of cargo space and accommodations for 10 passengers.

The 2,142 tons of cargo discharged here included automobiles, bicycles, aluminum and brass tubing and wire, according to her agents, Balfour, Guthrie & Co.

The Marburg will call at ports up the coast before returning here in three weeks to load for Hamburg, Bremen and Antwerp.

66 Million Under Arms—Peiping

TOKYO (AP)—Communist China claims to have a militia of more than 66 million men. Recent broadcasts by Peiping Radio said the militia was organized "to repel American imperialist aggression."

The military training for civilians has been stepped up since the Formosa Strait hostilities started last August.

COMICS AND ROCK-ROLL

Young Genius of Chess Doesn't Look Like One

NEW YORK (AP)—There's a Batman comic book on his bedside table and a rock 'n' roll program blaring over his radio. He's slouchy, gangly and crew-cut.

But Batman is sprawled over an open chess book and his nail-bitten fingers are deftly moving chess pieces over the black and white board which means more to him than anything else in his life.

Bobby Fischer doesn't want to be a baseball star or a football player or the most popular fellow at the prom. He wants to be chess champion of the world—and it seems a pretty sure bet he will be.

Most American don't know it, but their honor in a big international contest with Russia is riding on the thin shoulders of this 15-year-old boy from Brooklyn.

* * * *

BOBBY IS HAILED by the experts as the greatest chess mind the world has produced in many years.

"He doesn't look like one—he looks more like a farmer's boy than an intellectual—but he is a genius," says Hans Kmoch, secretary of the Manhattan Chess Club.

"He has become an international grand master — the youngest in the long history of the game—and will meet the world's top seven players this year in a challenger's tournament. Date and place remain to be determined. The winner will get a crack at the present world champion, Russia's Mikhail Botvinnik.

—BOBBY FISCHER . . . Slouchy and Gangly

Bobby, who could give a clam lessons on how to keep its mouth shut, won't say what he thinks of his chances. Nobody else thinks he will make it this time.

* * * *

NOBODY THOUGHT he could win the American chess championship at 14 and nobody expected him to do well at the recent international chess tournament in Yugoslavia.

Bobby, playing in his first international competition, tied for fifth place, winning his place in the star-studded challengers.

Bobby has few friends his own age. He comes home from school about 2 p.m. and picks up a chess book. Every spare minute, he is either reading about chess, analyzing moves on his bedside chess board or going somewhere to play chess.

"Bobby isn't interested in anybody unless they play chess—and there just aren't many kids who like it," says Mrs. Fischer.

Bobby, she says, is no disciplinary problem.

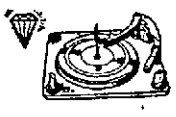

"There's nothing to discipline him about," Mrs. Fischer explains. "The only thing I do is nag him to take his nose out of his chess books and go outside for some fresh air."

See this great Laundromat model on our floor today. As little as down delivers it to your home. Pay as little as per week.

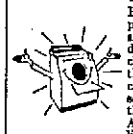

Here's why Revolving Agitator Laundromat is best:

WASHES CLEANER! There's no old-fashioned center-post. Clothes go inside the Revolving Agitator which lifts, turns, plunges them 60 times a minute, washes all the clothes all the time. The Sand Test proves it!

RINSES BETTER! Revolving Agitator lifts clothes while soil and dirty water drain away from (never back through) them. Center-post machines strain it all back through the clothes. The Sand Test proves it!

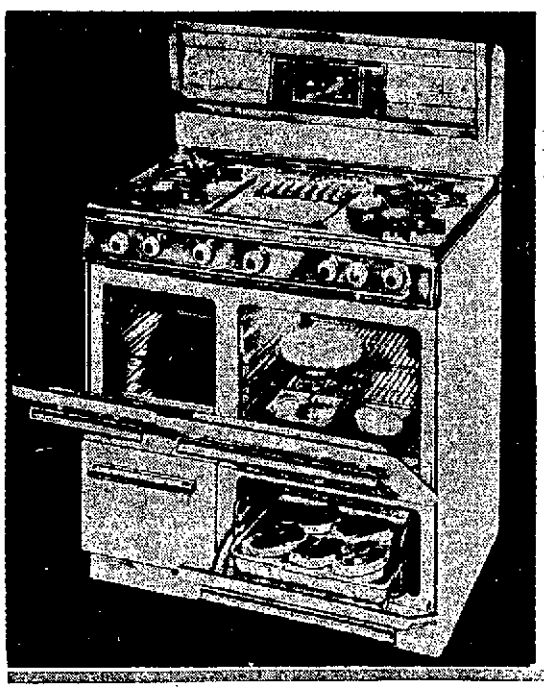

CLEANS ITSELF! Because of its patented design, the Laundromat cleans clothes better, then automatically cleans itself—ready for the next load. All sand, scum, lint go down the drain. The Sand Test proves it!

Baptize Blair Field Today

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

The professional baseball players will baptize Long Beach's new stadium, Blair Field, this afternoon when they hold the first annual Long Beach Homecoming Game at 2 p. m.

The ultra-modern $500,000 stadium, which was named in honor of a former Press-Telegram sports editor, Frank T. Blair, is located in Recreation Park at the corner of 10th Street and Park Avenue.

AMONG THE MAJOR LEAGUE athletes who will participate in the game and who were lined up by promoter Billy Feistner are Hank Sauer and Eddie Bessoud of the San Francisco Giants; Don Zimmer, Ron Fairly and Ralph Mauriello of the L. A. Dodgers; Rocky Bridges of the Washington Senators; Lou Berberet and Jim Pagliaroni of the Boston Red Sox; Buddy Daley and Preston Ward of Kansas City; George Witt of the Pittsburgh Pirates; Tom Morgan of Detroit; Jim Marshall and Roy Smalley of the Chicago Cubs; plus Bobby Adams and Bob Henrich of Cincinnati.

Zimmer volunteered his services in place of Dodger third baseman Dick Gray, when the latter suffered an eye injury this past week. Under baseball rules, no major league club is allowed to have more than three players in any post-season game, so Zimmer could not have played otherwise.

The players will be grouped into two all-star teams. One group of Long Beach area athletes will be under direction of Bob Lemon and Chuck Stevens, while a Los Angeles All-Star team will be managed by Chuck Dressen, with Eddie Roebuck as coach.

Also on deck for the gala opening affair will be bonus baby pitchers Barry Latman of the Chicago White Sox and John James of the New York Yankees. James performed in Triple A company at Richmond of the International League and was with the Yankees the last two months of the 1958 campaign.

Philadelphia bonus catcher Dick Harris, who handled Satchel Paige's slants at Miami last season, also will be on hand, as will be Bill Wilson, Joe Amalfitano and Bob Clear of the Giant chain, plus Joe Duhem and George Anderson of the Dodger chain, Gene Mauch, Harry Minor and Bob Campbell, among others.

THE DODGERS will send their clubhouse supervisor, Charley "The Brow" DiGiovanna, and their trainer, Bill Buhler, and will see to it that there is enough equipment and uniforms for every player.

Among Dodger "brass" in attendance will be vice presi-

SC Buried by Rugged Ore., 25-0

PORTLAND (UPI) — Powerful Oregon scored on a 66-yard run by halfback Willie West on the third play of the game and then rolled to a 25-0 Pacific Coast Conference victory over fumbling Southern California Saturday night before a near capacity crowd of 32,734 fans in Multnomah Stadium.

It was Oregon's biggest margin over the Trojans since 1915 when the Webfoots won, 34-0, in the first game of a rivalry which ended Saturday night because of the impending breakup of the PCC.

West, a fleet junior from San Diego, got a block from quarterback Dave Grosz and outraced the pursuing Trojans into the end zone to start things off for the defending co-champion Webfoots.

* * * *

SOUTHERN CAL, which lost its last two games by only one point, fumbled away every chance it had to score. The deepest Trojan penetration was to the Oregon 24 in the third period when workhorse halfback Rex Johnston fumbled. Taht was only one of four Southern California fumbles the alert Webfoots recovered.

Oregon, the nation's fourth ranked defensive team, got another touchdown late in the game on a 34-yard pass from third string quarterback Sandy Fraser to third string halfback Len Read. Grosz plunged two yards for the other Webfoot TD early in the fourth quarter after a 15-yard run by West set it up.

* * * *

THE REST OF the Oregon scoring came mostly from a surprise place kicker, John Clarke, who transferred from Oregon State last year. Clarke kicked a four-yard field goal with 23 seconds left in the first half and added two extra points. West ran for two points after his opening touchdown.

Johnston, despite two fumbles in the second half, looked good in running the ball for the Trojans. He had 59 yards in 10 carries in the first half and once appeared on his way to a touchdown when a diving tackle by Fraser stopped him.

* * * *

ALTHOUGH outweighed, Oregon's two-deep line proved too much for Southern Cal to handle.

The victory put Oregon in first place in the PCC with two victories against no losses.

It was Oregon's third straight over the Trojans, but only its seventh against 15 losses and one tie in the 43-year-old rivalry.

Seattle owner Emil Sick had made a determined effort to obtain Hutchison since the close of the Coast League season, after his Rainiers finished last and manager Connie Ryan departed by mutual consent.

Hutchinson will act as both field manager and business manager for the Rainiers.

Stanford Finally Gets First Victory, Trips Washington

STANFORD (UPI) — Quarterback Bob Nicolet, generally regarded as too eccentric to play full-time varsity football, turned in a steady game Saturday while leading victory-starved Stanford to a 22-12 upset of Washington.

It was the first win of the season for the Indians who had lost their previous three games by lopsided scores, while the Huskies had come to town fresh from making Ohio State fight for a one touchdown triumph.

But after taking a 12-7 halftime lead, Washington folded before a hard-charging Stanford line and tremendous teamwork between Nicolet and halfback Rick McMillen who murdered the Huskies with their pitchout plays.

* * * *

STANFORD went ahead for keeps in the third period, 14-12, when Nicolet intercepted a pass by quarterback Bob Hivner and raced it back 15 yards to Washington's 20. From there, McMillen scooted past left end and down the sidelines for his second touchdown of the day.

The deft Stanford halfback had scored earlier in the first quarter from five yards out to cap a 65 yard drive in which he had whizzed for 28 of them on one of Nicolet's pitchouts.

The third Stanford score came in the fourth period after quarterback Phil Borders, Washington halfback, fumbled the ball on his own 20 and center Rich Conklin recovered it for the Indians.

Nicolet passed to McMillen for a first down on the Huskies' one and the strong armed tosser then hit John Bond in the end zone for the clincher.

TWO-POINT CONVERSION

Chico State's Del Whittier rounds end to outrun Long Beach State's Tom Tracy (64) and Stan Guzy (73) for two-point conversion following first-quarter touchdown Saturday night.

49ers Score First Win of Year With Second-Half Rally

BY JERRY WYNN

The rocket to the moon or the Long Beach State College football team—which was higher Saturday?

Exploding with the pent up fury born of three straight losses this season and two years without a win at home, the 49ers erupted for 28 points in the final 32 minutes Saturday night to crush heavily favored Chico State 28-8 before 2281 happy fans at Veterans Stadium.

It was Long Beach's finest grid victory ever. Although a non-league foe, Chico—a perennial Northern power—was a unanimous choice to win the Far Western Conference and entered the game with a 3-0 record. And for 28 minutes Saturday night, the Wildcats played up to their reputation.

With quarterback Del Whittier riddling the 49er defense with his passes, Chico had an 8-0 lead when Long Beach quarterback Jerry Nicholson applied the spark to the ensuing 49er lightening by racing 30 yards intto the end zone with an intercepted pass. Nicholson's pass to Denny Wilkins for the two-pointer knotted the score with 1:45 left in the half.

* * * *

THE SECOND half surge by the 49ers was a gem both offensively and defensively—and Nicholson was a key man on both ends. His passing and running helped set up two touchdowns while on defense he intercepted three more of Whittier's aerials.

Equal to Nicholson as an offensive standout was Larry Manly, the quarterback who played at left half scored at two touchdowns and gave a sick first half 49er attack a major injection of speed.

Defensively, the great rush applied by the Long Beach line in thwarting Whittier in the second half is best illustrated by statistics. In the first half he completed 10 of 16; in the second only 5 of 17.

* * * *

IT WAS also a defensive play that turned the tide for Long Beach early in the third quarter. The period had started in what was typical frustrating 49er pattern. With a first and goal on the Chico eight after a 35-yard drive, the 49ers could make only two yards in three downs and on the fourth, Carl Evans failed on a field goal attempt.

Chico couldn't gain, and a punt by Frank Enos was then blocked by tackle Welo Vasquez. Enos out-wrestled Vasquez for the ball in the end zone but Long Beach had a safety and the lead, 10-8.

Then, boom!

Dick Van Voorhis returned the safety kickoff 39-yards to the Chico 35. On the first play, Evans broke through center on a stutter play and carried to the Chico five. Manly then went into the end zone on a cross-buck. A conversion pass from Manly to Van Voorhis was nullified by a penalty and subsequent kick by Evans failed. With 5:57 left the 49ers were ahead 16-8.

* * * *

A FEW moments later, Long Beach was on the move again. Starting from their own 43 after a first down holding penalty, the 49ers went the remaining distance in just six plays. Jim O'Hara made nine, Manly eight and Nicholson hit Roger Hull with a sparkling 34-yard toss to the Chico six. Bucks by O'Hara and Manly carried to the one from where Manly dove over.

Evan's PAT kick was blocked and Long Beach had a 22-8 lead with only seconds left in the period.

The 49er's final touchdown came on a forty yard drive in nine plays capped by O'Hara's one-yard dive into the end zone with the clock showing 9:43 remaining. Nicholson provided the impetus with runs of 12 and 15 yards on keepers from the split-T. O'Hara's kick for conversion failed.

A pass happy 83 yard drive gave Chico its touchdown with 12:01 elapsed in the first quarter. Whittier completed seven of eight tosses to carry the Wildcats downfield and hit Enos with a flat pass from the Long Beach four for the score. He tallied the two-point conversion himself on a rollout.

The Chico first attack had netted 233 yards to only 98 for Long Beach, and until Nicholson's first interception the 49er offense never showed life. But in the second half . . . how high the moon?

Sports Merry-Go-Round

By HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

Mr. William Barnes, UCLA's third head football coach in less than three months, perhaps was wondering about the futility of it all around 11:30 p.m. Friday when he sat on the "hot seat" in the Bruin dressing room and responded cordially to each question fired at him by newsmen.

Mr. Barnes, a former gridiron hero at Tennessee and in his 10th season on the UCLA coaching staff, had been appointed the Bruins' chief mentor only 24 hours earlier because of the collapse of George Dickerson. In that 24-hour period, however, Barnes had to prepare his shocked club for a major game with a rough bunch of kids from the University of Florida . . . AND he had to direct another man's team during the 60 minutes of struggling on the Coliseum floor.

DICK WALLEN
Finally Came Alive

Barnes' mixed-up Bruins did an adequate job under the circumstances, too, losing only 21-14, but the new coach was on the reporters' "hot seat" just as if he had been running the club since the advent of Bill Spaulding at Westwood!

Every newsman present—not only the Southlanders, but also a 10-man delegation from Florida—bit his tongue for a few minutes, trying to respect Barnes' position as a harassed boss of only 24 hours, and attempting desperately to avoid the burning question on each compatriot's lips:

"WHY did you wait so long before installing the Bruins' greatest offensive threat of this season: The Don Long-to-Dick Wallen passing weapon?

Certainly, the question was a proper one as Long connected with 10 passes to Wallen for 97 yards and two touchdowns IN JUST THE SECOND HALF! Wallen thereby broke Ike Jones' 1952 UCLA record of nine in one game (against Cal) and equalled a conference mark jointly held by WSC's Ed Barker and Oregon's Ron Stover.

Sure enough, someone finally popped the fillip to Barnes, who smiled wanly, shrugged his shoulders and replied:

"I was waiting for one of you fellows to ask that question, because at this minute I wish I could start this game all over and have Long and Wallen operating with those passes in the very first minute.

"But, it's like this: Our UCLA policy has been to start the boys who looked the best in our previous game, so I started Jim Steffen and John Brown, instead of Long and Wallen, and let them play most of the first half. I opened the second half with Long and Wallen—and, boom they almost win this game for us.

"Now, tell me, fellas," Barnes asked most graciously, "how could I tell that Long and Wallen would be so hot tonight, when they were below par the previous week?"

He had us all on the spot. Obviously, from one week to the next, even a coach can't figure out how his college lads will respond.

BUT—if I were in Mr. Barnes shoes now, I'd certainly return "Big Horse" Steffen to his proper end slot OR install him at wingback. As a tailback, big Jim is lost—lost—lost. As a thrower, he is so pathetic he couldn't make the Dodger staff . . . and when this lumbering lefthander runs to his right and tries to uncork a pass, oh, man, every soul in the stadium must shudder in agony.

"Well, the problem is Mr. Barnes' now We've given him the solution—let's see if he adopts it!

OH, YES, A WORD ABOUT THE OFFICIATING! For two successive Friday nights, Coliseum crowds have been treated to probably the most miserable display of officiating possible. Errors in judgment, horrible instances of placing the ball yards behind a spot where the runner's advance was halted, miserable calls on alleged clipping and even WRONG signals in designating the alleged foul were evident throughout the UCLA-Florida and the SC-North Carolina contests.

Don't take my word for it. Check ALL FOUR teams and everybody who had a spot in the press box both evenings.

As one disgusted gent informed Frank McCormick, in charge of PCC officials, who was in the press box both games, "your college officials are doing more to attract crowds to pro games than the pros themselves."

The UCLA contest was handled by Jimmy Cain, Marion Talley, Ted Fehring, Jack Griffith, and Ev Bannister, while Jim Tunney, Bob Collier, Milt Vucinich, Charles Timmons and Joe Vigna presided at the SC rites.

These men were so bad, I thought you might like to meet them!

APPROPRIATE QUOTATIONS:

. . . "The biggest cut-up on our club is sophomore Don Deal from Texas. He's always fooling around . . . drives the coaches nuts. But the kid's so good we gotta keep him on the team," Jimmy Gay, Florida publicist. (Nineteen minutes, 11 seconds later, Deal romped 67 yards to Florida's first touchdown.)

. . . "I'll bet we looked like rubes up in the stands. We never got so many stupid penalties in our lives from guys running in and out of the game all the time," Vel Heckman, Florida's All-America tackle already drafted by the S. F. 49ers. (He might have been right—Florida received FIVE penalties for too many times-out!)

. . . "We ain't got nothin' like this in Florida," unidentified Florida newsman after UCLA's brilliant halftime flashlight stunts. (He's so right.)

WALTER O'MALLEY, Dodger president, left Saturday for a hunting trip to Tanganyika where he'll go after tigers, elephants, rhinos and water buffalo. Never at a loss for a quip, Walter told Chuck Johnson, Tidings sports editor:

"People have been shooting at me all season—now it's going to be O'Malley's turn!"

Walter was asked last week if he was going hunting for ball players or animals.

"Both," he replied. "I may even bring back a Ubangi to catch for us."

It's an idea, isn't it?

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP)—Inspired Boston University battled back from an eight-point deficit Saturday to upset West Virginia, 36-30, in a football game marked by a wild and wooly fourth period.

The invading Terriers made 23 points in the second period and scemingly put the game on ice. But they were in danger at the end until Boston received quarterback Emo Di Nitto picked off a West Virginia pass on his own 30 and raced for the game-clinching touchdown with 36 seconds remaining.

Dawkins Top Cadet in Big Ground Play

By ROB KELLEY

NOTRE DAME, Ind. — For a fellow who was raised within the shadow of the Golden Dome, it's difficult to admit that the better team won here in Notre Dame Stadium Saturday when Army led every step of the way to spring a slight upset on the unbeaten Irish, 14-2.

Four N.D. fumbles, all of which were recovered by the Cadets, contributed to the Irish downfall, no doubt.

But an amazing Army halfback named Pete Dawkins, honor student, team captain and all-around Cadet leader, helped dig the trenches for the retreating corps of Notre Damers.

* * * *

THERE WAS no doubt in my mind that Dawkins was the best all-around back on the field.

In light of their victory, achieved in Notre Dame's own backyard, the Cadets made their coach Red Blaik look a little foolish. Last Tuesday, in commenting that Army would probably not enter a proposed National Independent Conference, composed of teams like SC, UCLA, Pitt and Navy, Blaik sighed sadly:

"I'm just afraid we don't have the manpower to compete in a tough conference like that."

Enough of the comedy, now to the details that silenced a record and rabid turnaway Irish crowd of 60,564.

Dawkins, who scored Army's second touchdown on a seven-yard run with seven seconds to play, and Anderson were the big ground gainers for the victory, but had plenty of help from a fast and rugged line, headed by a 210-pound tackle, Bob Novogratz.

The faster Army linemen cleared holes constantly for Dawkins and Anderson and gave 160-pound quarterback Joe Caldwell plenty of protection on passes.

* * * *

CALDWELL, an expert ball handler, reacted by completing six of 13 passes for 75 yards, including a 16-yard touchdown toss to end Jack Morrison in the opening period.

The win was the third without defeat this season for Army while Notre Dame suffered its first loss after two victories. It was the eighth time Army has beaten Notre Dame against 24 losses with four ties.

Notre Dame's points came early in the second half when Caldwell, attempting Army's first punt of the game, got a high pitch from center and couldn't get the kick away. He was tackled in the end zone by Monty Stickles and Myron Pottios.

Army, with its touted "lonesome end," utilized a new man in motion series to befuddle the Irish.

"About nine times we sent Dawkins in motion to the left in a new series," said elated Army coach Earl Blaik. "Dawkins went 20 yards out, and with right end Bill Carpenter 20 yards the other way, he was really lonesome. We got some good yardage out of it and also two points after the final touchdown."

* * * *

BLAIK SAID Army didn't pass more because "it was windy and we knew we could run against them."

Irish coach Terry Brennan said Army is his choice for No. 1 team in the nation. Blaik countered with:

"I don't care if we have the No. 1 or No. 10 team. My interest is in the fine group of youngsters making up this squad."

KAPP SPARKLES, 36-21

Cal Dipsy-Doodle Bewilders Skins

BERKELEY (UPI) — California added the dipsydo, featuring pitchouts and three-way laterals, to the split-T Saturday and rolled to a ridiculously easy, 36-21, victory over outmanned University of Utah.

With quarterback Joe Kapp running the show, California romped to a 36-0 lead in the third quarter before Utah could threaten against the second-stringers. It was the second consecutive victory for the Golden Bears and was accomplished before a slim crowd of 28,000 in Memorial Stadium.

Kapp's ball-handling so befuddled the Utes' defense that many times the Redskins were tackling three men before coming down with the ball carrier. A standard play was for Kapp to pitch out to an end, who would lateral to a halfback. Utah liked the play so well it used it itself with considerable success in the second half. At times the battle resembled a basketball game.

* * * *

UTAH picked up a lot of yardage in midfield, but it could not make a sustained drive until the third period. A 43-yard pass from Lee Grosscup to end Larry Wilson set up the first touchdown, with Grosscup going over from the one. In the fourth stanza, Utah scored again as Bob Mastelotto went 32 yards around end and the final Utah counter came with four minutes to play after a Cal fumble was recovered on the Cal 11-yard line. Monk Bailey scored two plays later.

Earlier in the game, the Bears took advantage of a lot of breaks. They got one in the third quarer when Frank Sally, a 215-pound tackle, intercepted one of Grosscup's passes in the flat and raced it 68 yards for a touchdown.

Miceli Stops Guder in 8th

Miceli weighed 149 and Guder 153.

Miceli nailed Guder consistently with his left in every round and had the German's nose bleeding from the second round on. Near the end, Guder also had a cut under his left eye.

But these wounds were not waht stopped the fight. Referee Tommy Hart simply decided after 1:37 of the eighth that Guder had no chance.

Parnelli Jones of Torrance edged Ray Douglas by a car's length to win the Gardena Stadium 100-lap sprint car main event Saturday night.

Jones came from 14th place to take the lead on the 65th lap and then staged a thrilling duel with Douglas the rest of the way. The time was 27:35.62 with Nick Valenta finishing third.

In the semi-final match, Nick Bockwinkle put down Dutch Shultz in two falls. Billy Darnell and Nick Kozack fought to a draw, and Bob Decker defeated Matt Murphy.

Final-Minute TD Wins for Longhorns

DALLAS (AP)—Substitute quarterback Vince Matthews led a dramatic Texas charge with only three minutes to go Saturday to fell mighty Oklahoma 15-14.

Matthews passed the Longhorns over most of 70 yards of a desperate touchdown drive and Bobby Lackey, the regular Texas quarterback, came in to kick the extra point that knocked down the nation's No. 2 team and give the Longhorns victory in this storied game for the first time since 1951.

More than 76,000 fans jammed into the Cotton Bowl and watched the gripping struggle that found Texas leading for three quarters, Oklahoma taking back the lead on the grab of a Texas handoff by Sooner guard Jim Davis, who lumbered 24 yards to a touchdown, and then the great surge of the Longhorns as time was running out.

* * * *

THE DECIDING Texas touchdown was made on a pass from the busy Lackey to end Bob Bryant from the Oklahoma 5-yard line. The stands were hushed as the tall Longhorn quarterback stepped to the line and plunked the ball between the goal posts.

Texas scored a touchdown in the second period on a 20-yard pass from the lefthanded Rene Ramirez to George Blanch. Don Allen, Texas fullback, ran across the conversion to make the score 8-0.

Oklahoma started pounding at the Texas goal and was at it for what seemed ages to the Texas followers. Finally, the Sooners, who abandoned their fancy stuff — the smorgasbord offense — for straight split-T in their great effort to pull out the game, got a touchdown on a 5-yard run by Dickey Carpenter. Quarterback Bobby Boyd tried to pass to Jerry Tillery for the conversion but the throw was low.

Then, early in the fourth quarter, came the great play by Davis, a 210-pound youngster from Tyler, Texas. Texas had the ball on its 24, where it had taken over. Lackey tried to hand off to Allen and before the latter could get the ball, the guard grabbed it and ran to the touchdown. Boyd passed to Tillery for the extra point.

* * * *

MATTHEWS was the big hero for Texas and it was a rags to riches story. This boy out last year with an injury, was on the fourth team until last week.

Saturday, with Texas needing 75 yards for a touchdown, they sent in the Houston youth with the rifle-shot arm. He passed for 51 yards in the surge —12 to Ramirez, 10 to Bryant, 11 to Blanch, 7 to Bryant, 11 to Ramirez—finally, with the ball on the Oklahoma 19, Matthews sent big Mike Dowdle through the line for 14 yards to the Sooner five. There Matthews fumbled but recovered for a loss of two yards. Matthews' pass to Bryant was batted down by Jimmy Carpenter. But Lackey came in and flung the successful pass for the touchdown.

SIME REALLY LONESOME

4th Quarter TD Nets Duke Win

DURHAM (AP)—Twice-beaten Duke stormed 61 yards in nine plays for a fourth period touchdown to defeat Baylor 12-7 Saturday in an intersectional football thriller.

Duke halfback George Dutrow slashed off left tackle to score from the 16 with the winning touchdown. The Blue Devils, using their "lonesome end" pass plays very sparingly, had gone ahead with a first period touchdown when halfback Wray Carlton plunged over from the one to cap a 63-yard drive.

Dave Sime, Duke's famed sprint star, saw only brief action in the role of a "lonesome end." Only one pass was thrown to him and it was incomplete.

Beavers Manage Only One Scoring Threat in Stunner

LARAMIE (AP)—Wyoming's Cowboys, getting flawless performance from a host of sophomores, bolted for two second quarter touchdowns that deflated Oregon State's favored Beavers and cleared the way for a 28-0 Wyoming upset football victory Saturday.

Oregon State, apparently flat after a 14-0 triumph last week over UCLA, generated only one scoring threat—a third-period drive to Wyoming's 9 where the Cowboys held for downs.

The teams played a scoreless first quarter but Wyoming Started moving in the second on a 56-yard drive capped by halfback Gary Jozwiak's 15-yard touchdown scamper.

OSC CAME BACK with its only penetration of Wyoming territory in the first half—to the 37—but that fizzled when Leon Criner's fumble was recovered by Wyoming guard Frank Miknis.

That paved the way for a 40-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Jim Walden to Wyoming end Neil Curtis.

Coming out from the intermission, OSC put together its longest march to Wyoming's 6 but after that failed the West Coast team crumbled.

The Oregonians wilted further when halfback Paul Lowe's attempted pass was stolen by Walden who ran 50 yards for Wyoming's third touchdown midway of the third period.

WYOMING'S FOURTH touchdown came in the final quarter on fullback Mark Smolinski's 26-yard scoring romp over right guard on a draw play.

Smolinski found a wide hole at the line and then neatly dodged through three secondary defenders on his way to the score.

Michigan Falls to Navy, 20-14

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)—Joe Tranchini fired a 36-yard touchdown pass to halfback Dick Zembrzuski with 5:05 to play Saturday to give unbeaten Navy a stunning 20-14 upset victory over previously unbeaten Michigan.

The Middies, who had halted Michigan three times within their 10-yard line and five times within the 20, came to life offensively at the third period after the Wolverines had taken a 14-6 lead.

Tranchini directed an 85-yard drive for the winning touchdown, hitting Zembrzuski at the five. No Michigan defender was within 15 yards of him as he went in for the touchdown. Zembrzuski plunged over right tackle for the extra points to seal Navy's third win in as many starts.

* * * *

THE NAVY quarterback, who passed only three times in the first half as Navy was held to just three first downs and a total of 87 yards passing and rushing, connected on four straight aerials during the third period drive, one completed on a pass interference call.

Wellborn dove over from the one with 1:48 left in the period to make it 14-12, but Gary Prahst broke up Tranchini's for the extra points that would have tied the game.

The Middies turned a break into a 6-0 lead in the first period when Dick Dagampat hit Brad Myers as he took a punt and Tom Hyde jumped on the fumble on the Michigan 38. Three plays later Tranchini passed to John Kanuch in the end zone for an 11-yard completion—his only completion of the first half.

LAST-MINUTE TD

Wildcats Rally to Nod Gophers, 7-3

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Brash, young Northwestern, herded by sophomore quarterback Dick Thornton, stormed 59 yards in the final minutes Saturday to whip Minnesota, 7-3, for its third straight victory.

Thornton charged over from the two-yard line with 58 seconds left as a Minnesota crowd of 56,061 groaned.

It was an ironic climax to a game which Minnesota, favored by one point and winless this season, dominated almost from the start.

Ev Gerth's wobbling 23-yard field goal that limped over the crossbar in the second period seemed good enough until Northwestern's attack jelled dramatically in the fourth period.

* * * *

END ELBERT Kimbrough gave the Cats the chance they needed by recovering a Jim Rogers' fumble on the Northwestern 41 with three minutes, 50 seconds left. Thornton promptly hit Kimbrough with a pass to the Gopher 47.

The rookie Wildcat signal caller, who a few minutes earlier had stopped a Minnesota march with a pass interception, then toured right end for 17 yards to the Minnesota 30 and hit Willmer Fowler with a pass to the 21. Halfback Ray Purdin banged to the 16 and Thornton went to the air again, connecting with Fred Williamson on the 5. Three plays later Thornton swept left end to the score.

THE TURNING point occurred when Cowboy fullback Pete Hart kicked off a Hangartner pass and dashed 33 yards down the sideline for a touchdown. The Cowboys used the old one-point kick to go ahead 7-6 at the half.

Their razzle-dazzle slowed by a fast Sun Devil line, H-SU used solid line smashes and only a couple of passes to drive 67 yards for a third quarter touchdown. Quarterback Harold Stephens lofted a three-yard pass to end Keith Miles for the decisive touchdown.

This was Arizona State's first conference loss since mid-season of 1956.

Cowboys Throttle Ariz. State

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Hardin-Simmons used an intercepted pass and a tough defense when the chips were down to defeat Arizona State College at Tempe, 14-6, Saturday night in a Border Conference game.

Twice in the fading minutes, Arizona State drove deep inside Hardin-Simmons' territory. Both times the Cowboys rose up and halted the threat.

Once the Sun Devils reached the 11-yard line, the next time the 6.

What was billed as an offensive duel turned into a vicious battle of defensive lines with brutal tackles on both sides.

Arizona State dominated the first quarter, moving 67 yards in seven plays with the touchdown coming on a 21-yard pass from quarterback John Hangartner to end Bill Spanko.

Cubs Sign Scheffing to New 1-Year Pact

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Cubs announced Saturday they had signed Manager Bob Scheffing to a new one-year contract.

Cub Vice President John Holland said the club was "pleased" with Scheffing's work in elevating the team to a fifth place tie in the National League, its highest finish in the last six years.

Strong Wisconsin Defense Badgers Unbeaten Purdue

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Wisconsin rubbed out Purdue's perfect record and extended its own Saturday with a 31-6 Big Ten football triumph made easy by a hard-nosed defense led by Jim Fraser, Jerry Staleup and Dick Teteak. It was the conference opener for both teams.

The Badgers, in winning their third straight game, manufactured two of their four touchdowns and a field goal on a blocked punt and two pass interceptions. It was the Boilermakers' first loss in three starts and the first time they had been scored upon this season.

A Camp Randall Stadium crowd of 51,028 watched Wisconsin take the initiative in the first 2½ minutes, falter momentarily as Purdue tied the score 6-6 in the second quarter, and then assert itself with a dynamic brand of football.

* * * *

THE BADGERS' first three touchdowns came on one-yard plunges, two by versatile Dale Hackbart and the third by Jon Hobbs. Hackbert's second score coming on the payoff end of a 66-yard drive midway through the second quarter turned out to be the clincher.

Paul Shwaiko, who kicked two conversions, added a field goal from the 18, in the third quarter for a 23-6 Wisconsin lead. Tom Wiesner stole a pass right out of the arms of Purdue's Len Wilson and raced 36 yards for the Badgers' final touchdown in the fourth period.

Purdue's Boilermakers got their only touchdown in the second period on Bob Jarus' 2-yard plunge.

Long Pass Play Gives Clemson Win vs. N.C. St.

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C. (AP) —A breath-taking 69-yard pass play—quarterback Charlie Carpenter to halfback Winston Futch—carried Wake Forest to a 13-7 Atlantic Coast Conference football victory over North Carolina State Saturday.

The big play, early in the fourth quarter, gave the Deacons a 13-0 lead and enabled them to withstand a late State bid that produced a touchdown and threatened to add another.

In attendance, also, will be all members of the City Council, the Recreation Commission and the Park Commission.

Actually, Blair Field was dedicated last May, but today's ceremonies will mark the professional player's official recognition of the field, called one of the finest, modern parks in the United States.

A HORDE of former major league players will be present at the game also, including Long Beach's first players to hit the majors, Jack Rothrock, Jack Salveson, Frank Gabler and Lee Stine. Former World Series hero Irish Meusel will be there, too, along with Vern Stephens, Jerry Gardner, Bobby Sturgeon, Eddie Bockman and many others too numerous to list. Handling the umpiring chores will be Reardon, Cecil Carlucci and Joe Reed.

The players will hold batting practice at 1 p. m., then give way to a Police Kid Baseball Assn. three-inning game at 1:30. A special home run hitting contest for the major leaguers will start at 2, followed immediately by the nine-inning All-Star game.

PITT FLUBS CHANCES

Spartans Sputter to 22-8 Triumph

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan State scored on two short drives and one long one for a 22-8 victory Saturday over a hard luck Pittsburgh team that twice lost the ball within 10 yards of the Spartan goal line.

Michigan State needed to punch only 23 yards for one score and travel 34 yards for another. The final march in the closing minutes was a 50-yard drive.

The jinxed Panthers twice blew scoring chances and a third time saw what looked like a touchdown run called back by officials.

Although not as impressive as the scoring indicated, Michigan State put it in the record books and is undefeated in three games—the only blemish being last week's 12-12 tie with Michigan.

* * * *

PITTSBURGH made long drives downfield but muffed scoring chances. One march in the second period went from the Pittsburgh 30 to the MSU 8. But quarterback Bill Kaliden bobbled the ball on the 8 and Fran O'Brien recovered for Michigan State.

The Panthers started from their own 43 for another surge in the third period. Pittsburgh was down to the MSU 7 when a pass by Ivan Toncic was intercepted by Ellison Kelly of Michigan State.

Pittsburgh finally scored in the fourth quarter when Dick Haley busted through right tackle from the 9. The payoff drive went 42 yards.

In the first MSU scoring push, Mike Panitch sneaked over from the one. Dean Look scored the second on a two-yard plunge.

TCU Glides to 26-0 Win Over Tech

FORT WORTH (AP) — The passing of Hunter Enis and Don George and Marvin Lasater's running carried Texas Christian to an easy 26-0 triumph over little Southwest Conference brother Texas Tech Saturday night.

Enis' passing set up the first touchdown, which he scored himself with a 1-foot plunge, and his 6-yard throw to Marshall Harris brought another. George pegged 26 yards to Bobby Murray for a third touchdown and Lasater's running led to the fourth. Lasater made it with a 6-yard run.

Enis passed for 64 yards and Lasater dashed for 81 in 17 carries to feature the TCU offensive.

A crowd of 22,000 watched TCU win its third game of the season in four outings. While Tech is a member of the conference it was not a championship game since Tech has to wait until 1960 before competing for the title.

Ohio State Ekes by Illini, 19-13

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UPI)—Fifth-ranked Ohio State powered to two touchdowns in the third period after a halftime tie to hang up its third season victory and first Big Ten triumph, 19-13, over Illinois before 50,416 fans in Memorial Stadium.

The Buckeye victory hung in the balance until the final seconds as Illinois quarterback Bob Hickey completed two successive passes to move the Illini to the OSU 31 with about 20 seconds left.

But Hickey missed on three attempts and his fourth aerial effort was intercepted by Ohio State's Russ Bowermaster to end the threat.

Junior fullback Bob White scored two of Ohio State's touchdowns on plunges from the one-foot line and halfback Don Clark counted the other on a 42-yard dash around right end. Dave Kilgore kicked for the only point after touchdown.

* * * *

OHIO STATE, ranked first in the nation in pre-season polls but held to narrow victories in its first two games, appeared headded for an easy victory as it rolled 42 yards in nine plays the first time it got the ball, with White cracking over for the first score.

But then Illinois' pint-sized sophomore quarterback Johnny Easterbrook hit Rich Kreitling for 16 yards with one pass and Ron Hill for 15 with another to move the Illini to the OSU three in the second period. L. T. Bonner went over from there and the halftime score was knotted at 6-all.

WSC Overcomes Stout Idaho, 8-0

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI)—Washington State cashed an intercepted pass for a last period touchdown and then held off a determined rally to defeat Idaho, 8-0, in a Pacific Coast Conference football game Saturday.

The break came late in the third period when fullback Laroy Rath intercepted quarterback Gary Farnworth's pass and returned 37 yards to the Idaho six. Then sub quarterback Dave Wilson passed to Don Ellingsen for the winning tally.

FULLBACK Chuck Morrell plunged for the extra two points, and that was the ball game.

Idaho moved to the Washington State 20 but was stopped there with seconds remaining in the game.

It was tough for the winners because quarterback Bob Newman, the nation's top passer, was sidelined after only four minutes when he was hit while punting.

Iowa Wallops Indiana, 34-13

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP)—Chastened Iowa, its ego punctured by a tie with the Air Force Academy, roared back Saturday with a 34-13 victory over Indiana in the opening Big Ten football game for both teams.

Coach Forest Evashevski, irked by Iowa's sloppy showing in a 13-13 deadlock with the Air Force last week, had five new men in his starting lineup and then two-platooned the Hoosiers into the depths of a 28-0 halftime score.

Right halfback Ray Jauch gave Iowa a terrific start with a 64-yard touchdown run on the third play from scrimmage.

The Hoosiers failed to move into Iowa territory until they recovered a Bill Gravel fumble on the Iawo 47 in the third period.

Indiana picked up a touchdown early in the fourth quarter after recovering another fumble on the Iowa 46. A four-yard pass, Norman Mackinn to Norm Craft, did the business.

The Hoosiers got a second touchdown against Iowa's fourth unit.

Once Over Lightly

By DAVE LEWIS
Sports Editor

There are more than a few football men who maintain that UCLA would be undefeated today if Red Sanders was still alive and directing the Bruins. Instead they have lost three out of four . . . and looked miserable doing it.

I go along with this contention wholeheartedly.

As a result of the Bruins' showing, it is the general feeling even among the UCLA players themselves that a new coaching regime definitely will be set up for next year. Tommy Prothro of Oregon State, of course, is the popular choice to return to take over UCLA's grid destinies.

There is no denying that the coaching has been in a state of confusion since Sanders died last summer. And there is no doubt but what it has seriously affected the players.

You know the background on the coaching situation which now finds Billy Barnes taking over for George Dickerson, so there is no use recounting those events at this time.

But someone on the coaching staff this season has seemed to have a strange reluctance to fully exploit the potential of the Bruins' "five-game seniors." Handling some of them has been somewhat questionable.

When Dickerson was still around at mid-week, for instance, he announced that all of the seniors making their last home appearance for UCLA would start the game.

But when Friday night's fray with Florida got under way, both Don Long and Dick Wallen were on the bench. Yet they were the ones who ultimately almost pulled the game out of the fire for UCLA before the Gators wrapped it up, 21-14.

LONG COMPLETED 14 OF 16 passes in the second half for 156 yards and two touchdowns. Wallen set a new school record and tied a PCC mark by grabbing 10 arcials, including the two for TD's.

But early in the fourth period when trailing only 14-6 and still very much alive, Long and Wallen were on the bench again when the Bruins got the ball and struck out from their own 11 to try for a TD and a two-point conversion to tie it up.

Jim Steffen, whose passing was spotty all night, promptly had one picked off by Florida and the Gators went on to score their third touchdown and take a 21-6 lead.

Long and Wallen then were rushed back in and they produced another score.

The Bruins then recovered a fumble on their own 36 with 2:05 left and Long and Wallen were in there to try and pull it out. But as Long moved the ball to the Florida 36 in two plays with still a minute and a half left, Wallen was taken out in an unbelievable move. He couldn't re-enter the game under the present substitution rule.

Without him in there, the Bruin air attack disintegrated. Long couldn't find any receivers open on two plays and the resulting losses put them back on the UCLA 44 from where a fourth-down aerial, although good for 28 yards, missed a first down on the Florida 28 by two yards with three seconds remaining.

AS VAL HECKMAN, THE GATORS' great All-American candidate, said: "There is no pass defense against a great receiver like Wallen. If you charge him, he will get behind you. And if you don't, he catches them in front of you. The air game is the only Bruin threat. A receiver like Wallen makes any passing attack dangerous."

Wallen's touchdown grabs were two of the finest catches seen in the Coliseum in some time. Yet when UCLA had a chance to tie or win in the final minutes, Wallen was back on the bench.

Despite their great individual performances, both Long and Wallen were in rather bitter moods following the game.

Speaking of the move that sidelined him in the final minutes, Wallen said, "It was the only time in four years that I have been in the situation where I couldn't re-enter a game."

Needless to say, Sanders was running things in Wallen's three previous seasons at UCLA.

Both Bruin stars also expressed extreme disappointment in not starting their last game in the Coliseum. Long was even more outspoken on the subject. "It was very irritating not to be a starter. I also think we could have won it if I'd been in there longer with Wallen."

The Florida players agreed wholeheartedly with him.

THE GATORS' BRILLIANT CAPTAIN, end Don Fleming, said: "If Long had played more in the first half and he had got his passing game going that early, we would have had to change our defense and that possibly would have permitted them to move more consistently—at least on the ground.

"We figured Steffen would run more than he would throw so we pinched in tight to stop his runs and let him have the short throws. When Long got in there, we had to watch for both runs and passes."

Quarterback Jimmy Dunn said, "the Bruins didn't keep constant pressure on us. They went in spurts. Only when Long was in there were we worried. I don't think they made best use of their passing offense. They should have gone more with it earlier after we got their ground game contained early in the game."

UCLA knew from scouting reports that it had to pass to win. Long was the best passer available. Yet Steffen was started in a tough game where passing was absolutely essential to crack the rugged Florida defense despite the fact that the Bruins' "bread and butter" pass patterns are optionals to the right on which Steffen was working at a decided disadvantage. You see, he is LEFT HANDED and it is awkward for him to throw when rolling out to the right.

Then why didn't he run the options to the left?

"We have no strong options wide to the left," was the explanation given by one member of the UCLA camp.

RAZZLE-DAZZLE

Ga. Tech Wrecks Tennessee, 21-7

ATLANTA (UPI)—Frank Nix came off the injury list Saturday to lead Georgia Tech to a 21-7 victory over Tennessee that brought back brief memories of the golden days of Tech razzle-dazzle.

Nix, a sophomore from Greenville, Miss., tight-roped 74 yards down the sidelines for the touchdown that kept Tech ahead all the way in an often bruising defensive battle with the Volunteers from Knoxville.

The third period was dominated by Tennessee, led by sophomore tailback Billy Majors. The Vols drove 18 yards after a Tech fumble for their only touchdown, then marched deep into Tech territory as the period ended. Fullback Carl Smith scored for Tennessee from the one with wingback Sam Burklow converting.

* * * *

TECH HAD nursed a slim lead, helped with a first quarter field goal. Then came the last period turning point, just after the Tennessee drive was clipped.

The Yellow Jackets drove 42 yards in five plays with sophomore halfback Ronnie Lewis going over from the 12 to put Tech ahead 15-7.

Several minutes later halfback Cal James returned a Tennessee punt 46 yards to the Vols, 17-yard line and Tech needed just five more plays to score again with quarterback Fred Braselton sneaking across from the one.

BIRDIE NAMED VEEP

Haney Inks 1-Year Pact--'No Raise'

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Manager Fred Haney has been rehired for one year at "no increase in salary" and George (Birdie) Tebbetts has been named executive vice president, the Milwaukee Braves announced early Saturday night.

It had been rumored for weeks that Tebbetts, former manager of the Cincinnati Redlegs, would take a front office job with the Braves to free President Joseph Cairnes for other duties in the Perini organization, which owns the Braves.

Haney, 60, signing for his third full season, said he talked with Cairnes first before agreeing to a contract to be sure there would be "no interference" from Tebbetts.

"I WAS ASSURED that Tebbetts will work only in the front office and will not have anything to do with the way I run the ball team," said Haney.

It had been reported that Haney and Tebbetts didn't get along too well.

Mississippi Fights Off Tulane, 19-8

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Unbeaten Mississippi's fleet of running backs slithered through Tulane's porus defenses in the fourth period Saturday night to earn a hard-fought 19-8 Southeastern Conference victory.

Mississippi, seventh ranked in the Associated Press poll, pushed its final touchdown across in the opening minutes of the last period. But the Rebels had to squelch a bombarding Tulane passing attack to finish in front.

Fullback Charlie Flowers and halfback Kent Lovelace set up the final touchdown with ripping runs that took the Rebels to the Tulane 12. Quarterback Bobby Franklin tossed to Lovelace on the next play for the score.

Air Force Remains Undefeated, 36-6

DENVER (AP) — Undefeated Air Force Academy zoomed away after a tight first half for a 36-6 football victory over Colorado State University Saturday.

It was the Rams' first defeat in three games.

The cadets, who tied powerful Iowa 13-13 a week ago, led all the way but their margin for two periods was only 7-6. CSU held the powerful Falcons to a lone touchdown in the third quarter but they ripped off 22 points in the final.

Sophomore quarterback Jimmy Mayo was the ace navigator in the Air Force triumph. He scored one of the Falcons' five touchdowns on a rollout, passed 18 yards to Bob Brickey for another and lateraled to Jim Kerr for a third.

Mayo threw 11 passes and completed 9.

After Air Force jumped off with a 7-0 lead in the first period on a 57-yard drive ending in the scoring pass to Brickey, Colorado State countered with the most spectacular play of the game.

Quarterback Freddy Glick started on his own 32 and as he was tackled, flipped to halfback Wayne Schneider. He grabbed the ball near the ground and raced 60 yards to a touchdown.

HYNDMAN STARS

U.S., Aussies in World Golf Tie

ST. ANDREWS (AP)—Bill Hyndman birdied the toughest hole in golf—the feared 17th "road hole" of St. Andrews—and finished with a brilliant 72 Saturday to put the United States into a 1,000 to 1 shot tie for the world amateur team championship.

The tall, graying Philadelphia insurance man almost alone carried his teammates into an 18-hole playoff Monday with the Australians.

Both teams needed 918 strokes for four days of golf in high winds, temperatures in the high-thirties, rain and bad light.

Until Hyndman came storming home, the Eisenhower Trophy, the symbolic silver for the world supremacy of amateur golf, was practically crated and on the way to Sydney.

Billy Joe Patton, Morganton, N. C., had shot a 79; Charlie Coe, Oklahoma City, a 78; and Dr. Frank Taylor, Pomona, Calif., another 78.

* * * *

THOSE SCORES made it look as if the United States had shot itself right out of this initial world tournament.

Australia's team of Doug Bachli, Barry Devlin, Bob Stevens and Peter Toogood already was in with 918. The necessity of a playoff seemed out of the question.

Then Hyndman, playing in the final threesome, came to the 17th, thinking the United States already had blown the championship.

The 42-year-old socialite hit a low screamer just over the top of the second gable of the ancient railroad track that protrudes to the right side of the fairway. The hole is par four and stretches 453 yards.

* * * *

HIS SECOND shot, a four-iron, sailed dead to the pin and dropped six feet short. He knocked in the putt for a birdie three and then headed for the 18th, knowing then that a par would give America a tie.

His drive was straight down the middle and his approach was true to the green, leaving him a 24-foot putt to clinch the championship. He putted and the ball failed by a bare foot. But he sank it for the tie.

Team standings:

Australia (918): D. W. Bachli 81-77-78-79—315; P. A. Toogood 84-78-71-79—310; B. W. Devlin 81-73-74-73—301; B. F. Stevens 82-77-76-75—310. Saturday's best three: 927.

United States (918): Charles Coe 74-77-78-78—307; Bill Hyndman 79-77-73-72—301; Billy Joe Patton 80-78-76-79—313; Dr. Frank Taylor 81-79-76-78—314. Best three: 928.

British Isles 919, New Zealand 921, Argentina 940, Canada 945, South Africa 945, France 949.

'Cats Hold Auburn to 8-0 Victory

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) —Auburn found gaping holes in Kentucky's pass defense in the second half Saturday night and southpaw Lloyd Nix pitched the nation's No. 1 team to an 8-0 victory in the Southeastern Conference football headliner.

Nix found halfback Jimmy Laster wide open down the middle on the second play of the fourth quarter and pitched a 43-yard scoring strike to his senior halfback.

Auburn added a safety in the fourth when Kentucky's Calvin Bird was caught in his end zone trying to return a punt.

* * * *

KENTUCKY entered the game with the country's best pass defense and its credentials held perfectly until the third period.

Kentucky, the SEC's offensive leader, ripped through the mammoth Auburn line for 125 yards in the first half and, though it had no major threats, more than doubled the yardage by the country's best defensive team.

But quarterback Lowell Hughes went to the sidelines on an injury in the second period and Kentucky never mustered its punch after intermission.

Auburn	0	0	0	8	—8

Aub—Laster 43 pass from Nix (kick failed).

Aub—Safety (Bird tackled in end zone).

Dartmouth Rips Brown With 3 Quick TDs, 20-0

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP) — Jake Crouthhamel and Bill Gundy fired a Dartmouth ground attack Saturday that blistered previously unbeaten Brown, 20-0, in their Ivy League football game.

The Indians rolled to three touchdowns during a nine-minute span of the second period, and made a rout of what was billed as a close battle.

Gundy, a junior quarterback from Rye, N. Y., steered Dartmouth's sharp running game to 196 rushing yards by halftime while the Indians limited Brown to 37 yards on the ground and 17 in the air during the same period.

Rams 3-Point Choice to Top Lions in TV Tilt

L. A. Seeks 2nd Win of Road Trip

By JACK TEELE

The Los Angeles Rams had one for the road in San Francisco last Sunday and it tasted so good they will try to gulp down a chaser today in Detroit.

The club that experts said would be lucky to win one game on their current three-game trip, is a three-point favorite to make it two in a row today and send their already stratospheric TV rating even higher.

The Rams arrived in Detroit Friday and went through a full drill at Briggs Stadium Saturday in accordance with coach Sid Gillman's plans to break the long-standing road jinx of the L. A. Club.

"We want our boys to get the feel of the turf, and prove to themselves that there is no cement wall in front of either goal line," Gillman said as he revealed the Rams would arrive two days early for each away-from-home contest.

* * * *

GILLMAN also announced before he left Los Angeles that he would start the same lineup both offensively and defensively that clobbered the 49ers.

In the throes of a slump that has seen them lose four and tie one in their last five outings, the Lions doubtless will be meaner than the felines Daniel had to face.

Hoping to snap back, Detroit traded Bobby Layne to Pittsburgh Monday, and announced that the Lions would make or break with Tobin Rote.

TV at 10:30 Today

The Rams-Lions football game will be broadcast over KMPC and televised over KNXT (2) at 10:30 a.m. today.

The first test for the Layneless Lions will come today.

Gillman, when asked for his opinion of the Layne for Earl Morrall trade, commented:

"If Rote doesn't get hurt, it will prove a good trade for Detroit."

* * * *

THE SAME thing might be said for Gillman, the Rams and Billy Wade on the Norm Van Brocklin trade. If Wade gets hurt, the Rams will be hurting too.

But Vandy Billy has proved durable through six exhibitions and two NFL games and he will open today in a backfield that will include Jon Arnett, Tom Wilson and Del Shofner.

Rookie Jim Phillips, who gave a fine performance against the 49ers, and Lamar Lundy will start at the end posts.

Starting lineups:

Syracuse '11' Rolls Over Cornell, 55-0

SYRACUSE (AP) — Syracuse University rocketed for 37 points in the second quarter as it completely routed Cornell University 55-0 before 25,000 football fans Saturday.

The pattern was set in the opening play of the game when Syracuse halfback Tom Stephens took the kickoff and sprinted 95 yards for a score.

Then Syracuse broke loose for five touchdowns in the second period to turn the game into a massacre.

L. B. MAIN EVENTER GIVES YOUNG 'PRO' LESSONS

Don Jordan, world's top-ranked welterweight contender who will meet Gaspar Ortega in the Lafayette Hotel here Oct. 22, gives a few pointers to a young man who has been around a bit himself—despite his tender age of 12. Larry Flores is the 105-pound Golden Gloves champ of Southern California and is a three-times Golden Gloves champion. The youngster has participated in over 120 bouts. (With that experience maybe he should give Jordan a pointer or two!)

PREP FOR L.B. TV FIGHT

Ortega, Jordan Bear Down

Gaspar Ortega and Don Jordan, the world's top-ranked welterweights behind champion Virgil Akins, will commence bearing down in their training schedules today in preparation for their national television fight in the Lafayette Hotel here Oct. 22—one week from Wednesday.

Ortega is drilling in his hometown of Tijuana, while Jordan is working at the same camp in Gilman Hot Springs as did Art Aragon while preparing for his recent bout with Carmen Basilio.

• • • •

JORDAN WILL remain at his Hot Springs camp throughout the week, while Ortega will journey to the Los Angeles area either Monday or Tuesday. Both fighters are expected to hold a public workout in Long Beach next weekend.

The fight is one of the most important bouts in the nation as the winner has been guaranteed a title shot with Akins, probably in December in Los Angeles. Jordan upset Ortega three weeks ago in a bristling television bout in Portland, but might be a slight underdog here to the busy-punching Mexican idol.

Manager Dave Tallichet of the Lafayette Hotel reported Saturday that tickets for Long Beach's first national TV match are being peddled at a swift pace, "particularly the 200 ringside seats priced at $25 each."

Tallichet said he expects the ringside seats to be sold out entirely this week. Only 1000 seats are available at the second price of $15, and these also are being sold rapidly, according to Tallichet.

The price of either a $25 or $15 ticket entitles the purchaser to a full-scale steak dinner during the gala fight program in the Lafayette's Grand Ballroom. The card will include four other fights also.

The fight is being co-sponsored by the Long Beach Optimist Club and the Long Beach Century Club. Tickets can be secured at the Lafayette Hotel, at Optimist Club headquarters (in the Lafayette Hotel), at Apple Valley Steak House, and (in Los Angeles) at Olympic Auditorium, 18th and Grand Ave.

Bob Kelley Says---

DETROIT—Returning from my fruitless flight to South Bend, I bumped into Waterfield in the lobby of the Statler Hotel here, Saturday night.

"How's she look for tomorrow, Buck?" I asked. "Pretty good, huh?"

"Pretty good, what?" he replied.

"You know . . . the Rams. Think they're going to play another big ball game like last Sunday in Kezar? That ought to be enough to lick the Lions, right?"

"Wrong!" Waterfield answered. "I don't want to shock you. But the 49'ers played a bad ball game last Sunday. We weren't that good. In fact, it was one of the worst games I've ever seen a San Francisco team play."

"Oh," I gulped. "Then you think there's a chance we might get licked tomorrow."

"A darn good chance," Waterfield answered.

So now I not only have to worry about telecasting the game, but my sleep will be disturbed worrying about the outcome.

I've seen Waterfield make mistakes before. But he's on a winning streak now, that's what bothers me.

ONE NIGHT in the Pump Room, in the middle of last week, I remarked: "Guess we'll have to be lucky to beat the 49'ers Sunday, Buck."

He looked at me and said softly: "I don't see how we can lose."

Thinking I hadn't heard the usually-conservative quarterback coach clearly, I repeated: "You mean you don't see how we can win."

"I didn't say that," he enunciated slowly. "I said I don't see how we can lose Sunday."

By gosh, he was right, wasn't he?

And now he thinks the Rams are going to have a tough time licking the Lions.

IT'S NOT bad enough I have to fly all over the Midwest, only to see my Notre Damers whipped by Army. I get back to the Statler, tired and beat, and my good friend starts pouring doubt into my ear.

I didn't have time to ask Waterfield for his line of reasoning. He only indicated Detroit would be a tougher team for the Rams than they've been in their first two games with Baltimore and Green Bay.

"Oh, I don't know," I was saying. "Any team where Bobby Griffin can move in as first-string center can't be too great."

Bobby had been cut by the Rams a couple of weeks ago. An off-season operation on his bad knee hadn't taken too well, and it had slowed up the popular guy from Arkansas terribly.

Waterfield never answered my remark about Griffin.

"Got to run now, Kel. We have a coaches' meeting. We're looking at films."

"Find out all about Tobin Rote," I called.

"No, no," he replied impatiently. "We're working on next week already . . . we're going to look at the Bears."

Impressive 24-0 Victory for Rice

FAYETTEVILLE (UPI) — Second-unit quarterback Alvin Hartman and hard-running Pat Bailey pushed Rice to a 24-0 Southwest Conference victory over the hapless Hogs of Arkansas Saturday.

The Owls rolled up 225 yards on the ground, 73 of them accounted for by Bailey, and 173 through the air in handing Arkansas its third conference loss of the year. It was the conference opener for the impressive Owls.

Rice pushed across two touchdowns in the first period.

An unenthusiastic crowd of 22,000 saw Rice open its scoring with 2:23 gone in the first quarter when an Owls drive ran out of gas and Bill Bucek booted a seven-yard field goal, enough points for victory.

Lions Roar Over Yale

NEW YORK (AP) — Guard Gene Appel realized a lineman's dream Saturday when he ran back an intercepted pass 65 yards for a touchdown and paved the way for Columbia's surprise 13-0 victory over Yale.

The victory broke a 10-game losing streak for the Lions and brought them their first victory over Yale since 1951. For Yale, it was the second straight loss in Ivy League competition this year.

Harvey Brookins, a stubby scatback, made possible a second Lion touchdown late in the game with a twisting 52-yard runback of a punt. Dick Donelli then pitched a 16-yard pass to sophomore Bob Federspiel for the score.

Kansas Wins With 1st TD

AMES (UPI)—Kansas scored its first touchdown of the season Saturday and it was all the Jayhawks needed to blank Iowa State, 7-0, for their first victory in four starts.

Kansas, which had lost three straight games and had not scored a touchdown this year, abandoned its rollout passing game and scored in the second period with a time-eating ground attack and held on to win.

But it took a sensational goal line stand by Kansas with less than two minutes remaining to preserve the victory.

Maryland Stunned by Texas Aggies' Wing Ding, 14-10

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (UPI)—Improving Texas A&M flashed two long drives of single-wing football at its best to dump favored Maryland, 14-10, Saturday before 23,000.

The winning drive covered 88 yards and included virtually every play in Coach Jim Myers' single-wing repertoire. First it was tailback Charlie Milstead on short power drives through the beefy Terp line, then a hungry third-string back named Bubba McLean who swept wide for two long key gains, and finally a 37-yard rifle-shot pass from Milstead to end Don Smith on the Maryland eight.

ANOTHER Milstead pass from the hard-to-rush tailback slot went to Dick Gay on the four and two plays later, Milstead sailed wide around Maryland's massed nine-man line for the winning score.

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

BRIDGE BAY RESORT, LAKE SHASTA—I met a Southern California resident on the Rogue River the other day and he told me that he had fished the northwest for years, but had never stopped at Lake Shasta. In fact, he admitted that all he had seen of Shasta was from the highway while traveling 40 to 60 miles per hour.

Seeing Shasta from an automobile is like looking at Grand Canyon from an airliner at 21,000 feet. A quick glimpse and it's gone.

To see Shasta properly, you should stop at this resort for a few days, rent a boat or use your own and explore the many beautiful coves that were created when Shasta Dam backed up the waters of the Sacramento, McCloud and Pit Rivers years ago.

A Californian who travels and who has overlooked Shasta has missed something in western outdoor life. It doesn't matter whether you fish, water-ski, camp or just skim along for a boat ride because there's fun for all.

It's even a thrill to sit in the motel or restaurant here and look down on the marina where scores of boats are docked at safe anchorages. There's something fascinating when a tiny outboard takes off for a run across the center of the lake toward one of the many river arms.

MY WIFE AND I HAVE CALLED this vacation our laziest. From the time Lenora and I left Long Beach we had no schedule. We stopped when and where we pleased —Carmel, Pebble Beach, San Francisco, Marin County, the Rogue River, Portland, Olympia, Sekiu and Neah Bay.

At Lake Shasta we found the utmost in relaxation. The milling crowds of summer are gone, there's a touch of fall in the air and the brilliant hues of reds and golds are beginning to show.

Johnny and Edna Alford treated us to one of the laziest days of all. The Alfords operate Bridge Bay's restaurant and 40-unit motel, both certainly de luxe by any standards. John at one time was one of the owners of The Independent before its merger with The Press-Telegram. He is widely known in the Long Beach area.

We loaded sacks of food and our gear on the Playpen, a Riviera Cruiser. This craft has a 10x18-foot platform atop two Styrofoam-filled pontoons. A small iron fence surrounds the platform and a canopy covers most of the area. Power comes from any type of motor you wish.

It isn't fast, but it's the greatest in lazy cruising.

WE SPENT AN ENTIRE DAY cruising in and out of the coves of the Sacramento arm. Edna and Lenora lolled in contour-type deck chairs under the canopy while Johnny and I fished. We plugged the shoreline with Hula Poppers, catching and releasing many large- and small-mouth bass. Once we anchored in a cove and used bait and I caught two rainbow, which Johnny said were native spawn from the Kamloops strain planted in Shasta just a few years ago.

At the inlet of Indian Creek I hooked something that took off in a frenzied run and broke a six-pound-test mono line. It could have been one of the large Kamloops.

Once when we tied up the Playpen and went ashore we found tracks of deer, raccoons and even a small bear.

Although the sun was broiling hot ashore, it was cool and comfortable cruising along the smooth surface of the lake.

It was dark when we rounded an island and saw the lights of the marina and Bridge Bay's motel and restaurant. Corwin Johnson and Tom Davidage, partners of Alford in the marina section of Bridge Bay, met us at the docks and ribbed us for being the laziest people on the lake. All other boats were moored for the night.

THE TREMENDOUS POPULARITY of boats and outboard motors is in evidence everywhere here. Scores of de luxe craft are tied up at the marina. Visitors come to Shasta daily to launch their own boats. If Southern Californians had a lake the size of Shasta, the numbers of craft would be in the thousands.

Even San Francisco people trail their boats to Lake Shasta in five hours, cast away for a few hours of fishing or water-skiing and return home that evening.

Johnny and Edna closed the restaurant this week, but the motel and marina will remain open through the winter. There is an excellent snack bar near the marina. The restaurant will reopen in the spring. Meanwhile, the Alfords are packing for a well-earned vacation of their own. They are sailing later this month on the Lurline for Honolulu.

Johnson and Davidage will remain here this winter because Shasta often offers excellent fishing, as well as boating, when the weather is favorable.

Most lakes have to regulate hours for water skiiers, but at Shasta there is room for all types of water sports.

OTHER VACATION HIGHLIGHTS: We'll always remember two evenings in Portland when Nate and Ethel Buell were our hosts. They lived in Long Beach for years when Nate was in business there. Seeing the coming popularity of spin-fishing, Nate switched to the Garcia Corp., manufacturers and distributors of Mitchell reels and other Garcia products. Now Nate is the west coast distributor for Garcia on the Pacific Coast.

Nate was one of the earlier top casters of the Long Beach Casting Club when spinning was virtually unknown in this country. Now he's just as good with a spinning outfit and so is his wife. They are leaving this month for Hawaii where both will field-test some new Mitchell products.

When most people mention a vacation, they think of eating. We are no exceptions. Among the unusual and excellent places we found were these: June Simpson's and the Tuck Box in Carmel, El Prado on Union Square in San Francisco, Rickey's (always) at Palo Alto, the Nut Tree on Hwy. 40, Old Country Kitchen in Portland, Olympic Inn (for oysters) between Olympia and Port Angeles on Hwy. 101, Meier and Frank's in Salem and the Alta Mira at Sausalito.

WINS GOLD CUP EASILY

Round Table Goes to Head of $$ List

CHICAGO (AP)—Round Table moved to the top of the turf's all-time money winning list Saturday as he won the $123,850-added Hawthorne Gold Cup with a record smashing performance.

Widower Creed Easily Notches Featured Pace

Widower Creed, "horse of the meeting" at Hollywood Park last fall, picked up right where he left off last Nov. 23 as he stepped to a four and one-half length triumph over Dottie's Pick in the featured $6,350 Santa Monica Pace before a crowd of 17,188 Saturday.

Widower Creed won the final two legs of the $75,000 American Pacing Classic in identical times of 1:58⅘ last fall and his time Saturday was the same. Dottie's Pick, as game a mare as they come, tried desperately to keep up in the final quarter but Widower Creed had too much speed at the finish. Rock Brewer finished third.

The winner, an odds-on choice, returned $3.40, $2.70 and $2.20. Dottie's Pick paid $5.10 and $2.90, and Rock Brewer returned $2.70.

With Willie Shoemaker in the saddle, the hard hitting 4-year-old from Travis M. Kerr's stable boosted his total earnings to $1,336,364 with first money of $73,250. He supplanted Nashua as the world's richest thoroughbred. Nashua won $1,288,565 before retiring.

The Oklahoma-owned colt picked up top weight of 126 pounds and reeled off the 1¼ miles in 1:59 4/5 to better his own track record of 2:00 1/5 established last year.

FOR HIS 54th victory in 52 starts, Round Table returned $3.40, $2.60 and $2.20 after finishing 2¼ lengths in front of E. Gay Drake's Swoon's Son. Ekaba from the Hasty House Farms trailed by another two lengths for third place in the field of six.

Swoon's Son moved up a little in his bid to become the fourth thoroughbred millionaire. Second place was worth $25,000 and boosted his earnings to $970,605. The other millionaire is Citation, first horse to bank a million dollars.

Allowance Races Headline Card at Caliente

AGUA CALIENTE — Caliente's program today is headed by two allowance events, featuring new horses just in from California.

Three newcomers, Sweetwater from the W. C. Tompkins string; Granny's Gold, which races for Frank Colcord, and Pretty Julie from the Robert Warren stable, are among 10 going in the mile and 70 yards Hickory Purse.

The co-featured Valencia Purse rematches Philidor and Tare. Two weeks ago they ran a thriller with the former winning after three quarters in 1:10.

First Landing Scores Narrow Champagne Win

NEW YORK (UPI)—Favored First Landing, with Eddie Arcaro up, went a long way toward clinching the two-year-old championship Saturday by scoring a neck victory in the $151,300 Champagne Stakes before a crowd of 36,527, one of the largest of the season at Belmont Park.

Intentionally, First Landing's chief Eastern rival, finished third in the crack field of 10, but was moved up to second when Tomy Lee, a West Coast invader who had won all six of his previous starts, was disqualified and dropped from second to third.

First Landing, the 2-1 choice, returned $6, $3.80 and $2.90.

SMU Sub Aerialists Bomb Tigers, 32-19

COLUMBIA, Mo. (UPI) — A pair of substitute quarterbacks kept the Southern Methodist aerial circus in business Saturday as the Mustangs roared back from a three-touchdown deficit in the first half and defeated Missouri's Tigers, 32-19.

Don Meredith, the nation's leading passer last year, didn't play because of a bruised hip, but understudies Ken Lowe and Billy Dunn engineered five touchdowns in the final half for the victory.

Lowe tossed scoring passes of 24 yards to Frank Jackson and 10 yards to Bud Jones, and Dunn threw for 21 yards and a touchdown to Mike Hackney.

Tirey Wilemon dashed over from the 17 in the third period and Glenn Gregory plunged over from the four to end the scoring in the final quarter.

Death of Cat Means Scat!

BLOEMFONTEIN, South Africa (UPI) — A family faced eviction from their rented home here Saturday because a cat was their landlord.

The cat was one of three which was left the house in the will of Mrs. W. L. Kneale several years ago. The will provided that on the death of the last cat, the property must be sold and the proceeds turned over to the SPCA. The last cat just died.

Portuguese Jews Mourn Pope Pius XII

New Discovery for Hard-of-Hearing

To all readers of the Independent, Press-Telegram the Diagnostic Office will give the first treatment for only $3.00.

According to the Basic Diagnostic Office it is now possible for many people who are hard of hearing to regain all or part of their hearing loss.

So many have told us, "We have tried everything and we are so discouraged that we hesitate to try anything else." Once they try this new and proved method they are overjoyed. Just like magic, in many cases they are able to hear without their hearing aid after the first treatment.

The treatment is simple, it consists of three steps, and takes about 45 minutes, if the hearing loss is due to a nerve condition a special treatment is given; if the loss is due to catarrh a different treatment is given; if it is a bone condition, the Tympanic Oscillations treatment is given.

According to Basic Diagnostic, 70% of all hard of hearing people will be helped by this method. We believe it is as great a discovery as insulin was for diabetes.

We are so sure that we can help you that we will give you the first treatment, including an ear examination for only $3.00 providing you bring in this ad within 10 days from today.

Diagnostic Office in Southern California Since 1936. 927 E. Broadway. Dr. S. J. Anderson, D.C., Dir. Long Beach — HEmlock 6-4603. Hours: Mon., Wed., Fri., 9 to 8 P.M.; Tues. & Thurs. 9 to 5 — Sat. Till 1.

THEATER 'SICK, SICK'

Romantic Dramas Due, Arlene Francis Thinks

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Arlene Francis says romance is due for a big Broadway comeback.

The noted TV-stage star is unleashing her own vast energies in the cause.

"I think the public once again wants to see the happy side of life and not just plays of murder, incest and violence," notes Miss Francis as she reviews the way in which somber dramas have dominated Broadway for several seasons.

She has nothing, mind you, against serious theater in fair ratio, but does regard the recent diet as "sick, sick, sick."

• • • •

AFTER FIVE YEARS of major devotion to TV, she is swinging her career back to Broadway in a comedy, "Once More, With Feeling," which arrives at the National Theater Oct. 21.

She is co-starred with Joseph Cotten.

King of B's Hums Into Money Pot

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—After 20 years in B movies, Forrest Tucker is getting choice offers from top producers. So what's he doing? Leaving town.

Tucker attributes his current popularity to his willingness to read for a part.

Not long ago Director Morton DaCosta asked if he'd mind reading for a part, or even taking a screen test, for the movie version of "Auntie Mame."

"When I told him I wouldn't mind," Tucker says, "he was amazed. It seems any actor who's been around as long as I have refuses to read for roles."

Tucker got the job and DaCosta liked him so well he later put him in the title role of the national company of "The Music Man," a Broadway hit.

So for now at least Tucker is ignoring movie offers. "I'm having too much fun with the show," he says. "Hollywood will be here when I get through."

Might Call It Hairesy

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Sneak preview cards from "The Buccaneer" showed 75 per cent of the viewers were enthralled with Yul Brynner with hair while 25 per cent, nearly all women, wanted him bald again.

Brynner wears a full head of curly hair as well as a mustache in portraying the pirate, Jean LaFitte.

But the cards failed to impress Brynner. He's shaved his head again.

"I made a film in 1949 called 'Port of New York' in which I appeared with my own hair," he recalls. "Nothing happened so I went back to directing television."

And everybody knows what happened to Brynner when he started shaving his head for "The King and I."

Uncle Sam Enjoys TV Crew's Holiday

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Hollywood's Anderson Family is giving up a week's vacation for Uncle Sam.

Robert Young, Jane Wyatt and the others of TV's "Father Knows Best" series had a week off but the U. S. Treasury Department asked them to make a savings bond pitch.

The entire cast, crew, director, writer and all, will make a 30-minute film in their regular format. The show will take five days to film.

It Happened Last Night

HUDSON SQUIRE

FORT LEE, N.J. — Buddy Hackett, the lovable slob from the sidewalks of Brooklyn, lumbered the other day through the Albert Anastasia mansion which he bought for $64,000 and explained how he is a stupendous success, though broke.

"Lookut my wife's shoe closet!" puffed Bubddy, up on the second floor. "My wife never knew where to put her shoes before.

BUDDY

"Seven bedrooms, six bathrooms, we got! The previous tenant" — that would be Anastasia, who was hulleted to death in a barber chair—"even had a private phone system. Wait'll you see the cellar. It looks like the Copacabana!"

"How long will it be before you have it furnished?" I asked.

"Let's see. I'm 34. I expect to retire in 26 years. About then," he grinned.

"We got no money left. If we ever get rich, we're gonna put a pool right over there. If you get a pool you gotta have a lotta towels, and they cost you!"

• • • •

BUDDY NOW OWNS a showplace the equal of one his TV boss, Jackie Gleason, has built in Peekskill. Strolling around the patio which is on the edge of the Hudson, looking across the water to the Rockefeller Church, Buddy plucked a rose and handed it to my B. W., who'd accompanied me.

"This is the first rose from our rose bushes," he bowed, bashfully.

"I didn't even know we had roses," said his wife, Cheri. "We've only been in here about a week."

Our excursion around the half-acre estate near Palisade Parks demonstrated what we knew already — that there's a lot of money in TV. Buddy's predecessor had a steam room. He also had one large room for electric trains — which'll be Buddy's office. There was a common laundry chute — even a miniature Paris street on the patio.

"Jan Murray says you could put a cannon on the front lawn and challenge the world," Buddy beamed.

"When things weren't going too good," Buddy said, "Jerry Volpe" — (he owns the Englewood Golf Club nearby)—"and I used to ride around here and console each other.

"I always thought some day I'd like to own this house.

"When I read about the unfortunate demise of the man who lived here, I started to try to buy it. Then they had the auction. Somebody bid $100. My lawyer bid $64,000. . . .

"Then the vandals got in here. I hadda spend about $2,000 to replace plate glass windows."

• • • •

BUDDY LED US to the enormous bar, to the elegant maid's room. "It never stops." Buddy shook his head in continuing amazement.

People are always asking Buddy if he's found secret passages, tunnels, vaults, or possibly, even bodies. He hasn't. He has found some doghouses—and he knows that Anastasia had four Dobermans, which are reputed to be excellent watchdogs.

Buddy's already the community celebrity. When he took us to visit one neighbor, the man, also owner of a home on the Hudson's edge, said, "You're gonna have a thousand raccoons up there this fall."

Buddy smiled at the news. Jackie Gleason has something called "The Raccoons Club." Maybe it was a good omen.

He loaded us into the car and showed us an English-looking section merely minutes away.

"You know, this makes Fire Island look like the Bronx," he announced.

"I've never been to Fire Island," I said.

"Me neither," Buddy said. "My wife and me are both Brooklyns."

Mickey Hits Ex-Mate's Claim He Wed Jayne to Boost Career

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Mickey Hargitay says he is deeply hurt by his ex-wife's charges that he married Jayne Mansfield to further his own career.

"In fact," says the 29-year-old ex-Mr. Universe, "my main interest is Jayne's career, and I can say modestly that I make most of the important business decisions for her."

"He handles everything for me," Jayne cooed as she fed him some of her salad at lunch in the 20th Century-Fox dining room.

The first Mrs. Hargitay, in a child support court hearing two weeks ago, charged that the Hungarian-born muscleman married Jayne so he could become a movie star.

"That hurt me deeply," said Hargitay. "I don't want to be a movie star. I've been approached to be the new Tarzan, but I'm not enthusiastic about it even though I could be the first Tarzan who could really say, 'Me Tarzan, you Jayne.'"

• • • •

HARGITAY SAID he didn't think his Hungarian accent would interfere with his playing Tarzan "because he doesn't talk much anyway."

"Eat something, Honey," Jayne said, piling the rest of her salad onto her husband's plate next to his salami sandwich.

"I'm on a diet," Hargitay said. "I don't want to get too heavy. I'm already down to 210 or 215."

"Mickey's philosophy," explained Jayne, "is that a young man should exercise to live longer. Mickey's got 50 years to go."

"Now you understand why I take such good care of Jayne," Mickey said, beaming at Miss Mansfield.

"Any husband who would be lucky enough to be married to someone like Jayne would automatically take over responsibilities from her. Of course, she has wonderful advisers, but I'm closer to her.

"If I have a goose who lays golden eggs, naturally I'm going to take care of it."

JUST RECENTLY, he explained, he had Jayne hold out for $25,000 a week from a nightclub which offered her $17,000. The club came through with the extra money, he said.

Hargitay said he has his own private business, which manufactures athletic equipment.

Waxing philosophic, the muscleman said:

"The most important thing in life is to know where you're going—and never to let money interfere with love. Why should a man try to make a million dollars if it will ruin his family life?"

"You're right, Honey," smiled Jayne. "So many actresses are so busy making money that they forget their home and husband."

Mickey and Jayne said they were just amazed at the constant publicity that surrounds them.

Here's the One Way to 'Take' Las Vegas

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Peter Lawford and Frank Sinatra are going to co-produce and co-star in one of the wildest scripts yet.

"It's a story of a dozen ex-GI buddies, all experts in such fields as demolition, communications, desert survival and what not, who capture Las Vegas," says Lawford.

The Nevada gambling resort is not a military objective. The gang wants all that casino money.

"I know it sounds wild but we have a script that makes your ears stand up," Lawford adds.

Title is tentatively "Oceans 11" but that will be changed. Oceans is the name Sinatra uses in the movie. Frank wants an explosive one-word title like "Chance" or "Violence." Dean Martin and Sammy Davis Jr. are already committed for roles.

• • • •

"THE SCRIPT has the strategy all worked out for the capture of Vegas," says Lawford. "Such as where to bomb the power supply and the water supply. We plan to show it to the sheriff of Clark County and let him look for any possible slips. I think he'll get quite a charge out of it."

Las Vegas never has had any consistent, major robbery problem. There are only two highways out of the city, one airport and one railroad. And if the cops didn't get you, the desert would. But Lawford says the script solves that.

"There is only one way for a gang to get out of town with 10 million dollars on their backs — and that's walk across the desert. That's what we will do. One of the gang is a pilot who keeps dropping water and food supplies to us until we reach the Mexican border."

The movie will go into production in March, when Lawford winds up his "Thin Man" television shooting.

Seats Still on Sale for Jazz Concert

Long Beach State College's 3,000-seat Men's Gym is half sold out for the 8:30 p.m. Louis Armstrong jazz concert Friday, Bill Campbell, student commissioner of cultural activities, declared Saturday.

"Tickets for the general public at $2 each will continue on sale in the Activities Office until Friday afternoon. They will then be transferred to the gym for sale that evening," Campbell said.

Doors open at 7:30 p.m.

In order to spur student sales, a booth will be open in the patio area of the cafeteria from 7 a.m. until 2 p.m. and from 4-7 p.m. for afternoon and evening students.

The famed trumpeter will bring a five-piece combo along with his popular 300-pound vocalist Velma Middleton for the 90-minute performance.

Did You Know?
—Mastoiditis, once a scourge of children, is now all but conquered. In 1935 B.A. (Before Antibiotics) the overall cost of a case of mastoiditis amounted to about $1000.00, including surgery. Today about $15.00 worth of Antibiotics will clean up most cases without surgery.
—Polio cases have dropped 85% since 1956-58 despite the fact that almost 2/3rds of our population still need Salk shots.
—Dandruff has some relation to tension according to a study which reveals that scaly scalps are more prevalent among high-pressure job holders.
—That while drug costs have increased 31% more than in 1945; food costs have jumped 65% and rents, 50%.

Tele-Vues

by TERRY VERNON

There's a mind-challenging show on (2) at 6 p.m. called "Small World" and it makes the world pretty small when it comes to distance.

Ed Murrow ties the thing together in his own inimitable style and it is quite a job of wrap-up. Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru is in his official residence at New Delhi; Aldous Huxley takes part from Turin, Italy; and Thomas E. Dewey is in Portland, Maine, on business. Murrow will be in the New York studios.

Through a blending of TV film, overseas radio and long-distance telephone we seem to see the four men in a direct conversation, all unrehearsed. It should prove interesting and educational.

DAYTIME DATA

Special on (11) comes from Salt Lake City where the annual Mormon Conference is under way and features the famed Tabernacle Choir . . . Kim Hunter and Luther Adler star on "Lamp Unto My Feet" (2) at 9 a.m. in "Antigone" . . . "Look Up and Live" (2) at 9:30 is preempted by a program about the late Pope Pius XII . . . 7 P.M.

An old rocking chair is repaired and polished and sold at the charity auction and this doesn't make "Lassie" (2) happy at all. She figured the chair is hers and when it disappears there is lots of excitement for all concerned.

A visit to the trainer used by the Navy to train crews for atomic submarines is on tap for "You Asked For It" (7).

7:30 P.M.

"Maverick" (7) encounters some English-born ranchers and helps them out of trouble with some outlaws. This episode has high spots of comedy since it was written by Marion Hargrove.

Rep. Clair Engle (D) appears on the "Dan Lundberg Show" (13).

9 P.M.

COLOR — "Dinah Shore Show" (4) has Peter Lawford, Ella Fitzgerald, Julius LaRosa and Jimmy Durante as the guests.

Ronald Reagan stars as the head of a wagon train on "G.E. Theatre" (2) and his co-star is Ethel Shutta, longtime entertainment star of the '30s who makes her TV debut. A practical joker causes an Indian attack on the train and later the citizens want to hang the joker.

9:30 P.M.

MONDAY DAYTIME

"Operation Daybreak" gets under way on (7) with three-and-a-half hours of brand new LIVE programming from both New York and Hollywood added to the net's current "American Bandstand." "Peter Lind Hayes Show" airs at 11:30 with Mary Healy helping and introducing the guest stars. "Mother's Day" is at 12:30 p.m. with Dick Van Dyke and is a panel show featuring tips to homemakers. "The Liberace Show" is at 1 p.m. and Dick Roman is the guest singer. "Chance For Romance" comes along at 2 p.m. with John Cameron Swayze as host. Men and women are introduced and go dating under chaperonage. "Dr. I.Q." debuts locally at 2:30 with Tom Kennedy as the host. (Tom is really Jim Narz, the brother of famed announcer, Jack Narz.) Sound the Cymbals! Time of the Opera Is Near

RED, EXCITING as an opening night, warm as a contralto's voice, has been chosen by these three members of the Long Beach Auxiliary to Southern California Symphony Assn. for their attire Oct. 24 at "La Boheme." Roses outline the decolletage of Mrs. Doris W. Richards' red chiffon gown; Mrs. Frank Vessels Jr. will appear in an Edith Small creation of lace and satin, and Mrs. Charles S. Oliver's silk gown is by Balenciaga.—(All photos on page by Joe Risinger, Staff Photographer.)

SHARP CONTRAST, like the black and white of a keyboard, is noted in gowns these three Long Beach women will wear to the San Francisco Opera Co.'s opening night in Shrine Auditorium, Los Angeles. Black Chantilly lace over satin by Sophie is Mrs. Wallace D. Arntzen's choice, while Mrs. William P. Ellery, concert chairman, selected a Maxwell Shieff original of white chiffon over pink satin. Draped white chiffon with eye-catching hemline is Mrs. Ethel Severson's preference.

Women

LONG BEACH 12, CALIF., SUNDAY, OCT. 12, 1958 SECTION W

Let's Unite, the Checkbook Way

Preparations will be under way in hundreds of households during coming days for quick meals and a minimum of housekeeping as thousands of women get ready to spend next week ringing doorbells on behalf of the 31 agencies of the United Neighbors Community Chest.

Latest tabulations of workers signed up at Chest residential headquarters reveal that this will be the largest team of women ever to take part in a Chest drive.

"Despite fatigue of women at 'too many other drives,' we have recruited this record number because this is the one campaign that reaches into the homes of all of us and more directly affects our personal lives than any other cause," Mrs. Francis M. Lowry, residential division chairman, believes.

SHE ADDED that women, in particular, are most anxious that their families and neighbors have adequate services available.

"Through the efforts of each of our 4,232 women, I am sure our residential quota of $94,953 can be raised," she declared.

"I wish there were some way we could let all in the four communities know who these wonderful people are who will be calling at each door and working so hard for all of us."

THE DIVISION is organized into 19 areas with four vice-chairmen assuming responsibility for one to five parts of her territory.

Mrs. Joseph B. Knudson, Lakewood residential chairman, has the largest section with five area generals who have 1,107 women on their teams and a quota of $4,693 of the division's $94,593 goal to raise.

Central Long Beach where Mrs. John Brennan's and Mrs. Lawrence Hunt's teams have a $13,167 quota, have enlisted the aid of clubs and agen-

Buffet Party In Kadvany Home Is Gala Prelude to First Night

By JEAN B. MOORE

Opening night—a talismanic phrase any time—takes on added luster with the addition of two other equally magic words — opera season. Add to these yet two more words — cocktail buffet — and the mind conjures brilliant singing, perfume and furs, soaring music, standing ovations, electric excitement, shimmering jewels and opulent settings.

Southland translation: Friday, Oct. 24 is the date the San Francisco Opera Company opens in Shrine Auditorium with Puccini's "La Boheme." That night names like Lisa Della Casa, Sylvia Stahlman, Giami Raimondi, Frank Guarrera, John Gillaspy, Lorenzo Alvary, Richard Wentworth, Virginio Assandri, and Robert Thomas will flicker like grace notes on the tongues of opera lovers at intermission.

* * * *

GIVING Long Beach opera patrons added inspiration before the freeway drive to the Shrine will be a gala gathering of first nighters at a cocktail and buffet party in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Alexander Kadvany, 3334 E 1st St.

Seasonal flowers will adorn their home and hi-fi music from "La Boheme" will set an appropriate mood.

Among the guests that night will be Drs. and Mmes. Robert Buffum, Arthur Buell, Leslie V. Esposito, Walter Gilkey, G. O. Gordon and Charles S. Oliver; Messrs. and Mmes. Wallace D. Arntzen, Dominic N. Cavaliere, Howard Coy, Robert Cults, William P. Ellery, Walter C. Groshong, James H. Herley, Reese Hanson, George Johnson, and Edward Killingsworth.

* * * *

ALSO Messrs. and Mmes. Paul McBride, Glenn Manning, Don Mills, Earl Milton, Victor A. Mingers, Martin Nishkian, John A. Richards, George Shiff, Albert Stevenson, Ed Tubach, Frank Vessels Jr., William E. Webb, Stanley Weiss and Monroe S. Yunker.

Others bidden are Count and Countess Eugene Lukawiecki and Mmes. Betty Benwell, Jack Herley, Doris W. Richards, Ethel Severson and Herbert W. Waite and Mr. Claude Hammond.

The San Francisco Opera Co. is celebrating its 22nd season in Los Angeles. The season closes Nov. 9. In recognition of the centenary of Giacomo Puccini's birth, "La Boheme" was selected as the first presentation and will be repeated Nov. 1.

Farewell Party for Couple

A bon voyage party was given recently in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Hanbery, 4015 Elm Ave., honoring their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Anderson who sailed from New York last week for Italy on the Italian liner Cristoforo Columbo.

A naval architect, Mr. Anderson will be in charge of his company's Rome office. The couple will visit Cannes and Genoa before taking up their year's residence in Rome.

Attending the buffet dinner were Messrs. and Mmes. Webster G. Hanbery, Kent Hanbery, James W. Hanbery, Frederick Kellogg, Ellis L. Johns, Charles S. Dickie; Hubert Welch, Hubert Welch Jr., Charles Welch and Mrs. Ruth Welch; Miss Sandra Dickie, and the Dickie's houseguest, Barbara Cauchoix, an exchange student from Paris.

OUNCE OF PREVENTION

Anticipating hard wear on shoe leather during the coming residential solicitation for the United Neighbors Community Chest, Mrs. Albert L. Foley, a Lakewood worker, consults department manager William Foley on the fit of 2-year-old Kenneth's new footwear, while daughter Cheryl and son Roger await their turn.

FOR HER OPERA ENTRANCE, Mrs. Alexander Kadvany will wear a black Falkenstein gown of silk peau de soie with skirt fashioned of puckered squares of the material. Her earrings were a purchase in Paris on a recent visit. Mrs. Kadvany is opera chairman this season for the Long Beach Auxiliary to Southern California Symphony Assn. She and Dr. Kadvany will entertain a group of friends in their home here prior to "La Boheme."

ALL IN THE GAME

Mrs. Arthur R. Friebel kibitzes a session of dominoes at the YMCA while taking a "come and see" tour of Community Chest agencies. As a westside colonel for the United Neighbors campaign starting Oct. 20, she is vitally interested in activities of such youth agencies of which Leonard Thornquist, left, and Alan Baltuth are members. This season's band of women volunteers seeking donations to Community Chest is largest it city's history.

THE PUSH IS ON

She's a smart campaigner, is Mrs. Curtis Vaughn. Before the Community Chest drive actually gets under way next week, she and her children are making a preliminary survey of the block to be covered. Mother of 10 children, Mrs. Vaughn prudently took along but three. The twins are Pat and Pam, shown with one of their big sisters, Mary, 3.

The Wild Waves Say

By IOLA MASTERSON

IF THERE was more than the usual amount of head turning and neck stretching Tuesday night at The Reef, it was the better to see Clare and Lynn Hossom's distinguished guests. We hope the focal point of the curious glances, Sir and Lady Harvey-Watts of Edinborough, Scotland, were too busy admiring the view to notice. We were very careful, very casual, about trying to sneak a peek and everyone thinks this new longer, neckline is very becoming.

"New Neckline"

You can be sure Wednesday morning we were on the telephone in search of information and discovered that the delightful and jolly titled couple are on a tour of the United States and Canada. They first met Clare and Lynn on a voyage aboard the Queen Elizabeth a couple of years ago and have kept in touch ever since. So when their travels brought them to Southern California they picked up the nearest invention of that Yankee known as Bell and said "Cheerio." Taken by surprise but not off guard the Hossoms, in a wink, revised their plans for the day in favor of being sightseeing guides for the Scots who think our state is "ripping" and, in particular, were impressed by Long Beach's tropical appearance.

Just for the record think we'd better include the fact that Sir Harvey-Watts has been a member of Parliament in the United Kingdom for 26 years. It's too bad they had to leave for New York Thursday. There are some candidates around here, who would have loved to discover his secret of political longevity!

RICK RACKER president Carlene Jaques and husband, Norman, have stars in their eyes for someone other than each other and are making no secret of their new devotion! You see they've both fallen hopelessly, head over heels in love with a little guy by the name of Douglas Alan who came to live at their house a couple of weeks ago with completion of adoption papers. In less than a year Doug will be old enough to say Carlene and Norman which everybody learned is now pronounced Mama and Daddy when Mama told the good news, best announcement of the day, at Rick Racker meeting Tuesday.

UP IN OREGON the steelhead are still shivering in their scales even although the danger to life and fin has passed with the return to California of those determined fishermen, Phil Clark and Hugh Gibbs, who have been in a fight to the finish all this week with the citizens of the Klamath River. The men drove up to the favorite fishing spot last Saturday and were expected home this weekend, battle banners flying over crossed rod and reel.

PUT 2 AND 5 together and you get 7 a lucky number in Las Vegas. So Jackie and Chuck Hughes will wait until Oct. 25 to go to the city where the jingle bells of silver dollars carol all year 'round and everyone kids himself that Santa Claus is disguised as a one-armed bandit.

BROOKS THAT keep overflowing their banks and running off in all directions are Flo and John. They've been in Coronado this week for the State Bar Assn. convention and next Friday they'll fly up to Palo Alto with Flo's sister, Lewise Mersinusky, to celebrate Freshman Parent's Day at Stanford with son, new Farmer Bill. Helping keep the family reputation unturnished, Bill, in the meantime, flew down this weekend to attend the first annual Grande Prix at Riverside which, we have been given to understand, is the Sebring of the West Coast. In the meantime, John Brooks Jr. and his bride, Elizabeth, are in Pensacola, Fla., where John is in the thick of jet pilot training for the Navy. They write, "We'll be home for Christmas," which will put them smack in the center of the Brooks' family stream where the current is merriest.

WHEN OREGON beats Cal on Oct. 25—or do you think Cal will beat Oregon?—Jean and "Soapie" Rastello will be in those Berkeley stands to prove to the Webfoots and the Bears that silence is not golden at football games. Hope they save enough voice to order good food and drink in San Francisco that night.

TRAVELING stones gather no moss and neither do traveling Tuytes. In this case Beulah Van Tuyle who left yesterday on a flying three-week vacation trip and, as always, to far places. This year "Baedeker" Beulah will ramble around Mexico. You name the place and she'll probably have been there before she gets back home.

WE'LL BET our last Lincoln penny that the Statue of Liberty looked more beautiful than anything in the Louvre or the Tower of London to Helen and Clare Hamman Tuesday when they arrived in New York aboard the Queen Elizabeth after three months of vacation traveling in Europe. They're due home this weekend by train.

WON'T BE TOO long before Dr. Ed Abate, USN, will be able to pick up heartbeats on Guam through his stethoscope. This will be made possible because he'll be there with wife, Judith, and wherever there's a medic you can be darn sure he isn't going to let a heart beat anywhere near him without listening. It's gonna take a long time before loneliness for the Abates abates in Navy circles here.

FROM ADIOS to hello—from Mexico City to Long Beach—was all in a happy day's journey for Dorothy and Jim Nagle, Ruby and Sterlin Fisher, Betty and Harry Lounsbury, Ann and Joe Ratliff and Frances and Ray Hamby who flew back into town after a bonus pleasure trip from the insurance company that loves them so and proved its appreciation with this gift vacation which began Oct. 2.

THAT LAST item reminds us of new collegiate pledges to add to the list begun and still not ended. Reason is that the Nagle's daughter, Margo, went Kappa Delta at SC. The week's mail brought word, too, that Esther Sharp, up on the Cal campus this semester after her first two years at Scripps, pledged Delta Zeta, and in the same group of neophytes at Cal's DZ house is Andree Bujold who transferred from City College to the Berkeley stomping grounds.

COMMUNITY Playhouse director, Larry Johns, stole the show during board of directors meeting last Saturday. Nothing could top his announcement that he and Marjorie Short would be married in December back in Cleveland, Larry's old home town. After their wedding they'll go on to New York for a honeymoon stay on old Broadway. As if all this wasn't enough excitement, Larry has just been cast in the part of one of the elders in Universal's four-million-dollar-budget production of, "The Big Fisherman," dramatization of Lloyd Douglas' best selling book, sequel to "The Robe." It's a good part, we understand, and Larry will soon be spending his days "on camera" as an actor and his nights backstage as director at the Playhouse.

ON THE subject of Community Playhouse, the most authentic thing about it's current production, "Happiest Millionaire," are the props, AND NO OFFENSE MEANT to Marvin Cloyd, who is excellent in the title role. Marvin is happy enough, you understand, and a fine actor, but he hasn't quite cornered his first million yet. But as for the props, well, when it came to arranging for them Jo Maes Knoerr, prop mistress, was like a woman driver on a one-way street. You know what we mean. Determined! She sent numerous telegrams to Philadelphia and wrangled more doggone authentic items from the era (it's the story of Anthony J. Drexel Biddle and his madcap daughter and is set in 1917). The theater is old stuff to Jo who was manager of a motion picture theater in Ghent, Belgium from 1932 until 1940 when the war forced her return home to the U. S. She met her husband, Eugene, in little theater work in West Virginia. They're still co-starred at home and in the playhouse where Eugene is stage manager for this current comedy in which Jo also plays a part.

HOME AGAIN are Annetta and Tony Horner, discharged from service and back to civilization from his Army post in Texas. They're making their home temporarily at "Vi" and Lee Zilliott's home in Lakewood ("Vi" is Tony's aunt) while the Zilliotts vacation in the east. The kids did find one thing wonderful in Texas to bring home with them—cute-as-a-bug baby son, Michael, now 8 months old.

Latest 'n' Merriest Night of the Week

Wednesday night was later and merrier than any mid-week evening has a right to be when Sara and Dr. Bill Wenkle entertained at an after theater champagne buffet supper party in honor of the John Carradines following Magnolia Theatre's drama, "The Winslow Boy," which ends tonight and in which Carradine stars.

"Yummy demonstration"

The hostess and president of the theater's board invited theatergoers Jane and Rudy Vaughn of Santa Ana, Lucienne Brack and Ellen DeCoster of Laguna Beach, Dr. Alex and Luba Kadvany, Alice Neighbors, Irene Trepanier and Mary Lou and Dick Zehms.

Guest Lucienne, a Belgian, restaurateur and continental chef, performed at the Wenkle kitchen range with as deft a touch as Carradine displays on stage as he demonstrated how to make a perfect omelet for the benefit of the midnight-hungry who also feasted on turkey, chicken, ham, et al.

Mexico Honeymoon

Mrs. Ricardo J. Novo

At home this week in San Francisco following a honeymoon trip to Mexico City are Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Novo. The bride is the former Shirley von KleinSmid, daughter of prominent Long Beach residents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. von KleinSmid.

Wedding vows were recited Oct. 4 in an 8 p.m. ceremony read by Dr. James H. Hughes in California Heights Methodist Church.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father and wore a stunning gown of miramist taffeta. Point de Venise lace framed the scoop neckline and empire bodice. The bouffant skirt featured a pouf back extending into chapel train. A crown of lace and pearls caught her frothy veil of illusion and she carried a dainty arrangement of eucharist and valley lilies.

* * * *

PRECEDING HER to the flower-banked altar were her sister, Mrs. John R. Crowe Jr., matron of honor, and Pamela Bryden and Virginia Palmer, bridesmaids. Attendants were gowned identically in emerald green iridescent taffeta with matching headbands and carried wood roses with angel feathers.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesus Novo of Buenos Aires, Argentina, asked John Gibbons of San Francisco to be his best man. The 200 wedding guests were seated by Richard L. von KleinSmid, brother of the bride, and Rolf Beeler.

* * * *

THE HOME of the bride's parents was setting for a reception following the ceremony hostessed by the bride's aunt, Mrs. James M. Banister, and her cousin, Lynne Banister. Mrs. Roland C. Summit presided at the guestbook. The bride's mother selected a champagne brocade sheath dress for the occasion, with a matching hat of satin leaves and a green cymbidium corsage.

The new Mrs. Novo was graduated from Polytechnic High School and Scripps College. Her husband is a graduate of Universidad Central de Buenos Aires.

More Tips on Style

By ILKA CHASE

Due to this fall's radical change of fashion and to a variety so wide that it's hard to know just what the fashion is, we printed last week the first three of 13 guideposts to smart dressing as set down in a book, "Always in Vogue," by a lady wise in the ways of a capricious art.

The lady was my mother, Edna Woolman Chase, who went to Vogue as a girl of 18 in 1895 and remained with the magazine for nearly 60 years, 38 of those years as its editor-in-chief.

The philosophy of dress that she evolved over this long span is an intelligent one, applicable no matter what the mode of the moment.

The first three points condensed are: 1) Study yourself objectively. Your person is the material with which you have to work. 2) Groom yourself carefully. Skillful make-up and well-done hair are vital to an elegant appearance. 3) Choose clothes that play up your good points and subdue your bad.

"Point 4—In fashion do not have the courage of your mistakes. They are expensive but you must be brave. If you've pulled a boner, if the dress or hat so beguiling in the shop is a dud in the home, pitch it out.

"Point 5 — Select clothes appropriate to the life you lead. The wildly inappropriate garment usually is the mistake of youth, before the discipline of taste and budget has had time to sink in.

"Point 6—The allotment of the budget. There are certain articles in one's wardrobe on which one not only may but should splurge. Within reason, of course. A good cashmere sweater will last for years. Your winter coat should be the very best you can afford. It is meant to survive several seasons, keep you warm and be worn every day. The same is true of your tailored suit. Also your street shoes should be the best. Smart, comfortable and with a medium heel.

"Point 7—Don't buy too much. With the exception of the aforementioned staples which should last several seasons buy only what you need at the time. Make it serve you well and get rid of it.

"Point 8 — Consider color carefully. If your clothes are interchangeable, shoes and accessories doing duty with several dresses and suits, you will achieve greater variety at less cost.

"Point 9—Don't get set in concrete as to what colors you can and cannot wear. To be adamant on the subject of black or brown, shrimp-pink or almond-green is nonsense. With the right shade of rouge, lipstick and powder quite possibly you can wear them. Also remember that as we grow older we frequently can change our color spectrum with flattering results.

"Point 10—A Dress your age. The interesting men of the world like women who appear youthful but who are not pathetic carbon copies of the girls they were. On the other hand, clothes that are too sophisticated do not imbue the youthful wearer with a femme fatale look but on the contrary give her a comically childlike appearance.

"B As you grow older cover up. Aging flesh is not appealing. For the older woman, misty tulle scarves in the evening or little jackets or stoles are pleasant bits of decorative flattery.

"Point 11—A Stand up when you buy a hat. Few ladies, we trust, are so foolish as to buy a hat without viewing it from the profile and three-quarter angles as well as from the front but it must also be integrated with the rest of you.

"B Sit down when you buy a dress. Is it so full that it lies in puddles on the floor? Does the wrap-around skirt fall open? Is it so tight that it rides above your knees? Also walk in it to make sure it doesn't bind.

"Point 12—Pare down the nonessentials. Integrate jewels and flowers and scarves into your costume so they are a deliberate accent.

"Point 13—Even if wealthy adopt as your slogan More Taste Than Money. As in cooking or bartending so in good dressing the mixture is the secret. Never be guilty of wearing fancy shoes with a sports costume, an elaborate hat with a simple tailored suit.

Something for the Boys

Ol' Ted Hits Back at 'Mystery Fans'

By TED KREC

The basic reason for this column always has been to give the readers various and sundry memoranda on grooming and good taste, so I do not consider it out of my province if today I talk about the epitome of poor taste—anonymity.

The anonymous telephoner or letter writer is one of the crosses we in the newspaper business have to bear, and it's a mighty weighty one. I referred to anonymity as poor taste. Actually it's more than that, it's downright insulting. When our people here at the paper answer their phones, they usually tell what department it is and who is speaking. The person on the other end then has the advantage. If he doesn't tell who he is, the newsman has two strikes against him, for he can't see who is speaking and he doesn't even know the caller's name.

Hardly a day goes by that we don't get a few anonymous calls wailing that Sob Sister Sorority got a five-inch story in the paper while the poor Complaining Coeds got only a three-inch story! What's more, our mystery callers always know why this happened, and usually they attach a discriminatory meaning to it, sometimes religious, sometimes social and sometimes political.

* * * *

THE FEW times that I have bothered to talk with these people, I have tried to explain that when a paper is ready to go to press it goes! If a story has been cut, it has not been because of any base motives, but merely because we needed a shorter story to complete the page. If we don't cut one to fit, the merry men in the composing room are entitled to drop anything in there to meet their deadlines. But explaining this is just so much wasted effort.

Cranks who are too fainthearted to put their names to communiques are busy all the time. For example, when I wrote a column recently about sloppy help in restaurants, I got my usual collection of unsigned grouch notes. What does this indicate? Simply that the column hit home and struck sensitive notes in many guilty consciences.

A couple of weeks ago, I blasted at the hoodlums of Van Buren, Ark., who barred the schooling of Negro pupils by threats of violence, thus defying the edict of the highest court in the land. Again the lily-livered were busy, sending rebuke after rebuke railing at me — mostly unsigned. How do I interpret this? Simply that there are a lot of people who think they're better than other people, but are afraid to stand up and be counted on this score.

Then, too, whenever I let loose at the sport-shirt, dirty-fingernail, no-tie-or-coat set, the mailman is busy. What does this signify? That's an easy one, Camembert—thank you for asking. It means that there must be a lot of slobs running loose!

Everyone is entitled to an opinion and to the right to express his opinion. But everyone else is entitled to know who is saying these things. That's why newsmen put by-lines at the top of columns such as this.

* * * *

I'D LIKE to say right now that as far as any bona-fide newspaper is concerned, anonymous information is completely worthless, for it usually is prompted by poison-pen or selfish, picayune motives. Someone is angry at someone else or jealous of him, so he cooks up a phony deal to get his fancied adversary in trouble. Any reliable newspaper will discount this trash immediately.

When I say this, of course, I don't mean that when you call up to find what is playing at the theater you have to say:

"This is Melvin Hamhead of 12512 Gung-ho Rd. I'm 38 years old and work in Los Angeles and I'd like to know what's playing there tonight."

Of course you don't—that's a ridiculous extreme. But when you are calling to give or receive information, praise or complain, please be courageous enough to say who you are. No one's going to hurt you—it's just a courtesy.

No, Camembert, in all the years I've worked for newspapers I've never been disturbed by anonymous calls or letters, no matter how violent; for I've always operated on the belief that if a person doesn't have nerve enough even to tell his name, then you have nothing to fear from him—he's really scared!

CHAMPAGNE AND A FASHION DANSANT

Planning Altrusa Club's biggest, most gala philanthropic affair of the year—its annual champagne fashion dansant to take place next Sunday in the Cavalier Room of the Lafayette Hotel from 5 until 10 p.m. are from left, Mrs. Ward Dixon, president of the women's service club, Miss Kay Langen, Mrs. Loyd Smith, chairman of the popular party, Wilma Hastings and Mrs. Norman Wood.—(Staff Photo.)

YACHTING COMMAND TO CHANGE

Penguin skippers and crews, Commodore Theodore C. Matson and Mrs. Matson (left) and Vice Commodore Palmer Wentworth and Mrs. Wentworth of Alamitos Bay Yacht Club, pause at the rail as they watch boats of another fleet come about at the starting line. After a year's duty they will turn over the helm to others at the 32nd annual Trophy Dinner and installation of officers Saturday in the Sunset Room of Pacific Coast Club.—(Harry Merrick Photo.)

Altrusa Club to be Hostess at Gay Fashion Dansant

Contrary to usual procedure in clubdom, local Altrusans will stage their biggest philanthropic party of the year—in fact their only major annual fund-raising event — as the first affair of the new club season. It will be an exuberant champagne fashion dansant next Sunday in the Cavalier Room of the Lafayette Hotel.

Beginning with cocktails at 5 p. m. party hours until 10 p. m. will be filled to perfection with buffet supper, surprise program, a fashion show and dancing. Money derived from the dansant will be contributed to the Long Beach Psychiatric Clinic for Children in order that emotionally disturbed children, referred by teachers, ministers, physicians, juvenile authorities, may be given psychiatric care while their troubled parents receive counselling in regard to their children and pay only according to their ability.

* * * *

BECAUSE Sunday is the opening day of week-long activities for United Nations Week, Altrusa Club, a member locally and internationally, will use an international theme in decor and programming.

The fashion show will be presented by well known commentator and Altrusa member Wilma Hastings and will feature newest styles for both men and women from several favorite Long Beach shops. Audrey Shore dancers will perform and music for the evening will be provided by the Goddard Combo.

Among special guests on the invitation list are Dr. Joseph Carpentieri, director of the clinic, the board of directors including officers Mmes. Eaton O. Bemis, Lauren H. Conley, Sidney Exley, their husbands and Marvin Tincher and Mrs. Tincher as well as the clinic staff.

* * * *

GUESTS ARE also expected from Altrusa Clubs of Pasadena, Santa Monica, Glendale, Laguna Beach, Riverside, Anaheim, Fullerton, Santa Ana and West Covina, the latter a new club recently sponsored by Long Beach. Mrs. John Collins, district governor, and her husband of Pasadena are expected to be present.

Mrs. Alexis Jacoubowsky, state president of the United Nations Assn. and a member of Long Beach Altrusa, will attend with her husband and a party of friends. In recognition of her outstanding work in United Nations activities, fellow Altrusans will accord her a particular place of honor during the festivities.

* * * *

RESERVATIONS may still be made by mail or telephone with Mrs. Loyd Smith, 155 Granada Ave., general chairman of the dansant, or with any member of her committee composed of Mmes. Wilma Hastings, Ward Dixon, Myrtle Seiler, Cora Morgan, Norman Wood, Irene Chandler and Miss Kay Langen.

Plans Readied for Organizing by Sorority

Plans are being completed this week for organization of two Nu Phi Mu chapters of Beta Sigma Phi sorority in Long Beach during the visit here of Mrs. Laura Daniels of the international office in Kansas City, Mo.

Prospective pledges have been invited to rush meetings in the Cavalier Room of Lafayette Hotel to hear Mrs. Daniels explain aims and purposes of the sorority. The new Long Beach chapters will be installed formally Thursday at Lafayette Hotel.

* * * *

NU PHI MU is the first degree of Beta Sigma Phi sorority, which is the world's largest Greek-letter organization. There are 18 active chapters in Long Beach, 500 in California and more than 6,000 throughout the world. Nu Phi Mu is designed for business girls, homemakers and students between the ages of 17 and 22 who wish to meet new friends, widen their cultural interests and take an active part in affairs of the community.

Gifts, Gadgets

Golden State Auxiliary 279, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will entertain with a "gift and gadget" party at 7 p.m. Monday in Mottell's and Peek Garden Room as a benefit for its relief fund.

Birthday Dinner

Long Beach Chapter 63, Pythian Sisters, will have a birthday dinner from 5:30 to 7 p.m. Monday preceding its regular business meeting in Machinists Hall, 728 Elm Ave. Goldie Price is dinner chairman.

Yacht Club's Installation Set Saturday

Alamitos Bay Yacht Club will stage its 32nd annual Trophy Dinner and installation of officers at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in Sunset Room of Pacific Coast Club with Commodore Theodore C. Matson in the skipper's chair.

Prior to the dinner, cocktails will be served at 6:30 p.m., with a "Coke-tail" hour for junior members.

An autumn theme is planned in decor arranged by Mrs. Grace Hurt, decorations chairman. Multi-colored fall leaves and gourds will be used in wicker baskets.

Hundreds of awards from daily firsts to perpetual trophies will be presented to the winners by Francis O. Merchant, chairman of the trophy committee.

* * * *

SPECIAL SERVICE awards will be made by Commodore Matson to committee chairmen and others who have given outstanding service to the club during the past year.

At the conclusion of the presentations, Loyd M. Landes will be installed as commodore; Robert B. Hoffman, vice commodore, and S. B. Thomas, senior rear commodore. Outgoing Commodore Matson and Vice Commodore Palmer Wentworth will remain on the executive board as directors. Thomas F. Knight Jr. and Albert Vignola Jr. are new directors, elected at the annual meeting in September.

Dancing, 10 to midnight to the music of Bob Callaway, will conclude the affair.

Bolshoi Ballet Film at Theater

American audiences will be offered for the first time an opportunity to witness a complete evening of ballet on film as performed by the Bolshoi Ballet group of Moscow when the Rank Organization presentation of "The Bolshoi Ballet," with prima ballerina Galina Ulanova, will have its first public performance Tuesday at the Crest Theater, at 2 p. m. and 8 p. m.

Recognized by critics throughout the world as a hallmark by which all other ballet groups must be judged, the Bolshoi Ballet's performance last year in London has been recorded on color film and in wide-screen just as performed at the Covent Garden for Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II.

"THE BOLSHOI BALLET" film is unique. It brings to the screen in a manner that never before has been attempted the breath-taking accomplishments of one of the greatest companies in the world. It was filmed on the stage of the Royal Opera House Covent Garden, London, and at the Davis Theater, Croydon, by a multi-camera method originated by producer-director Paul Czinner.

Ulanova dances the full-length classic "Giselle" in the film, which also has six other ballet divertissements typical of the Russan repertory. There are excerpts from the Bolshoi Ballet's production of "The Fountain of Bakhchisarai," "Swan Lake," "Ivan Susanin" and "Faust," as well as the divertissements, "Spring Water," with music by Rachmaninoff, and "The Dying Swan," created by Fokine for Anna Pavlova and performed in this film by Ulanova.

MOLLY MAYFIELD

When She Fell for Him

DEAR MOLLY:

I met a boy my age (14) on our vacation. He is the nicest boy I've ever known. He took me to Disneyland. His parents were our chaperones and very nice ones, too.

We went over to Tom Sawyer's Island and went through the cave. In one place the floor was slippery and I slipped. He caught me, and when he did I got the chills up and down my spine.

Could you tell me what would cause them, please?

COOL DROOL

DEAR COOL DROOL:

For a fact, chills are nothing to freeze over. Becky probably had them before you, and Eve before that.

They are sort of a prelude, I guess, to the warming up process. Bless you.

M.M.

• • • •

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I have two sisters and they have boy friends that are cousins. They bring along another cousin and my mother tells me to sure be nice to this boy. I have been so far, but I'm sick and tired of him because he isn't good looking.

I'm thinking of getting another boy friend, but what should I do when he comes over and this other boy is here? (He comes every weekend.)

WORRY WART

DEAR WORRY WART:

If your mother approves the new arrangement, just tell the new boy friend that this boy comes to see your sisters.

M. M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I'm 17 and will be a senior this fall. My parents are going to make this year less than I'd like it to be.

Ever since I began dating two years ago, I've been required to be home at midnight. No later! Now that I'm a senior I'd like to have a year I'll always remember.

I've tried talking to my parents about letting me stay out till 1 a. m. but it's no go. I feel so out of place when I always must be the first to leave an affair still in progress.

CINDY

DEAR CINDY:

Between midnight and 1 o'clock just what can be done to make your year more memorable?

You'll have more years on your own, staying out till then, than you'll ever have under your parents' care.

And if more parents cared, you'd not be the first to leave. Hon, that extra hour of sleep will do you a world of good.

M. M.

Dance Talent on Community Show Monday

Young artists from the dance classes of Paramount Park, under the direction of Miss Marijo Christian, will be featured on the Community Program, sponsored by Long Beach Recreation Dept. in Exhibit Hall, Municipal Auditorium, Monday at 8:00 p. m.

Highlighting the show will be a production number, "Rain in Spain." Miss Georgia Atton of Long Beach, who has appeared on many hospital, U.S.O. and benefit shows, will be featured in several Hawaiian dance numbers. Eight-year-old Molly Lowe, who appeared on the "Rocket to Stardom" television program, will do a specialty tap solo. An adagio number will feature Gus and Geri Gold and Karen Cody will dance some of the numbers she has performed at recent Polynesia luaus. Miss Cody appeared in the television play, "The Pied Piper."

• • • •

CONNIE SHOEMAKER, national baton twirler, will show her skill. The show will be produced by Miss Roxy Hartt, former television and radio star of Hollywood. Miss Hartt also is known as "Stormy" by patients at Rancho Los Amigos where she presents talent shows bimonthly.

Mac Mathers will lead the community singing to open the program at 7:30 p. m. with Regenia Beam as accompanist.

Old time and square dancing to the music of the Tyo Orchestra will follow the stage performance.

For the Records: Library Has Idea

The Public Library suggests exploring the lesser known works of the musical masters. This week's list offers opportunities with Brahms, "Trio in E Flat Major"; Rimsky-Korsakov, "Christmas Eve — Suite"; Tchaikovski, "Quartet in E Flat Minor for Strings" (a premiere performance); Tchaikovski, "Souvenir of Florence" (sextet for strings), and Vivaldi, "Concertos," performed by the Pro Musica String Orchestra and Reinhold Barchet, violinist.

All of the recordings are available from the Main Library for two-week loans.

Story League

Mrs. Ada Lyon will be in charge of the program for Story League when it meets at 1 p. m. Monday in the home of Mrs. Ann J. Cooper, 1332 Belmont Ave. Mrs. L. J. Oberson will preside at the business session.

One-Man Exhibit at Museum of Art

By VERA WILLIAMS
Independent-Press-Telegram Art Editor

Connor Everts, longshoreman turned painter, will give a gallery talk at 2 p. m. today in the Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd., on his one-man exhibition of drawings and paintings which will be in the Museum through Nov. 5.

Everts, who received his B.A. in Mexico and was a research student at Courtauld Institute, University of London, has exhibited in London, Mexico City and many major juried exhibitions in the West, including the San Francisco Museum annual, the Pacific Coast Biennial, the Los Angeles County Museum annual and the National Orange show. He won this year's Mira Costa purchase award. He is registered in the Archives of Contemporary Art, Venice, Italy.

Says Jerome Allan Donson, director of the Museum of Art: "Connor Everts is a young artist of manifold facets. He is alternately a painter, longshoreman, philosopher and gallery director. He is also a perceptive human being with a moral conscience. The ability and calm energy which characterize him as a person are evident in his work. . . . His delicate handling of monumental subjects is indicative of the mastery he has attained as a painter. His work stimulates pleasure as well as thoughtfulness in the observer."

Arthur Woodward, collector and authority on Indian art of Southern California, will speak at 2 p.m. Oct. 19 on "Arts of Southern California—IV, Prehistoric and Indigenous Indian Art" exhibition. Woodward has lent items from his own collection for the Museum exhibit which will be circulated throughout the country following its close Oct. 21 in Long Beach.

Other exhibits in the Museum are: paintings by internationally known artists from the Solomon Guggenheim Museum, to March 1; recent acquisitions, art loan, and a group exhibition of paintings by Lucille Brown Greene, John Lincoln, Ben Messick and Marvin Saltzman, to Nov. 5, and paintings from the one man exhibition of Dean Spille, held over from September.

The Museum is open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sundays and holidays from 1 to 5 p.m. It is open Wednesday and Friday evenings from 7:30 to 10, October through May.

Major & Minor Notes

By RACHEL MORTON

An old friend walked in upon me suddenly the other day to my great surprise and joy. We had not seen one another in 20 years, although our younger days were often shared in a mutual love of music. Had not his ship, on which he had spent 34 days seeing the world, put into Long Beach for a few hours, we might never have seen one another again. For Joseph Brogan spends most of his life abroad and this was his first visit to California.

"Joe" was born in Scotland but came to this country while still in his teens. His mother had been a well-known singer with the Carl Rosa Opera Company in England, so music was his heritage. To music he turned in America. He had a splendid tenor voice and wanted to become a great singer. Alas, bad teaching ruined his voice.

* * * *

UNDAUNTED, he opened a shop for the sale of records on Park Avenue in New York City which became famous as "The Gramophone Shop." He was the very first one to introduce foreign records into this country, and he inaugurated the cataloguing of records. The business prospered tremendously. Joe met all the famous artists, both here and abroad, who became his life-long friends. More and more time was spent in Europe tracking down foreign records for sale in our country. The mailing of these records to all parts of America and the world brought wealth and fame to Joe Brogan. He had entree everywhere.

How the hours flew as we talked and reminisced. We recalled a wonderful time in Bayreuth when we heard nine operas in 10 days! The Wagner Festival had been sold out ever since the preceding winter, but Joe knew his way about and procured splendid seats.

It was he who introduced us to the famous old restaurant, "Die Eule," where Wagner and his artists used to gather after the performances. Last summer found Mr. Brogan again at the Wagner Festival in Bayreuth for the 25th consecutive year! To commemorate it and to honor Joseph Brogan, the mayor of the town gave a champagne supper after the opera, to which all the artists were bidden.

* * * *

HE SPENT LAST Christmas and New Year's Day with the celebrated English soprano, Maggie Tayte, that exquisite interpreter of French songs and of the role of "Melisande" in Massenet's "Peleas and Melisande."

Now 70, she is pretty and petite and gay as ever, Joe told me. She lives in a little house with a lovely garden in London and drives her car fearlessly in and out of the jammed traffic of the city.

She has recently been knighted by the Queen of England and is now "Dame Maggie Teyte." The French government also honored her with its highest honor, the Legion d'Honneur. Last July her biography was published, called "A Star on the Door." (There is always a star on the door of the leading soprano and tenor of an opera company.) In this book are two chapters devoted to Mr. Joseph Brogan captioned "A Friend in Need."

Another dear friend of Joe's is Kirsten Flagstad. Last summer he had a happy visit with her in her summer home in Christensen, Norway, where she lives in the summer with two servants in a charming house overlooking lovely gardens and the sea.

"She is still young and vital and beautiful," Joe told me, "and although 62 years old there is only a touch of grey in her black hair." "Does she still sing?" I asked feverishly. "But beautifully," said he. "Perhaps there is not such a great range as formerly, but there is much more warmth and feeling. Last November I flew to London to hear her recital in the Royal Albert Hall, which was packed to the ceiling. She wore a Norwegian costume and sang a program of Grieg songs in commemoration of the 50th year of his death.

"The audience was spellbound," continued Joe, "and at the end, the applause was tumultuous."

* * * *

HE SHOWED me the London press reviews, which said among other things, "Kirsten Flagstad descended from Valhalla to the Royal Albert Hall last night. Few singers of any age—let alone those in their sixties—can rival the superb breath control that enables her to sustain a long line with majestic ease. She evoked a spell of inner emotion of an intensity that has rarely been equaled in the field of song."

Joe Brogan sailed away again in the early evening, leaving me nostalgically happy. He will spend the winter as usual in Majorca, that enchanted island off the coast of Spain. July and August find him attending all the music festivals in Europe; the springs and autumns in his own native land. What a life!

IN POIGNANT pose of anguish, "Dying Bird" aroused interest and comment to win first place in membership show of Laguna Beach Art Assn. Robert Ortlieb was inspired to carve the bird from desert ironwood.

Bird Carving Wins Award

"Dying Bird," carved from desert ironwood by Robert Ortlieb took first award for sculpture in the Laguna Beach Art Assn. October-November membership exhibition in the Laguna Beach Art Gallery, Cliff Dr. and Hwy. 101, Laguna Beach. The figure is 34 by 31 inches.

In addition to winning the award in the membership show in the lower gallery, Ortlieb has a one-man sculpture exhibition in the entresol of the Laguna Beach Gallery. He is showing "Hypatia," Belgian marble; "Head of a Dancer," terracotta; "Owl," alabaster, and "Moses," marble.

The sculptor, who lives in Inglewood, has exhibited in the Long Beach Museum of Art.

Jurors of the Laguna Beach exhibition were Edwin Hinde, Bennett Bradbury and Richard Sortomme.

The play, to open Nov. 7, concerns an innocent country boy with a fistful of money who is conned into sinking it into a Broadway flop by two shady producers. In the cast are eight men ranging from 20 to 50 and five women between the ages of 20 and 35.

Dear Abby

She'll Get Over This, Too

DEAR ABBY: Is this a problem? Our daughter is 12 years old and ever since she's been old enough to walk and talk she has had horses on the brain.

She draws horses, plays horses, dreams about horses and talks horses night and day. We let her do a little riding but can't afford too much of it as we live in the city. Her ambition in life is to "break horses." Should we let her go on this way or can you suggest some way to distract her?—MOM.

ABBY

DEAR MOM: My daughter was exactly like yours when she was 12. Last year (she is now 16) I took her to a horse show. She suddenly exclaimed, "Mother, isn't HE terrific?" I replied, "Yes, beautiful horse!" She looked at me in amazement and said, "Not the HORSE—the fellow who's riding him!" I knew then that she was normal. It will happen to you.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: I like my husband as a friend but not as a husband. We were married when we were both very young and now he doesn't appeal to me like he did when we were first married. The man who sold me my new vacuum cleaner and all the attachments appeals to me like my husband used to when we were first married. Maybe I'm not making myself clear, Abby, but this vacuum cleaner salesman is in love with me and I'm in love with him. Do you think after 22 years of marriage I'd be foolish to consider a change?—MAE.

DEAR MAE: A woman who would trade in her husband for a vacuum cleaner salesman (and all the attachments) is very foolish. Disconnect these silly notions and try to make the best of your marriage — before everybody gets sucked in.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: I am a young woman of 24 and I stand 5 feet 6 in my stocking feet. I am going with a young man who is a few years older and he stands about 5 feet 3. It is embarrassing to be seen with him even when I wear flats because he is so much shorter than I am. I have never met a man whose company I enjoy more and he has everything else a girl would want in a man. I have brought up the subject of elevator shoes but he passes it over as a joke and that's as far as I get. I wish he'd wear them because an inch or two would help a lot in his appearance. Should I insist on it or skip it?—TOO TALL.

DEAR TOO: If the mention of elevated shoes does not get a "rise" out of your boyfriend, it means he has accepted the fact that he is what he is. He's already "elevated" himself above the average man. Appreciate him and skip it.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: Our son (age 22) is going with a very pretty girl from the other side of the tracks. We have heard some stories about her that would make any parents want to break up this romance. Nobody has any actual proof of these rumors, but I always say, "Where there's smoke, there's fire." How can we break it up without being obvious?—CONCERNED PARENTS.

DEAR CONCERNED: Where there's smoke there doesn't always have to be fire, but there is usually somebody who is pretty burned up. Don't prejudge anyone until you have all the facts.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: I am a teenaged boy and my problem is an inferiority complex. My parents are always comparing me to my cousin, who is very smart. They tell me I will never amount to anything and they make me feel like a failure in life at the age of 17. Please tell me what to do?—INFERIOR.

DEAR YOUNG MAN: Go to someone whom you admire. Your coach, a favorite teacher at school, your clergyman or family doctor. Ask him to suggest some activities that will build your self-confidence. Sports, youth groups or helping younger boys could be the answer.

* * * *

AMONG CAREER WOMEN

Breakfast Club Gets New Chief

By ANNE GILCHRIST

Attractive Marie White (Buffums' Dep't Store) accepted the president's gavel of Long Beach Credit Women's Breakfast Club Wednesday night and with it the responsibility of guiding the active business women's club through the ensuing year. Installation ceremonies were conducted at a banquet in the Campus Room of the University Club by Constance Brown, past president. The 7 p. m. dinner was preceded by a social hour at 6:30.

Inducted to serve with Mrs White were Betty Kieffe, first vice president; Helen Powell, second vice president; Dolores Parks, treasurer, and Maureen Dorgan, secretary. Dorothea Hilliard, outgoing president, was awarded the past president's pin and generous applause from club members in appreciation for her services during the past year.

President Roberta Gordon, Insurance Women of Long Beach now look forward to a busy, enjoyable club year. This much was apparent when plans for the coming months were reviewed briefly at the October dinner meeting at Apple Valley Steak House recently.

Programs for the year were off to a flying start with the appearance of Fire Chief Frank S. Sandeman, and Leonard V. Foster, chief of the Fire Prevention Bureau as guest speakers. Their visit was arranged by Jeannie Carlin, public safety chairman. The two leading authorities presented a color motion picture of the Hancock Refinery fire, a thrilling even though frightening spectacle. Inasmuch as almost, if not every, insurance agency office in Long Beach processed claims as a result of that fire, members were particularly interested in the film. A question and answer period followed the picture presentation.

Next big event will be a social get together here in Long Beach at the Lafayette Hotel when insurance women from Santa Barbara to Las Vegas and from Fresno to San Diego join with local club members for a fun-fest day and evening on Nov. 8.

* * * *

AMONG THOSE attending were the past presidents of each of the last 10 years and each was paid a special tribute by old and new members alike. There was special recognition, too, for new members who recently affiliated as they were presented with membership pins.

As her first official duty President Marie called for discussion of the district seminar meeting to be conducted in Las Vegas in November; for an education meeting on Nov. 12 at the University Club which will be conducted by Donnell V. Davis, credit manager of Buffums', at which time members of the Lakewood Credit Women's Club will join the downtown club. All credit women in the area are welcome to attend.

Medical Assistants

Fall festivities have begun with a rush for Long Beach Medical Assistants who will be hostess at a lighthearted Masquerade Ball Saturday at La Ronde Rue Restaurant. They have issued an open invitation to members of the medical profession and their guests to dine and dance with them and, by so doing, aid the Long Beach Exceptional Children's Foundation which will receive all proceeds from this affair.

"Have fun and help us help a child," is the committee's way of putting it. In charge are Imogene DeTilla and Edna Smith and assisting are Corrine Dunn, Lorna Covell and Pamela Uebele. Prizes (from unique to downright hilarious) will be presented to those most appropriately costumed for the party.

* * * *

FINAL mischievous plans were made for the merry evening at the MAA October dinner meeting Monday night at La Ronde Rue. However, high light of that meeting was the appearance of guest speakers Drs. Sam S. Woolington, Lynn B. Vaughan and Walter R. Buerger, three well-known local pediatricians, who combined their wit and speaking talents to discuss the subject, "Rashes, Whoops and Hollers," in an informative and warm-hearted description of their work, particularly as it pertains to children's communicable diseases.

Hostesses for Monday's meeting were Louise Lewis, Jane La Dage, Joann Whalen and Florence Wells. President Margaret Kaesman conducted.

Days of Forty-Niners

LONG BEACH STATE COLLEGE EVENTS

by PLACER MINER

Looks like a busy week on the Long Beach State activities scene, and we imagine we are chronicling just a fraction of it. This afternoon, Tillicum (sophomore women's honorary) meets at the home of its adviser, Dean of Activities Lois Swanson, to install officers: Sue Kelly, president; Petra Steuer, vice president; Sue Adams, secretary; Coralie Miller, treasurer; Lynn Young, BSO representative, and Rosalie Hubble, AWS representative.

Also today Delta Delta sorority teams up with Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity for an exchange built around a progressive dinner. The event moves from house to house for each separate course with the Tri Delts supplying the food and the Tekes the transportation. The sorority members Wednesday will tour Mottell's & Peck Mortuary at Wilton St. and Grand Ave., and next Sunday there is an open dinner at the Soroptimist House with pledges fixing the dinner under the watchful supervision of four actives. The Tri Delts, now up to full strength with 55 members including 20 pledges, are happy that two of their number have been named to LBSC pep groups: flagswinger Lois Knoll and majorette Bobbie Fisher.

ACE (Association for Childhood Education) will be at Isaac Walton School in Garden Grove Tuesday afternoon for a "Paper Carnival." The next afternoon the same group will be in the same city but a different school, the Lincoln School, where Orange County ACE is sponsoring a "Stimulating Creative Thinking" program. All interested persons are invited.

Hand Is Bad for Choosers

Here is one of the better hands from the recent Summer Nationals.

Frank Weisbach of Cincinnati, who sat South, abandoned the idea of a grand slam when his partner showed only three kings in response to the Blackwood five no-trump.

The four of hearts was opened. How would you play the hand?

You could play the queen of hearts from dummy. Should it hold, your troubles would be over, but should it lose you could still fall back on the diamond finesse.

Frank decided that West would not have led from a king and he saw a sure thing play for the hand provided East would hold the king of hearts.

He played low from dummy and won the trick with his ace. Then he drew trumps, cashed the ace and ruffed a club. Next he played the ace of diamonds just in case the queen might be singleton. It wasn't, so he led the queen of hearts from dummy and East was in the lead with the king.

East was faced with a Hobson's choice. He could lead a heart and let Frank discard a diamond from his own hand and ruff in dummy or he could lead a diamond right up to dummy's king-jack. Either way Frank had his slam.

Worry Clinic

Liquor, Tobacco Case Histories Hit

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE Z—336: Bert Z., age 48, is a successful Hoosier dentist.

"Dr. Crane, why don't you omit cases about liquor and tobacco?" he admonished, as he was driving me to the country club for dinner.

"After all, you have plenty of other psychological problems to discuss without stepping on the corns of people who take a highball."

As the father of five youngsters, and an active worker in the Boy Scouts, the YMCA and the church, I feel an obligation to youth.

So if I cause the consciences of some of you oldsters to twinge, then act like an adult and take your medicine!

• • • •

EVERY INTELLIGENT adult knows that a lot of high pressure advertising is trying to stampede our youth into slavery to various bad habits.

Scientists of various sorts, including our modern physicians, constantly are citing the damage of alcohol and tobacco not only to health but also to safety.

If you yourself now smoke or drink, at least be honest enough to encourage us educators who try to warn your children to avoid such bad habits.

Because they happen to fall into a bad habit, they don't want anybody to mention liquor or tobacco lest their own consciences twinge.

That is hypocrisy. And you encounter it almost every time a smoking doctor tries to tell you that tobacco doesn't cause lung cancer or heart trouble.

• • • •

IF THAT doctor were honest, why would he take his cardiac patients off tobacco, as almost every medic in America has done for 50 years?

Such a doctor is an intellectual coward. He refuses to face the fact that he is harming his own health by his addiction to tobacco.

So he tries to anesthetize his conscience by denying the facts, And he doesn't want me to tell the truth, lest his sleeping conscience then awaken.

For example, if he were positive tobacco or liquor did no harm, then why should he grow alarmed?

You readers need to take inventory NOW, and not wait till Jan. 1. Are you planting roses where thistles grew before, as Lincoln phrased it?

Are you helping the oncoming generation attain the more abundant life or are you placing stumbling blocks in front of the pattering feet of the oncoming toddlers?

Be frank with yourselves! For God Almighty is going to demand it of you ultimately, so you better face the music NOW when you can still change.

Largest area goal has been given to the eastern part of the city, where combined quotas for Mrs. R. O. Gould Jr. and Mrs. F. Lyle Gray total $20,492.

Los Altos residents will be asked to give at least $8,013, according to Mrs. Ray George and Mrs. Constantine Dallas, area generals.

• • • •

IN NORTH LONG BEACH, Mrs. Myron L. Russell and Mrs. Dean Lough are dividing responsibility for seeking $5,787, while Mrs. Jerome Lofy in Bixby Knolls and Los Cerritos has a $10,807 quota.

Mmes. Bryan Jones, Robert Crow and Charles Jenner, in charge of west-side workers, have a total of $10,574 to collect to go over the top.

Teams in the northeast part of the city organized under the leadership of Mrs. Warren C. Martin and Mrs. Donald McKee have a goal of $5,845.

Improved Convention Facilities Will Bring New $Millions Here

HERE'S HOW PROPOSITIONS S AND T—the Jobs for Long Beach program—would convert the metropolitan heart of the city to lure more convention and tourist delegates. An International Square would be erected in front of Municipal Auditorium on a level with Ocean Blvd. Beneath this pedestrian mall would be constructed a new showcase structure to accommodate larger trade shows, providing for an additional six million dollars in convention income annually. The propositions also would line Ocean Blvd. and American Ave. with flowering trees, spruce up existing Auditorium facilities and glamorize the Long Beach Freeway terminus. At a cost of less than a penny a day to the average taxpayer, S and T would create from 3,000 to 5,000 new jobs, generate 25 million dollars worth of new construction projects, increase convention business by 60 million dollars in 10 years time and boost tourist spending.

Ideal Home Setting In Windsor Greens

The "heart-of-Lakewood" location of Windsor Greens Homes has been cited by James Pelton, builder, as a prime factor in spurring sales. Its picturesque city-suburban site in Lakewood Country Club Estates and easy accessibility to schools, churches and recreational facilities has attracted record numbers of home seekers, reports Pelton.

Close to Bixby Knolls Center, Windsor Greens is only a few short minutes' drive from Lakewood Center and enjoys the convenience of bus service to all metropolitan points.

Featuring 3 and 4 bedrooms, family room or convertible den and 2½ baths, Windsor Greens homes accentuate spaciousness and luxury. Built around a center hall plan, the interiors feature such custom appointments as floor-to-ceiling stone or brick fireplaces, fully panelled living room wall, sliding walls of glass and new ideas in lighting fixtures.

THE EXTERIOR is enhanced by an enclosed private entry court containing a secluded garden. The parklike setting blends with the well-kept greens of the adjoining golf course, a handy recreational facility.

Marble pullmans, colored fixtures and ceramic tile contribute a feeling of luxury to the baths. Ceramic tile with matching grout and natural wood cabinets are featured in a kitchen containing over $2 000 worth of built-ins. They include electric oven and range in color, automatic dishwasher and disposal, coppertone range hood and fan. Containing an extra large breakfast area, this spacious and stylish kitchen is adjoined by a separate service porch.

With immediate occupancy available, a Windsor Greens home may be purchased for $28,750 with a down payment of $3,975. Pelton pointed out that the sites alone have been appraised at a minimum of $10,000.

Windsor Greens is located on Carson St. between Lakewood Blvd. and Cherry. Visitors may enter through the golf club gates, and will find the two furnished models on display daily.

Classes for Retail Food Dealers Set

Food commodity specialists and top local produce supervisors will be guest speakers at a four-week series of classes beginning Oct. 27 at Long Beach City College on the Business & Technology Division campus, 1305 E. Pacific Coast Hwy.

The class will meet on consecutive Monday evenings from 7:30 until 9:30 in the Little Theatre auditorium.

The revised program offers retailers the opportunity to discuss better methods of operation and current problems, announced J. E. Hollingworth, divisional dean.

Among scheduled speakers are Ernie Pratt of the Oregon-Washington-California Pear Bureau; Bill Tyson of Sunkist Growers; Jack Ferrell of Fruit Dispatch Co.; Bill Rowley of Associated Produce Dealers and Brokers of Los Angeles and John Watten of the Washington Apple Commission.

Fear Slump in Hog Price

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The agriculture department warned hog raisers that sharply rising production threatens to tumble prices in the fall of 1959 to half the 1958 average.

Department economists said if pig production in the next spring season (December-May) tops last year's level by close to the 20 per cent recently forecast for the December-February period, there is "grave danger" prices next autumn will fall to $10.60 per hundredweight. That is the level reached in the fall of 1955. Pigs born in the spring season normally go to slaughter in the fall and winter of the same year.

Prices for all of 1958 will probably average close to $20 per hundredweight, the economists predicted.

Smog-Free Sea Breezes Draw Buyers

NEAR BEACH

Marina View Homes, such as this, located near the Long Beach Marina and the beach, are priced from $18,495 and veterans may buy them for nothing down except costs and impounds.

The recent heat wave was responsible for directing a great number of home-buying prospects to the new Marina View Homes, reported a building official of Bradley Estates, builders of the new multi-million dollar development located just 2 miles south of Long Beach on the Pacific Coast Hwy.

Seeking the cool, smog-free ocean breezes, prospective home-buyers found Marina View Homes situated in a resort-like atmosphere with a beach location second to none. Once within the modern new dwellings, the exceptionally large number of luxury extras provided in each home proved an outstanding sales attraction, salesmen added.

Positive Proof Wins for Him

NORTH MASSAPEQUA, N. Y. (UPI) — Told that his five-year-old son was ineligible for transportation and would have to walk to kindergarten because he lived less than a half-mile from school, John O'Connell got out his tape measure and measured the distance at exactly 2,800 feet — 160 more than the necessary minimum. The youngster now rides in the school bus.

PRICED FROM $12,495

Homes like this are now offered in Park Westminster for low prices, starting at $12,495. Qualified veterans need only $190 for closing costs and impounds. New FHA terms are offered non-veteran buyers.

Park Westminster Asks $190 From Vet

Only $190 will cover all closing costs and impounds necessary to move qualified veterans into Park Westminster Homes, announced Jim Young, vice president of Brighton-Bilt Homes, builders of the development.

Monthly payments are $66, including principal and interest. New FHA terms are available to non-vets or vets who have their GI privileges.

"Sales have been strong on these 3-bedroom, 2-bath and 2-car garage or car port homes," stated Young, "as buyers realize that owning a Park Westminster Home is a good lifetime investment. Over $128,000 worth of homes were sold during the first two weeks of sales.

"When these homes are sold," concluded the builder, "there will be no more available at Park Westminster at this low price."

Top quality construction may be noted throughout the Park Westminster Homes, priced from $12,495. Luxury extras include Roper built-in gas range and oven in matching colors, quiet garbage disposal and extra storage space throughout the house.

Centrally located Park Westminster is seconds from downtown Westminster, shopping, schools, and recreational centers.

Long Beach is within comfortable driving distance and the beaches are close at hand. To reach Park Westminster, drive down Garden Grove or Westminster to Hwy. 39 then right on 39 to 29th St. and left (east) to the sales office. Furnished models are open from 9 to 9 daily.

Price Still Climbs on Good Farm Land

By BERNARD BRENNER

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The spread between sales prices for good and poor quality farm land widened in the year ending July 1, as average farm real estate values rose again to a new record high, the agriculture department reported.

Total value of U.S. farm land and buildings rose to $118,700,000,000 July 1, capping an advance of 2 per cent in the previous four months and 5 per cent over July 1, 1957.

The department said good crop and income prospects and a steady demand for farm land were among factors responsible for the continued rise in land prices. The increase over one year earlier was a little smaller than for most previous years.

* * * *

OFFICIALS SAID the price of good quality land advanced in more areas than the price of poor quality land. The spread between prices of good and poor land increased to about 50 per cent, the department said.

The real estate report said about 60 per cent of all farm sales during the year ended July 1 were made to active farmers, mostly to operators increasing the size of their enterprises.

* * * *

IN OTHER HIGHLIGHTS of the report the department said:

About one-third of the active farmers who bought farms were tenants becoming owners. Tenant purchases declined in relative importance in the southeast but increased sharply in the delta, northern plains and Pacific areas.

Sharpest farm real estate price increases in the past year came in the Southeastern and Northern Plains states. The smallest increases came in the Corn Belt and Lake states. Florida topped the nation with a 15 per cent increase while Pennsylvania and Iowa trailed with 3 per cent increases.

Limited access super-highways will add little if any value to most farm land they cross, a departure from past experience with standard highways which usually increased farm values. A special department report said the biggest farm gainers from the new superhighways will be owners located near interchanges and access roads.

The report also noted that the new interstate highway system will greatly increase the amount of land available for urban and industrial expansion by bringing fast transportation to remote farm areas.

Modern Methods of Collection to Be Taught at Meeting Here

A two-day training institute in modern collection methods has been scheduled Oct. 18 and 19 in the Lafayette Hotel, Long Beach, according to the institute chairman, W. C. Perry, 902 South St.

Arranged especially for employes of agencies that are members of the California Collectors Assn., Inc., the institute is approved by the American Collectors Assn., Perry said. Sidney J. Weiner, Detroit, will be institute dean.

Instruction will be provided in methods of collecting, tracing and soliciting by telephone; interviewing procedures, and in letter writing, Perry said.

"Modern collection methods are far different than in the past," he explained. "Today, the average member of the California Collectors' Assn. is financial advisor to those who may find themselves overwhelmed with such problems. Our experience is that 97 per cent of debtors want to pay their bills, but do need assistance and guidance."

Faculty for the institute will include Victor Dourte, of the American Collectors' Assn. executive office in Minneapolis; Thelma Ray Osborne of San Francisco; Garlan Epley, Marysville; Ed Letson, Norwalk, president of the California Assn.; Earl Horton of Santa Rosa and George Peabody of San Jose.

Canada Crop Harvest Big

TORONTO (AP) — Canada's harvest is close to the brim despite usual inroads by weather, disease and insect damage.

Ontario reports record grain production. The prairie wheat yield while down in quantity in 1957 shows better quality after riding through drought hazards.

The apple crop is down, chiefly due to a smaller Nova Scotia harvest, but peaches and pears are up.

This picture of the Canadian Harvest emerged in a national survey by the Canadian Press.

The apple crop is coming in steadily and estimated yield is 15,300,000 bushels against 15,900,000 last year.

New Luxury Homes In St. Hubert Wood

A new group of homes has been completed in the Tustin community of St. Hubert Wood, it was announced yesterday by a spokesman for Walter H. Leimert Co., developers.

All luxury homes in the $30,000 to $50,000 range, these residences have been individually designed in contemporary and both Hawaiian and Oriental modern stylings by H. MacDonald & Associates of Beverly Hills.

Homesites are at least 10,000 square feet in area, as they are throughout the community, and the homes contain between 2,250 and 2,400 square feet. Lots, with frontages of at least 100 feet, are priced from $5,750.

* * * *

IN KEEPING with the Leimert tradition of quality development—a tradition more than a half-century old—strict architectural controls protect the community, which is already beginning to compare favorably with such residential areas as Beverly Hills and Cleveland's Shaker Heights.

Typical of the homes rising in St. Hubert Wood, the newly completed MacDonald-designed group features 3 bedrooms and 3 baths, den, separate service area and nook, dining rooms, aluminum sliding glass doors leading onto patios and stone fireplaces.

* * * *

KITCHENS include O'Keefe & Merritt built-in ovens and ranges, Hotpoint de luxe dishwasher, Waste King disposals, range hood with light and fan, walk-in pantries and FM-AM radio intercom.

Headquarters for St. Hubert Wood, as well as the luxuriously furnished and decorated "Kyoto House," a 3-bedroom, 2-bath, 2,400-square-foot Hawaiian modern demonstration home, is at 18311 Santa Clara Ave., Tustin.

It may be reached from Long Beach via Westminster Ave. (which becomes 17th St.). At Ave. Prospect Ave., turn north three-quarters of a mile to the entrance gates at Santa Clara

ISLAND CHARM

The "Aloha" house pictured above is one of several homes now being offered in St. Hubert Wood, Walter H. Leimert Co.'s exclusive Tustin-Lemon Heights district community of custom homes and homesites. Among the features of this three-bedroom, three-bath home are center hall, den, service porch, fireplace, built-in hooded gas range, oven, dishwasher, hardwood floors and aluminum sliding glass doors.

Career Tips Given Youth

NORTHFIELD, Minn. (UPI) —Philip L. Fjelstad, director of the St. Olaf College placement bureau, says the nation's banks and department stores are in the market for trainees.

For youths thinking of teaching careers, Fjelstad said shortages exist mainly in the sciences, English and women's physical education.

Government and social work are also good fields for American youngsters seeking careers. Fjelstad said that in both cases salary and personnel standards have been raised to the point where they compare favorably with teaching and industrial positions.

Two Kay Jewelers Stores Celebrating

Celebrating the 43rd anniversary of the founding of the firm, Kay Jewelers in downtown Long Beach and Lakewood Center has launched big anniversary sales.

"Each year we celebrate the birthday by sharing with our patrons," said Carl Ross, manager of the downtown Long Beach store at 319 Pine Ave.

"And we are offering some great bargains for this occasion," said Aaron Kessler, manager of the store in Lakewood Center.

The attractive anniversary bargains are available in all lines of jewelry as well as the other departments, the managers said. The appliance and radio departments have what the managers termed "the greatest buys anywhere" for the event.

There now are 116 Kay Jewelers in the nation and the store slogan of "It's OK to Owe Kay" is widely known.

The stores sell virtually all of the top brands in their lines of merchandise.

WALKER'S IN TUNE WITH PROGRESS

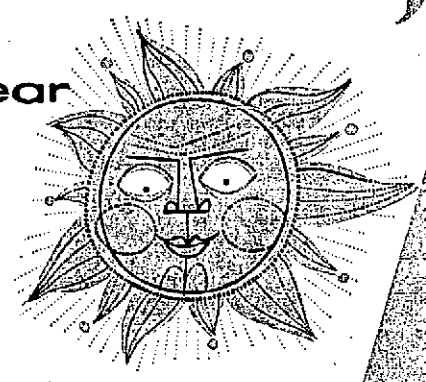

Celebrating the 25th anniversary of the store, Walker's of Long Beach has adopted the theme "In Tune With Progress and Prosperity in Long Beach." Pointing to the bright future of the city, the store is displaying big drawings of more than $100,000,000 in public and private construction projects under way or scheduled to start soon. In this window are shown some of the pictures which are attracting throngs of viewers. President Joseph Bishop and Vice President Leo Malco, in statements on the store anniversary, both stressed that the work under way and the Jobs for Long Beach program give this city the brightest outlook for business in history.

Two-Story Homes In Southmoor Are Highly Favored by Buyers

"With a definite Southland homeseeking swing toward two-story styling in evidence, at Southmoor Village—resort-area development by Don Wilson Builders—September sales proved out the California builders' concept of "why buy half a house," it was announced by Lee Halison, sales agent.

"This double-value two-level design wherein maximum comfort and roominess is obtained from the homesite is gaining in popularity every day in the West," Halison stated.

"Southmoor Village offers not only this attractive styling and moderate-priced, well-constructed dwellings but the year round advantages of resort living. Located just east of Long Beach in the beach area, Southmoor is convenient to both Long Beach and Los Angeles, providing an unique blend of both city and resort advantages. Now this coast-area community offers veteran buyers this special privilege of selecting a major brand kitchen appliance for no additional down payment.

* * * *

"THE TERMS offered to vets at Southmoor—featuring the availability of these quality-built homes for no down payment, only $375 costs and impounds on bonafide GI terms and monthly payments of $74.33 principal and interest—make them well within the reach of everyone," said Halison. "Easy FHA terms are featured, too, with a low $600 down payment, plus costs. These FHA terms are featured, too, with a low $600 down payment, plus costs. These homes are in the moderate price range."

Many premium features have been included. Even temperature control is maintained by the employment of rock-wool insulation. All flooring is of select hardwood. Additional "extras" included at no extra cost are: 60,000 BTU heating, natural wood kitchen cabinets, Waste King disposal units and 40-50-gallon water heaters. Specially designed garages—to expand living area—are easily converted on a "do-it-yourself" basis.

Model homes at Southmoor Village are open daily from 10 a.m. until dark. These homes are accessible from Los Angeles by taking the Santa Ana Freeway to Hwy. 39. Turn south past Knott's Berry Farm, to Garden Grove Blvd. Turn right and drive one mile to the Southmoor Village homes. From Long Beach drive east past the traffic circle on Pacific Coast Hwy. to Garden Grove Blvd. and Southmoor Village.

Magnolia Manor Location Is Big Appeal to Buyers

Popularity mounts in the convenient location of Magnolia Manor homes, salesmen report. Appeal to both youngsters and adults is found in the short drive to beaches and the easy commuting distance to metropolitan areas. Coupled with the excellent floor plans and moderate price range of $12,200 to $12,500, Magnolia Manor sales exceed expectations, according to company reports.

Laramore Construction Co. officials state that building requirements are surpassed in these pre-tested homes that contain over 1300 sq. ft. of living area. Features are incorporated which have been found popular in over 5,000 previous Laramore built models.

THREE EXCLUSIVE floor plans display large living rooms with a choice of separate study or dining room. Modern step-saving kitchens contain snack bar or breakfast area with streamlined cabinet-counter arrangements plus ample utility space. Three to 4 bedrooms are shown with 1½ or 2 baths.

Frank H. McFarland, sales agent, reports that immediate occupancy is available for $195 down and $90 move-in cost. Easy monthly terms are arranged, he added, without balloon payments or due dates.

Magnolia Manor models are open daily from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. From the Long Beach area drive east on 7th St. (Garden Grove Blvd.) to Huntington Beach Blvd., south to Westminster then east to models.

Big Shocker

DENVER (UPI)—A woodpecker caused a 37-minute electric power failure in a wide area of Denver. Power company officials said the bird stuck its beak into an automatic switch on a main line. The bird was electrocuted.

FHA Offers Advice to Anyone Considering Purchase of Home

By EDWARD COWAN

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Thinking about buying a house?

If so, nine reminders from the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) about some of the important matters you should consider before signing on the dotted line may prove of value.

Since Congress established it in 1934, the FHA has insured more than 4,500,000 home mortgages for more than 30 billion dollars. (If you are buying a one-family house, you may qualify for up to $20,000 of FHA mortgage insurance. The ceiling is higher for multiple-dwelling units.)

* * * *

BEFORE SIGNING the purchase contract, FHA advises, read the following questions and comments:

Do you really know what the house is worth?

Buying a house is usually the largest single investment a family makes. Home ownership may be the object of many years of saving. Therefore, it is important to know the value of the house. Under the FHA insurance plan, an FHA appraiser gives an expert opinion on what the house is worth. This estimate, FHA says, generally represents the dwelling's market value.

Does the price fit your family's income?

While the buyer should not exceed his means, many families can afford better—more spacious and modern—housing than they actually have. FHA puts it this way: "Are you really giving your wife and children what you can afford in convenience and comfort?"

Have you considered all the cost of home ownership?

Besides paying principal and interest on the mortgage, the home owner must pay insurance premiums and property taxes. Persons who have always rented may tend to overlook these items. In calculating your monthly payments, figure them in.

Are you sure you won't be carrying a second mortgage?

Secondary financing, FHA says, is both expensive and dangerous. Sometimes it's an unsound way to buy a house you otherwise can't afford. Under the FHA plan, second mortgages are forbidden.

What will it cost to run and maintain the house?

Heating or air conditioning, for instance, can be a big monthly expense—surprisingly so for people paying these bills for the first time. Utilities costs vary from city to city. Simplicity of design keeps down maintenance expenses. Insulation holds down the heating bill.

Have you taken a long-range look at the design of the house?

It may be the rage of today, but how will it look in a few years when the family is bigger and you need larger quarters? If it's unpopular, the house may sell for very much less than you're paying now.

What about the neighborhood?

Does it offer convenience and desirable schools, stores and churches? Is the public transportation system adequate? If the neighborhood is dying or changing to a commercial or industrial nature, your property's value may go down.

Do you know about closing costs?

When property is transferred, there are charges for title search—to make sure the buyer is getting "good title"—and title guarantee and for recording the transaction with the local authorities. These charges vary. Be sure you know what you are paying for and how much.

Have you read the mortgage?

You must do this to know exactly what your rights and responsibilities are. Being sure can prevent confusion and even litigation.

Solar Furnace Really Can Heat

NATICK, Mass. (UPI)—The nation's biggest solar furnace, now operating here, is capable of intensifying ordinary sunshine into temperatures approximating those generated by a nuclear blast.

Site of the furnace is the Headquarters Quartermaster Research & Engineering Command Center. It is used for laboratory testing of materials designed to protect soldiers against the thermal effects of nuclear and other weapons.

The furnace is expected to produce temperatures near 5,000 degrees Fahrenheit by sharply concentrating the heat derived from the sun.

U.S. Savings Up 4 Billion

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Americans put almost four billion dollars in their savings accounts in the first six months of this year, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) reports.

Bank deposits jumped from about $225,500,000,000 on Jan. 1 to more than $229,500,000,000 on June 23.

The figures were collected from the 13,144 commercial banks and 239 mutual savings banks whose deposits are insured by the FDIC. They held 96 per cent of all bank deposits in the nation.

The mounting deposits, the FDIC said, pushed bank assets on June 23 to 256 billion dollars compared with 249 billions on Jan. 1. The agency said this was the first time since 1945 that assets at mid-year have exceeded the January figures.

Members of the Long Beach Chapter of the National Assn. of Accountants will meet Wednesday evening at the Starlight Room of the Lafayette Hotel to hear William R. Thomsen, a staff member since 1933 and District Administrator since 1944 is responsible for the board's eight offices in Los Angeles County and a staff of approximately 600 people. The State Board of Equalization is the largest state tax agency in the United States administering annually more than one and one-quarter billion dollars of taxes.

Problems of financing California's government will be reviewed and the use of insured savings and loan certificates of deposit as security for payment of sales and use tax obligations, effective Sept. 1 will be explained.

DON WILSON, The Southland's Most Reliable Home Builder

To the Millions of Americans Who Helped Design the 1959 Ford Family of Fine Cars

A message from Henry Ford II, Benson Ford, and William Clay Ford on the philosophy behind Ford Motor Company's 1959 models —soon to be shown by 8,972 dealers all over the country.

FOR 55 years our family has been in the business of making automobiles for the families of America.

First in our grandfather's and our father's time, and now in our own, we've been associated with the evolution of the American car. We've watched our cars and our ways of living change each other.

Through all these years we've tried to learn the simple secret of success in the car business: Give the people what they want.

Of course, when our grandfather decided to find out what people wanted, it wasn't very hard. People wanted low-priced, reliable transportation. You didn't have to do much research to learn all about it.

Henry Ford II, President of Ford Motor Company, talks about the '59 Ford with foreman Nicholas Metropoulos at assembly line of Rouge plant.

How things have changed!

Today, people want far more than transportation from their cars. To most of us Americans, the car is a second home.

We are the most mobile people on earth. We live in one place, work in another, send our children to school in a third, and enjoy our recreation in a fourth. We think nothing of going fifty miles to dinner, or across the country on a holiday. Is it any wonder Americans make such great demands upon our cars – or have so many ideas about them?

How do we find out what these people want – and what their ideas are? At Ford Motor Company we consider car-owner research one of our most important assignments. We do our best to find out what you like, why you like it, what you need and want, what you take for granted in a car, and what you don't care about.

Benson Ford, Vice President and Chairman of Dealer Policy Board, gets local picture from Lincoln-Mercury dealer Fred Jones, Tulsa, Okla.

We ask questions by mail, in person, and by telephone. We get suggestions from a farmer in Arkansas and a housewife on Long Island, a salesman in Arizona, and an Ohio teenager who just got his driver's license.

A host of new ideas

Our dealers across the country will soon be showing you the completely new 1959 Fords, Edsels, and Mercurys. Together with the improved 1959 Lincolns, Thunderbirds, and Mark IV Continentals, we believe they're the most beautiful cars we've ever made. Their styling is crisp, functional and well proportioned – every line with a purpose.

Our '59 cars are designed around people.

You'll find, for example, such things as wider doors to make our cars easier to get into and out of, even for ladies in the new tighter skirts; more leg room for the person in the middle, with the hump in the floor cut way down; and, you'll find all of our new cars – both V-8's and 6's – are more economical to operate.

You'll notice all kinds of ideas to make riding safer and easier, more comfortable and convenient – from greatly enlarged window areas to bigger luggage compartments.

Never before has our company devoted so much time, thought, effort and money to finding out, and finding the way to give you the things you want in an automobile. And we make a car for every price range, from about $2000 to over $7000. The choice you have is almost unlimited.

6 different makes – 60 different models

In the 1959 Ford Family of Fine Cars, we will offer 6 different makes – the Ford, Thunderbird, Edsel, Mercury, Lincoln, and Mark IV Continental. In these 6 makes you get a total of 60 different cars.

And if that's not enough, you can pick from so many different colors, interiors, trims, and other choices in each model that it takes an electronic brain to count them.

William Clay Ford, Vice President, Product Planning and Styling, works here with Edsel stylist Deno Taglioli on 1962 designs.

We believe you will find, in the 1959 Ford Family of Fine Cars, the car designed for you. In a sense, it was designed by you – designed by you and millions of other Americans.

Speaking for the entire Ford Motor Company – its 273,457 stockholders, its 150,000 employees and its 8,972 dealers all over America – may we invite you to see our new cars before you buy? Watch for announcement dates in your newspaper.

LONG BEACH, CALIFORNIA....OCTOBER 12, 1958

OUR COVER

Some homeowners seem to think that arrival of the fall months is a signal to take a vacation from gardening. The result is sadly apparent. They have few or no winter blooms, their flower beds are less attractive in the spring and summer, their shrubs appear neglected and their lawns spotty and shaggy. And pests have found safe havens for a full-scale invasion in the warmer months to come. The wise gardener knows that care of his premises now is the best investment in time that he can make. He knows that his entire premises should be cleaned up, some areas fertilized, sprays applied, flowers and bulbs and plants put into the ground. Southland's Fall Garden Edition—beginning on Page 7—tells how to proceed for best possible results. Read the edition carefully and you will want to preserve it for reference. Happy gardening!

After lying dormant for centuries Baja California—where more and more Long Beach folks are going to see horse races and bullfights, and to fish and indulge in other forms of recreation—is being overtaken by a surge of economic development. Agriculture and mining are flourishing. Cities like Tijuana and Ensenada are booming. Southland tells you all about it next week in an article titled "Mexico's Rip Van Winkle."

Mutiny on the Santa Maria

Reproduced in actual size, this replica of the Santa Maria, flagship of Christopher Columbus, has a permanent place on waterfront of Barcelona.

By Maymie R. Krythe

JUST IMAGINE setting out across an unknown ocean in a ship only 90 feet long and with a beam of 20 feet! Think what this craft would look like beside the huge liner Queen Elizabeth. And yet these were the measurements of the caravel, the Santa Maria, in which Columbus set sail from Palos, Spain, on that eventful day of Friday, Aug. 3, 1492.

Moreover, the Santa Maria, Columbus' flagship, was the largest of the three ships in his fleet. The owner, a Biscayan mariner, Juan de la Cosa, was in command, with a good sailor, Sancho Ruiz, as his pilot. The second caravel, the Pinta, in charge of Martin Pinzon, was faster but smaller. The third craft, the Nina, was skippered by Martin's brother, Cristobal. The crew of 90 officers and men were crowded into these three diminutive vessels.

Encouraged by the daring Columbus, they sailed on and on, not knowing whether they would ever see land again, or whether there would be any to see. Some had predicted that the fleet would reach the edge of the world, then fall off into space. Stories also had been told of great monsters that could rise from the depths of the sea and swallow entire ships.

Day after day, the men huddled together, often soaked by heavy rains, or burned by the sun. Their food supplies were running low and their water supply became nauseous. Talk of mutiny was heard; however, Columbus was confident that land was near. Therefore, he commanded all to keep a sharp watch, and promised a silken jacket to the first man who saw land. This was in addition to an annuity of 10,000 maravedies (about $600) which the king and queen had promised.

At last, at 2 a. m. Oct. 12, 1492, the glad cry of "Tierra! Tierra!" was heard. Later that day the adventurers went ashore on a small island in the Bahamas. Columbus bore the royal standard, while his captains carried the banner of the Green Cross, with the initials of the sovereigns. At once they took possession of the island in the names of King Ferdinand and Queen Isabella.

AFTER meeting some of the natives, Columbus wrote in his journal:

"As I saw that they were friendly to us, and perceived that they could be much more easily converted by gentle means than by force, I presented them with some red caps, and strings of beads to wear upon the neck, and many other trifles of small value. They were much delighted and became wonderfully attached to us. Afterwards they came swimming to the boats, bringing parrots, balls of cotton thread, javelins and many other things, which they extended for articles we gave them, such as glass beads and hawks' bells, which trade was carried on with the utmost goodwill. But they seemed, on the whole, to me to be very poor people."

Since Columbus hadn't found gold, or the land he was seeking, he sailed on in the Santa Maria. And on Christmas morning, between midnight and dawn (due to the disobedience and carelessness of some mem-

LA REINA RULE

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like the analysis of DUKE. —MRS. M. H., Torrance; MRS. V. N., MRS. F. D., Long Beach.

M. H., V. N., F. D.: In 12th century England the term "duke" meant "army leader or commander." The ancestor of the DUKE lineage was awarded his surname because of his outstanding military prowess. It is interesting to note that the title of Duke for a member of the nobility was first used in the reign of King Edward III in 1337. The surname Duke is recorded many years earlier by Robert Le Duc of Oxfordshire in 1272. The Duke coat-of-arms is a shield divided in half horizontally, the upper half silver and the lower half blue. On the shield are three garlands of blue and silver flowers and leaves.

DEAR MISS RULE: Please give brief history of DANIELSEN. —MRS. G. D., Long Beach.

MRS. G. D.: The DANIELSENS originated in Denmark. The surname, meaning "Son of Daniel," has been on Danish records for several centuries. The baptismal name Daniel, used in memory of the Hebrew prophet of Biblical history, meant "God is my judge."

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like genealogy on CHRISTIE. I was born in Scotland.—W. C., Long Beach.

W. C.: CHRISTIE is a Scotch and north English surname, taken from a nickname for Christopher. The source was Kristophorus, a Greek given-name meaning "Christ bearer," for the beloved St. Christopher, patron of travelers. The Christies held land in Aberdeen, Craigtoun and Balluchie, Scotland. Their golden shield has on it a black St. Andrews cross between four black spurrowels, with the motto "Sic Viresco," or "Thus I flourish."

DEAR MISS RULE: I would like the origin of the English or French name SHERRY.—V. C., Harbor City.

V. C.: SHERRY may be either English, Irish or French. The English source was from a town called Sherridge in Worcestershire. Sher-ridge translates as "shire-ridge," or "ridge on the county boundary." In Ireland the MacScarraigh lineage, whose name meant "Sons of the high-spirited one," modernized their name to MacSherry and Sherry. This clan originated in Breifney, a district of County Cavan. The French origin of Sherry was the place-name Chery, in Aisne, a distortion of the Latin word "Carius."

DEAR MISS RULE: Can you give information on THOMPSON.—MRS. L. D., Westminster; MRS. R. T., E. T., Long Beach.

L. D., R. T., E. T.: The English surname THOMPSON meant "Thomas's son." Thomas, from the Biblical Apostle's name, denotes "a twin." The Thompsons have held an armorial coat-of-arms in England for over seven centuries, a black and silver shield, on which are three hunting hawks or falcons. The ancient Thompson motto does not portray them as peacemakers, for it is the French "Je veux bonne guerre," meaning "I prefer war." Descendants of John Thompson, Gentleman, of Preston Cape, Northumberland, England, settled in Massachusetts in 1635. Through their female ancestry this family trace themselves to King Alfred the Great who ruled England from 849 to 901 A.D.

DEAR MISS RULE: What is the meaning and coat-of-arms for GILBREATH?—E. A., S. H., Long Beach.

E. A., S. H.: The GILBREATHS are a Scotch family, but their name characterizes their English predecessors centuries ago. Gilbreath is from the Gaelic-Scotch term "Gallbhreatnac," meaning "the English foreigner." This clan's original home was the Kintyre Peninsula on the west coast of Scotland. Their coat-of-arms has three silver bear heads on a red shield. Most of the family were de-titled in the 1600s and forced to leave Scotland to live in northern Ireland because of English political and religious persecution. A century later, descendants left Ireland and settled among the Scotch colonists in Pennsylvania.

DEAR MISS RULE: Could you give brief genealogy on HENLEY? E.R.H., MRS. R.A., D.L., Long Beach.

E.H., R.A., D.L.: HENLEY may be either English or Irish. The given-name Henry meaning "ruler of private property" was coupled with "ley" for "meadow" in England, producing Hen-ley. Villages called Henley existed in Worcestershire, Norfolk and Oxfordshire. William de Henley lived in Yorkshire in 1379. In Ireland the Clan O'Hainle (Sons of the Hero) were a proud Connaught family. Their name was modernized to O'Henley and Henley by some progeny. The coat-of-arms of Baron Henley has three gold wheat sheaves with green bands placed between three black seashells on a chevron across a red shield.

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, Independent, Press-Telegram, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

Fall Gardens Can Be Brilliant!

By Karen Smith

More about Fall Gardens on Pages 37 to 44.

There's much to do in the garden in fall and your flower areas can continue to be brilliant with proper plantings. If there is a pool, it should be cleaned.

WHILE YOUR EYES are admiring the pageant of autumn's firefrost, remember your garden is begging for care. Pests, whether you notice them or not, are seeking places to harbor over until next spring or are laying masses of eggs in hiding spots of the very brilliance you are admiring.

Plant diseases are trying to get footholds in drying foliage that will become fertile as soon as rain causes leafage to mold and rot. Ground is hard and starving, and there are many tasks to be done if you are to have a colorful garden during winter and are not to fall behind your gardening schedule at the upsurge of spring.

Unlike the ubiquitous general who "jumped into the saddle and rode rapidly in all directions," you can't do everything at once, but you should get started first of all on your autumn cleanup. Perhaps nothing else will pay you more important dividends, garden-wise.

Cutting back stalks and large leaves of perennials and biennials, cleaning out from beneath shrubs, and dividing clumps can help bring plants through the winter. Digging naphtha flakes into the soil will discourage pests. Ashes from your fireplace can also be worked into the soil.

PATHS THAT HAVE SERVED you all summer deserve attention. Weed them carefully, and, if the path is grass, feed it well. If gravel, then fill in spots that have worn thin. Weed the lawn, too, and apply fertilizer according to the type grass. Your nurseryman can advise on insecticide treatments, renovating, and the like.

Also ask your nurseryman's advice before you begin to prune deciduous fruit trees. Peaches and nectarines form fruit on new wood grown the year previous but need the center of tree open for air circulation. Apricots bear on spur branches for about three years, and apples and pears produce on spurs for 15 years or more, so you can see pruning needs vary.

The extreme hot weather of the past months makes cultivation of the soil a must. Some desirable nutrients may be flooded away by deep irrigation but, if it is necessary in order to loosen the soil, then by all means flood. Ground must become receptive to rain, so get that spade down 20 inches in new planting areas and soak thoroughly.

When soil seems moist and crumbly, apply liberal amounts of bone meal and compost to restrain further watering or rains from releasing any more food nutrients and to build up the soil. Since some plants cannot tolerate organic manure, do not use it unless you are certain it is needed.

USE MULCH AROUND MANY of the plants whose soil you have carefully loosened. Tender perennials need a mulch of healthy leaves, hay, straw, or even just enriched soil. Roses particularly need attention, for a mulch will help keep their feet from standing in too-wet ground.

When you have your existing garden clean, cultivated, and mulched, and new areas are spaded and ready, plan on splashing the landscape with the quick beauty of fresh annuals.

By careful buying, learning which kinds need to have buds pinched back. With slight cultural care, you can have chrysanthemums blooming almost half the year. Move them with good balls of damp earth covering the roots. After flowers have faded and stems seem dry, cut stalks to within six inches of the ground. In the spring new sprouts will appear.

Pansies in a bed of loamy soil enriched with organic fertilizer, compost and bone meal—not too wet—will give continuous bloom. Don't plant too deep. For big pansies, start with the giant-flowered strain, preferably field-grown rather than glasshouse-grown.

SELECT A SUNNY, well-drained bed of rich soil for snaps and carnations. There are exciting new colors and improved types to select.

Try foxglove, stocks, delphinum, and calendula planted together. Stocks and calendula will bloom all winter and provide support for your early spring blooming foxglove and delphinium.

Cineraria, primula oliconica and P. malacoides need a light porous soil mixed equally with manure and leaf mold. Use cineraria in the background for the primulas will probably splash their colors first.

Choose multiflora winter-flowering sweet peas for a very gay wall of color. They bloom lavishly in late winter and well into spring.

Quick-rooting, strong perennials should be high on your fall planting list, some to bloom now, others to get established for early spring color. Perennial beds should be cleared, fumigated, fertilized, and completely replanted with fresh material about every three years. Choose such plants as carnations, gerberas, scabiosa, columbine, statice, members of the daisy family, coral bell and campanula.

YOU'LL BE wanting bulbs, of course. Those you plant in the fall for spring beauty are anemone, crocus, daffodil, freesia, hyacinth, grape hyacinth, ixia, ranunculus, sparaxis, tritonia, watsonia, all of which do well in full sun, and calla, cyclamen, lily of the valley, scilla, and tulips which need partial shade. November is the busiest bulb-planting month.

Even though tulips do not go into the ground immediately, for best choice buy bulbs now and store in a cool place. Select bulbs that are at least 1½ inches in diameter; smaller ones may not bloom the first year. Bulbs must have most of outer skin intact to protect them from pests and moisture leakage, and they should be firm.

Tulips as well as other bulbs do not like manure, but bone meal makes a mild fertilizer. Use it at five pounds to 100 bulbs. Since bulbs, even the several varieties of tulips, bloom at different times, have your nurseryman help you keep them separate when you go to buy. Also ask his advice on sprays to prevent fire blight.

YOU MIGHT ENJOY forcing bulbs for Christmas. Grow them in chemicals in water or plant them in a container filled with one-third peat moss, one-third sand, and one-third loam to which has been added a teaspoonful of plant food per pot.

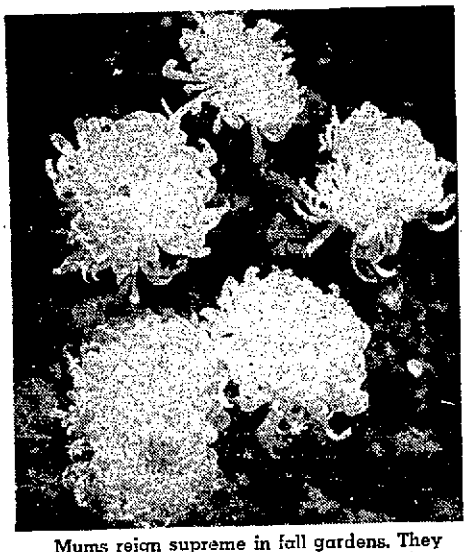

Place bulbs with flat, root end down, and cover with soil until tips are just buried. Press down soil and water generously. Set covered pots in a cool, dark place until roots establish, then move containers into light and uncover. In a day or so, place in a sunny window where temperature never gets below 50 or above 68. Keep pots moist.

Of the ornamentals you'll be planting, those that have berries are most intriguing as the holidays draw near. Select pyracantha, cotoneaster, or hollies, and don't forget that there are other berrying shrubs such as orange ecstrum with big white berries, Fruitland silverberry with silver-bronze berries, gold dust plant complemented with large red berries plus the bonus

Cyclamen in flats or pots will provide fall bloom; can be forced for Christmas.

Mums reign supreme in fall gardens. They require a minimum of cultural attention.

Choose ranunculus now while stocks are ample, plant when the weather cools off.

Archery: Fun for the Family

By Vera Williams

ARCHERY is fun for the family. Dad, mother, the grandparents, the uncles and aunts, and the young fry down to 3-year-olds have fun shooting arrows at targets.

The sport may be enjoyed around the clock, throughout the year. It is relatively inexpensive.

Equipment lasts for years. An adult may be fixed up with a good bow, quiver of arrows, finger glove and arm guard for $125. Children's equipment runs from $10 up.

Long Beach Archers, with 60 members, and Long Beach Junior Archers, with 30 members, have a target range, 300 by 200 yards, with 20 targets 30 feet apart, in Heartwell Park at Bellflower Blvd. and Carson St.

THE PUBLIC IS WELCOME to use the range, free, at any time. But before you go out there, you'd better learn the ground rules:

1. Shoot at the target. Don't shoot anywhere else. It sounds poetic to shoot an arrow "into the air," but it's dynamite. It may fall and hurt someone.
2. Don't get between the target and anyone shooting at it. Stay 'way back.
3. Don't whistle, sing or speak when someone draws a bow in a tournament.
4. Wait until everyone in the group is through shooting before you go to the target to pick up your arrows.
5. Don't even in fun, point an arrow at an adult, a child, a pet. Don't shoot where children may appear unexpectedly. Realize that a bow and arrow are as potentially dangerous as a gun.

THERE IS NO SUCH THING as a toy archery set, insist archers. Every bow is a weapon and should be handled as such.

Strange as it seems, penetration of an arrow is greater than a bullet from a deer rifle.

Art Taylor, local archer, made a penetration test with a bag of sand. A 30.06 rifle bullet buried itself in the bag of sand but an arrow shot from a 50-pound bow passed through the bag.

A Los Angeles archer, Andy Vale, made a movie short, shooting an arrow at a balloon anchored at the bottom of a 12-foot pool of water. The arrow burst the balloon.

Vee Zeller (wife of Bill Zeller), women's champion 1948-50, is president of Long Beach Archers. Other officers: Bill Ambers, vice president; Mary Garrett, secretary; John Dimmick, treasurer; Mike Long, range master; Tom Garrett and Dr. Raymond Kelso, directors.

HARRY PODJAS IS CLUB champion and Virginia Marler, women's champion. David Peterson, now classed a senior as he is past 18 years old, was national beginners champion in 1951 and became national (15-17 years) junior champion in 1956. He placed 10th, shooting in the men's division, in 1957.

Bill Wenger, 11, placed second in the championship, first in the clout and second in the wand, in the National Target Tournament Aug. 4-8 in St. Paul.

Alan Stafford, 11, is present state champion and last year's club champion. John Dimmick Jr. and Gil Archer are Junior club champions for various age groups.

Artie Palkowski of Santa Fe Springs, state champion who shoots often on the local range, placed fourth in the National Target Tournament. Artie Palkowski held the California State Championship in 1946, 1947, 1948, 1955, 1956, 1957 and successfully defended her title in Sacramento over the recent Labor Day weekend. Her national record reads: third in women's championships in 1951, third in 1954, third in 1955, second in 1956, second in 1957, fourth in 1958.

Artie Palkowski, Santa Fe Springs, who shoots often on the Long Beach range, is state archery champion and a national contender.

John Fries, Los Angeles, who makes custom bows and who frequently shoots here, was national target champion in 1955, 1956 and 1957 and national field free style champion in 1958.

TWO OTHER MEMBERS well known in national archery circles are Bob Kest, National Archery Assn. secretary-treasurer who lives in Santa Ana, and Rube Powell of Chula Vista, who has been field champion more than once, and well near the top of the list many times.

Dr. Raymond Kelso, 266 Belmont Ave., who compiled a history of archery in Long Beach, established that the first target archery club here was Lakewood Archers, organized in 1936 by John Daulley, Roland Quayle and Lon Richmond. The Lakewood Archers shot at a range just west of the Lakewood Country Club entrance. Seventy-five archers participated in the first tournament at the range May 17, 1936.

Early in 1937 the archers moved to Hamilton Bowl. In the fall the rains came, and targets and hay butts were submerged.

James B. Murray, employed by the Baxter Co. in the harbor area, came to the rescue. He obtained a range of good size near the plant and 10 hay butts were installed for targets.

A bigger range was needed, and Frank Archer, employed by the Southern California Edison Co., got a five-year lease on five acres of Edison Co. land at Webster St. and Santa Fe Ave.

THE LAND HAD TO BE leveled, seeded and a water system installed. Murray, Archer and Kelso signed a note at a local bank for the improvements.

About this time the group name was changed to Long Beach Archers.

Anyone who lived in or around Long Beach at that time probably remembers the Archers' windmill, which was painted to resemble a target.

The first annual tournament was held there in 1938. And in 1940 the Southern California Archery Assn., comprised of 16 clubs, and headed by Dr. Kelso as president, held its convention.

Came World War II, and the U. S. government took over the range for a trailer park for war workers.

After the war, a temporary range was established in Heartwell Park, at the present site of the Long Beach City College athletic field. After three years, the site at Bellflower and Carson was obtained.

Local archers say that more than four million Americans are active in archery. The sport is so popular it is expected to have a place in the 1960 Olympic Games.

THERE IS GOOD EVIDENCE that the bow and arrow are at least 15,000 years old. Ancient Turkish bowmen could shoot an arrpw a half-mile.

Manufacturers of today's bows turn out some of the best equipment the world has ever known—mass produced at prices the average family can afford.

Bows first were made from a single piece of wood and many still are. These are called "self" bows. But the better ones today are composite bows faced with strips of fiberglass to give greater strength and accuracy.

The "weight" of a bow is the force required to pull a 28-inch arrow full length in it. Most women and teenagers can manage one pulling 20 to 30 pounds at their length of draw. The average man starts with a 30-to-40-pound bow and may then graduate to 45 or upwards.

Children's bows often are not marked for weight, but equipment may be bought at hardware or sporting goods stores.

The most common mistake made in selecting archery tackle is buying a bow too heavy for comfortable shooting, say local archers. A heavy bow tires a shooter too fast and throws off his accuracy.

These shaggy little beasts of burden line the hitching rail of the Palm Springs Burro Train, waiting for their first riders. There are 100 burros in the train.

Burro Train

By Jack B. Kemmerer

OUT PALM SPRINGS way the visiting tourist can have one of the most valuable things ever found in the Far West, a genuine mountain canary—the burro. Actually you can't have the little fellow, but you can ride him, and to some of the most scenic spots in the mountains and desert surrounding Palm Springs. All you have to do is get aboard the "Burro Train."

Palm Springs' Burro Train—owned and operated by Ken Johnson—has been in existence since the early 1940s, hauling nearly a half-million happy riders into the desert and mountain scenic areas. According to Ken Johnson this was the first burro ride of its type available anywhere and has served as a model for the three or four others now operating in various parts of the West.

JOHNSON'S ASSOCIATION with burros began about 10 years ago when he was in Palm Springs recuperating from pneumonia. Ken and his wife hired two burros from a local riding stable for a ride into the mountains. The next day Ken rode again, alone this time, and, after returning, he announced to his wife, Eva, "I just bought 10 burros. We're going to start a Burro Train."

Today those 10 burros have increased to almost 100, 40 of which he brings out to Palm Springs each September from his second Burro Train located at Knott's Berry Farm in Buena Park.

Johnson has a lot of respect for the sturdy little desert animal, especially for his intelligence. He says that old desert men will tell you, "A mule knows three times as much as a horse, and a burro is twice as smart as a mule."

What makes a burro's ears so long? According to Mexican legend, one of the donkey tribe walked into quicksand while carrying Mary and the infant Jesus. San Gabriel, watching from above, noted his plight and pulled him out by the ears. The ears stretched, and henceforth all burros have had long ears.

Even children afraid of ponies show no fear whatever of riding a burro.

It seems that all babies love to play in the mud and baby burros are no exception. This one sidles up to his mother for a well-deserved scolding.

Lost Woman of San Nicolas Island

By Margaret Romer

On rugged San Nicolas Island, off Long Beach, an Indian woman once lived for 20 years—alone.

SOME 60 miles out of Long Beach lies the lonely desert island of San Nicolas where a woman once lived for twenty years—alone.

Less than one-third the size of Santa Catalina, San Nicolas is the outermost of the Channel Islands. It once had a large Indian population. Then came the fur trappers and hunters in pursuit of sea otters that were so numerous. They landed on the island and fought the natives in a series of unequal battles with guns against arrows. The native population was all but wiped out. Finally less than a dozen Indians were left. To protect them, the Mexican Government sent Captain Sparks with his schooner, the Better Than Nothing, to bring them to the mainland.

San Nicolas has no good harbors. The least dangerous landing place is a long, low sandspit at the east end of the island. The Better Than Nothing moored there to take on the natives. As is usual most of the year, a terrific wind was blowing offshore and the captain had all he could do to hold the little vessel during the loading. All were aboard but one woman who was frantically searching for her baby girl who had evidently wandered off and disappeared. The schooner was small and could not carry the natives and their possessions in one trip. Capt. Sparks planned to return the next day. He would bring the woman and her baby on that trip. So he weighed anchor and sailed—just as the woman came running up the beach carrying her baby.

TERRIFIED AT seeing the vessel sail without her, she cried in terror, "Mane-quauna! Mane-quauna!" Her friends on board saw her and heard her cries, but the Captain either could not, or would not, turn back. He landed at Santa Barbara where the Mission Fathers took the Indians in. Shortly after, they were moved to San Pedro.

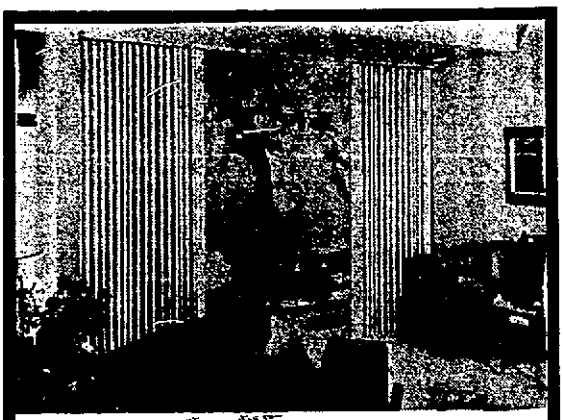

Immediately upon his arrival at Santa Barbara, Capt. Sparks received orders to sail at once for San Francisco. He left a notation that the woman and child were still on San Nicholas. On the voyage upcoast, the little schooner ran into a severe storm and sank with all hands aboard.

Meanwhile, back on San Nicholas, the Indian woman watched the departing vessel until it was out of sight. Surely they would come back for her. For days she waited. Weeks, then months, passed. Hope dimmed. At last she accepted the painful truth that she had been deserted—forgotten.

SHE CONTINUED to live as her people always had lived. But now she must do everything for herself- fish, hunt, cook, and care for the baby. The child became ill and died. The young mother dug a little grave, and wept. In her loneliness, she made pets of baby sea otters. Dogs that the Indians had left behind were her friends.

There was no lack of food. Fish and shellfish were abundant, and she knew the plants that were edible. There was a seal rookery where she caught an occasional seal. She fashioned dresses from the skins and from the feathered skins of gulls and pelicans. The sinews of the seal, she made into fish lines; fish hooks from

Voice With a Temperature

By Terry Vernon

Independent-Press-Telegram TV Columnist

SIX MONTHS of vocal instructions to improve her speech had to be "unlearned" when Tedi Thurman began delivering weather reports on weekends for NBC-Radio's "Monitor".

The sultry-voiced "Miss Monitor," whose southern accent was made fun of when she first came north to New York, has a devoted audience throughout the year which delights in her ultra-feminine manner of stating such matter-of-fact data as Fahrenheit readings.

For more than three years, Tedi has been telling the temperature in a way that makes an announcement like "Sioux City — 26 degrees" sound as though ice is melting all over Iowa.

TEDI'S ORIGINAL career plan was to become a painter. But at the Corcoran Institute in Washington where she studied, she found that she was often asked to pose. So she decided to become a model, came to New York, and made an immediate success by appearing on the cover of Vogue Magazine.

That was eight years ago, and since then her picture has appeared on the covers of many leading magazines.

It was while doing a modeling assignment for NBC-TV's "Today" show that Tedi was seen and heard by a producer who was formulating plans for "Monitor." The soft-speaking, deep-throated Southerner (she hails from Midville, Ga.) seemed like a "natural" for delivering weather reports.

AN AUDITION was successful, and Tedi has been a regular on "Monitor" ever since.

Asked why she has never married, Tedi answers: "I'm afraid it's because I'm like the weather — unpredictable!"

George L. Mountainlion stole the hearts of all Arizonans by gentleness. Stone memorializes him.

The Lion That Purred

By Betty Hardesty

A CALIFORNIA lion purred his way so deep into the hearts of the people of Arizona that they erected an unforgettable monument over his last resting place. This wide and 5-foot-high stone slab in front of the lions' enclosure at the Arizona-Sonora Desert Museum is inscribed:

GEORGE L. MOUNTAINLION
Born February 1952
Died March 8, 1955

"I freely give," his will chiseled below, read in part, "all sights and sounds of nature... the magnificent Arizona sunsets . . . To humans I bequeath . . . the majesty and peace of our great American desert . . . and the glory of the flowering desert in the springtime."

VISITORS WHO pause to read are impressed and touched as well as curious to know the story of a lion who could inspire such a tribute. William H. Carr, founder of the museum, tells it this way:

In February 1953, a very important event took place here. This was the arrival of a fine young lion from California. He was beautiful, tame as a house cat and appreciated affection so much that "you could hear him purr for a mile" as the editor of the Tucson Star put it. His idea that something special be done about George, prompted Carr to prepare a column supposedly written by the lion. This piece, by-lined "George L. Mountainlion, Associate in Human Behavior," was an immediate success and became a Sunday column.

One of the early columns included an item about the photographer who took pictures for the paper. Its style is typical: "He tried to take my picture from inside my enclosure. I was interested and stayed close beside him. He kept saying, 'George, get back.' I even licked the camera lens with my rough tongue to see what it tasted like. Oh, I gave him plenty of trouble all right."

PUBLIC RESPONSE to George's column was astonishing. Letters simply addressed

To Fame

"George, Tucson, Arizona" came from many states. A large cartoon of the lion in action increased its popularity so that his illness and death became national news. Willis D. Parker of Inglewood, one of the country's leading animal trainers, offered to loan the museum officials another lion after reading of their great loss.

The museum acted quickly to replace George but for a few weeks Mrs. Musky Mayflower, the tame skunk, was the substitute columnist. George Mountainlion II was even tamer than his predecessor and an equally popular writer. He also stayed on to win the hearts of all his human acquaintances. But Geo. L. the First will not be forgotten nor too sadly mourned for his last gifts to man as recorded on the headstone include: ". . . to the children who heard me purr, I offer the precious gift of laughter and joy . . . and my happy spirit and affection for others, to all who remember me . . ."

Tribute to the mountain lion who purred his way into undying fame is cut into this stone marker at Tucson.

SOUTHLAND HOMES

They Added Space for Children

Photos by Joe Risinger

Children's living room in the enlarged Jim Burdges home opens to secluded play and dining patio. The area now minimizes the strain on the rest of the house.

By Eileen Ball

OFTEN, it would seem, one of the most obvious requirements of a home is woefully overlooked. It is admitted, perhaps, but frequently unreconciled in the final plan, that children are a part of the family and as such should have specific kinds of furniture and space.

The mere providing of bedrooms can hardly be expected to do the trick, for this invites a youthful invasion of the living room. And any family that has experienced the merging of ages in one area, where is waged a never-ending tug-of-war between peace and quiet and the Mickey Mouse Club, should know this.

One family that took a long and thoughtful look at its undivided and free-for-all domain is the Jim Burdges whose home at 5200 El Roble, Park Estates, is—in every ordinary respect—a typical "family home" with three bedrooms and two baths. But the living room had to do for the three children as well as for the parents, a plan which left precious little privacy for either side.

So, not long ago, Mr. and Mrs. Burdge undertook to remodel their house, making a relatively small addition to the structure, and bringing about major shiftings of areas within the original plan to solve the problem.

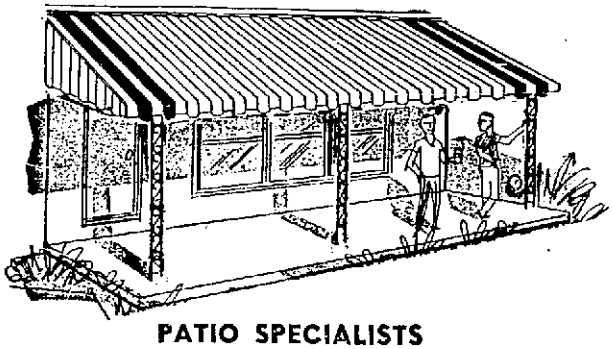

FIRST OF ALL, a wall was removed from the middle bedroom, which formerly opened off a small hall, integrating it with the living room. This affected a secondary adjoining living space that can be closed off for the parents.

Then a doorway off the entry, which formerly opened to a small connecting hallway between the bedrooms and a bath, was walled over. This was an especially welcome change inasmuch as the original plan allowed the bath to stand in view of the entry when the doors were open.

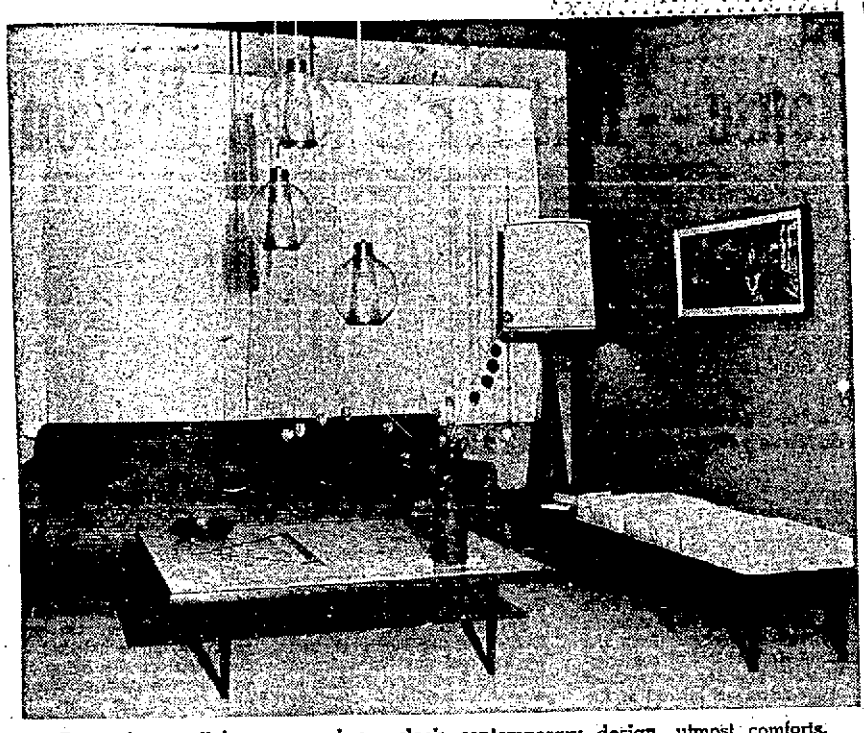

Conversion of the bedroom and the blocking off of the hall doorway then, were the first steps in the change-over. Next, at the very back of the house, a spacious double bedroom area was added that has permitted young Bob and Dick Burdge to grow with room to spare. Needless to add, this new sleeping, studying and romping room has had the delightful effect of greatly minimizing the strain on the rest of the house.

What was done in the way of redecoration also makes an interesting story. First off, the entry, where the door to the hall was banished forever, there remained the problem of what to do to eliminate the tell-tale outline of the plastered-over opening. Paint, obviously, wasn't going to do the trick. Thus, the Burdges hit upon the plan of papering this one wall with a heavily-textured Chinese grass cloth . . . a material that is a blessing, not only for its inherent good looks but also for its ability to cover up such wall blemishes.

IMMEDIATELY BEYOND and to the left of the entry is the living room which, it was decided, should be refurnished to operate primarily for the children.

In lieu of carpet, the living room floor is surfaced in off-white flecked vinyl tile that is both practical and good looking. This merges attractively with a soft wheat toned wool carpet used both for the entry and the parents' new living alcove. The carpet meets the vinyl in an oblique line that is certainly more attractive, in many ways, than an uninterrupted sweep of a single floor covering might have been.

Living room furnishings are attractive and practical. Contemporary occasional tables of white plastic have black iron legs. Chairs are both comfortable and indestructible with their molded frames of turquoise plastic. Adjacent to the flagstone fireplace stands a pretty contemporary chair in oatmeal linen patterned in geometric turquoise, gold and periwinkle motifs.

THE BASIC COLOR scheme for the living-dining area illustrates the handsome effects possible with a monochromatic play of values. The scheme is composed of sandalwood walls and sand-colored ceiling meeting the dining area's drop ceiling of soft cocoa. Additional texture is provided over the fireplace where long, open bookshelves have been built over the mantel. The entire back wall of the area is glass that opens to a secluded dining patio.

Draperies throughout this area are white linen. The dining table is a round teak and oak Swedish import surrounded with a bevy of attractive three-legged chairs. It is here, before an inviting view window, that the Burdges dine.

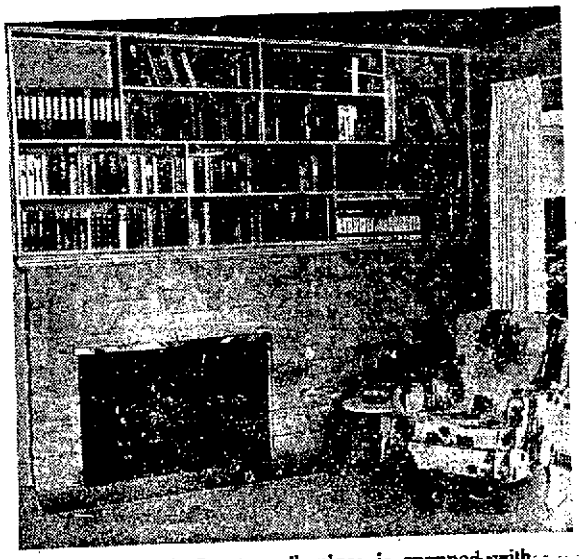

The new parents' area features wheat carpeting, sandalwood walls, an enormous mosaic table on walnut legs, the abstract motif of which predominates in tones of turquoise, orange and charcoal. White draperies, a biscuit tweed foam sofa and a contemporary slat bench partly cushioned in white leather pads provide the room's principal furnishings.

BUT PERHAPS the room's real piece de resistance is the sophisticated, suspended light fixture showcasing spheres of gold-flecked glass surrounding pierced brass cones. Finally, the specification that actually fulfills the original motivating purpose behind the room, is the folding oak-hinged screen that whisks across on tracks to completely separate the area from the more active living room section.

The kitchen, too, has come in for its share of the glamourizing and re-functionalizing. Before there was an uncomfortable breakfast space in one corner, a niche woefully too small for the family. And, all along one side of this narrow Pullman-type kitchen, there was nothing but a blank wall.

Now the same white flecked vinyl flooring used in the living room extends into the kitchen which features bright yellow plastic counter tops and clear turquoise walls and cabinets with three important new additions: a bar-storage counter between the dining room and kitchen, a long narrow china cabinet along the former "blank" wall, and a highly useful little built-in desk that occupies the space formerly wasted by the dining nook.

THE MASTER BEDROOM and 10-year-old Margaret's pretty sage and ice cream pink bedroom are contained within the original plan. The added-on boys' room is carpeted in tweed, backgrounded in sandalwood, and furnished with television, wardrobes, twin beds and desks. Besides all this, there is plenty of leg room which allows for the pursuit of hobbies and boy-like pastimes. For purposes of occasional privacy, a huge folding leatherette screen slides across the room to neatly slice the area into two "even-Steven" bedrooms. Sharp, yes . . . and smart, too.

Living room's flagstone fireplace is spanned with bookcases. Wall of glass opens to the dining patio.

HOUSE OF THE WEEK

Crooked House--But for a Good Reason

Curved steps, walk link driveway with porch of this crooked home which is no freak but angled for a reason.

By John O. B. Wallace

HERE'S a crooked house that adds three points to the compass, and new zest to living. No freak, it was built on an angle for good reasons.

Because it departs from the usual straight line of construction, it provides views from seven directions instead of the usual four.

Because it is a split level with a novel design you can twist and turn it on a lot however you wish, yet it will always look good.

Further, the angle of its two wings creates a wholly different and unusual exterior appearance.

ON THE INSIDE, too, there is an interesting difference because the irregular room arrangement lifts it from the hum-drum, box-like contours of the average home.

Back of this plan, designated HW-96 in the House of The Week series was the desire of architect Rudolph A. Matern to create a strikingly different split level residence.

After weeks of study and experimentation, Matern adopted the idea of placing the two wings at an angle. Aside from the departure in design, both inside and out, the irregular arrangement offers practical advantages.

FOR EXAMPLE, place the house so the terrace faces to the north. It will capture breezes from the east, north and west. In this position, morning light will illuminate the kitchen and breakfast area.

In the afternoon, the terrace porch would be shielded from the sun, yet the living room would catch some of the light of the fading day.

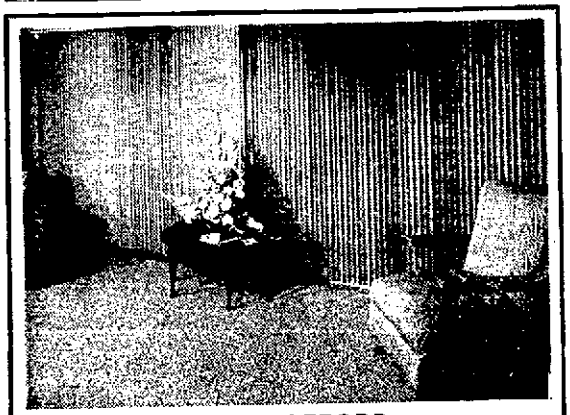

In brief, this house is designed to take maximum advantage of all the benefits of any particular location — natural light, prevailing breezes and scenic views.

ANOTHER FEATURE of this plan is its excellent traffic plan no room must be crossed to get to another room. This creates the shortest possible walking distances inside the house for guests, members of the family and for service activities.

There are three levels. The living level includes the foyer, living room, dining room, kitchen, breakfast room, lavatory and mud room.

The bedroom level has three bedrooms and two baths plus a dressing room.

The recreation room level has a two-car garage, a 15x15-foot recreation room, basement, lavatory, storage area and fireplace.

THE ANGLE of the plan is evident as soon as one steps into the foyer. The short stairs to the bedrooms as well as the fireplace wall of the living room are at an angle to the left while the balance of the living area remains at a 90 degree angle to the foyer.

In the foyer area, a story and a half wall extends from the ceiling to the recreation room floor and there are brass rods from the slanted ceiling to the steps, forming a light cage in which three frosted glass drop lights are suspended.

IN THE 14x11-foot dining room, there is a novel bar-server which is located in the position of a divider separating the dining room and the breakfast room-kitchen area.

Because of its design, it can become a bar, a serving table or a snack counter.

THE MASTER BEDROOM has a room-sized dressing room, a vanity and two closets. A private bath is attached.

The recreation room is directly on grade level and has its complete rear wall open with sliding glass doors, separating this area from the lower level terrace. The recreation room thus blends with the terrace and garden beyond.

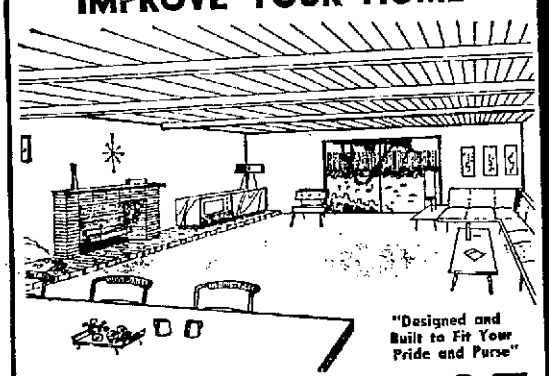

On the exterior, boards and battens are used on the bedroom level; stone and boards and battens are used on the living level. The roof is of asphalt shingles. Stone planters flank the front entrance, with curved steps and a walk to the front door.

THE FRONT DOOR is a double unit with a wide-fluted glass sidelight. The plan specifies aluminum double-hung and sliding windows.

The angle of the floor plan is shells, wooden knives and awls from scrubby oaks. Baskets and even bottles she wove from the coarse native grasses. And there were plenty of mortars left on the island. She constructed huts as her people had done; by standing whale ribs in the sand, wigwam style, and covering the top with brush.

WHITE HUNTERS occasionally landed there, but she was afraid of them. It was their kind that had decimated her people. She hid from them. From concealment she watched their movements, and was greatly relieved when they sailed away.

But these hunters reported seeing evidences of human habitation, although they had been told that no one lived there. So persistent were the rumors that Father Gonzales of the Santa Barbara Mission became aroused. He searched the records of the island and came upon Captain Spark's notation concerning the woman and child left there some 20 years before. He interested a citizen named Charles Brown and a respected old sea captain named Nidever. These men made a trip to San Nicolas and searched for days, but found nothing. Father Gonzales was not satisfied. A larger expedition was organized. This, too, failed to find the "lost woman" but they were certain that someone was living there.

NOW, CAPTAIN NIDEVER theorized that the woman might be afraid of white men, due to the sad experiences of her tribe. He suggested they send Indians to search for her.

A third expedition was organized, the largest of them all. Enough Indians were taken along to form a line entirely across the island, spacing the men a few hundred feet apart. They landed on the sandspit at the east end and started a systematic march. When a man should come upon her, he was to put his hat on the muzzle of his gun, raise it high, and shout. Then the others would close in and capture her. They did not know what to expect—perhaps she would fight, maybe kill.

One member of the party found her living comfortably in three whale-rib huts with a brush fence for a windbreak. She was sitting in the sun skinning a seal. Her dog growled in protest at the stranger's approach. When she saw a member of her own race, she showed no fear. The Indian gave the signal, and when the others came up, she wanted to feed them all. She seemed to regard them as her rescuers, and went with them without protest.

THE RESCUE PARTY took her to Santa Barbara where she became the pet of the Mission. She was then about 45, and was anticipating seeing her family and friends, but they had all died years before. No one could be found who understood her language, nor could she understand the mainland Indians. She was baptized and given the name Juana Maria Better-Than-Nothing, after the schooner that had removed her people from the island.

A sunnier disposition than hers could never be found. Perhaps it was from gratitude. She created quite a sensation there, back in the 1850s, and people came from miles around to see her. A traveling show offered the captain a large sum of money to put her on exhibition, but he refused.

The food of civilization did not agree with Juana Maria. She began having sick spells, each one more acute than the previous one. She died about six months after her rescue. Her remains rest in the churchyard of Santa Barbara Mission.

Santa Maria

bers of the crew) his flagship hit a sand bank. All attempts to get her afloat were unsuccessful, and the waves beat her to pieces. Luckily, the men were able to salvage most of the supplies aboard her.

MARTIN PINZON had deserted, hoping to reach Spain before Columbus, and the admiral had only the tiny Nina. As this vessel could not carry all of the men, Columbus founded a colony, naming it La Navidad (Fort Nativity) from the fact that the wreck occurred on Christmas. Then, with part of his men, he returned to Spain on the Nina.

Fortunately, the Santa Mara, which had survived the gruelling 34-day voyage across the uncharted ocean with its brave officers and crew, has been honored and its memory preserved for posterity. In Barcelona today, one may see the replica of this famous caravel.

In July each year, enactments of Claudel's dramatic poem, "The Book of Christopher Columbus," are given in a splendid setting, between Barcelona's tall monument to Columbus and the waterfront, where the Santa Maria has its permanent berth.

SEATS FOR 2,000 spectators are arranged on the esplanade for the open-air productions. The action takes place mostly on a long stage, but, for the scene when the "impatient and disillusioned crew" (when almost in sight of the New World) mutinies, the actors move to the floodlit deck of the Santa Maria.

In this inspiring play much spiritual meaning is given to Columbus' discovery of America. At the end, he is represented, simultaneously, by two different actors. One shows him dying in poverty after his various voyages and the other depicts the great explorer "crowned with glory by posterity."

BOOK REVIEWS

IKE BLASINGAME WAS NO fictional cowpoke. When, in 1904, the great Matador outfit shipped out of Texas with 3,000 cattle to the Cheyenne Indian Reservation in South Dakota, Ike went along for the ride—and adventure. For eight years he lived the old west as few people living have lived it: He experienced stampedes, howling blizzards, vast roundups, Indian scares. He did his share of bronco busting. He saw men in chaps fall out of the saddle into love. He saw the drama of death and the still chuckles at the ribaldry manufactured by fun-loving men in desolate places. Now he has written about these experiences of a half-century ago in "DAKOTA COWBOY" (Putnam's, $5) so entertainingly that few readers will want to put him aside, even for the chuck wagon. Accompanying the text are wonderful illustrations by John Mariani, one of which is reproduced above.

Double Crisis in a Man's Life

THE FANS that John P. Marquand has accumulated through the years will not find his new novel wanting. "Women and Thomas Harrow" (Little, Brown, $4.75) is full of observations and retrospect that only a splendid full maturity in life and the writing business could bring. In case "The Late George Apley," "Wickford Point" or "Point of No Return" had not established Marquand as an outstanding writer, "Women and Thomas Harrow" certainly would.

The novel deals with 36 hours in Tom Harrow's life, when at the age of 54 he is confronted with a double crisis: in his emotional life and in his career as the nation's leading playwright. Despite his success as a writer, Harrow has not been happy with the women in his life. Married three times, he comes to realize that he was in love but once. He loves Rhoda, whom he weds before becoming famous. After the birth of their son, Harold, they drift apart. Rhoda wants the security of lots of money; Tom the satisfaction of becoming a great dramatist.

The complete breakoff comes with the war. Tom is with the Army in Algiers when Rhoda writes him that she is getting a divorce. Tom's second marriage is of not much significance in his life. His third wife, Emily, is doubtful of Tom's future. His success as a playwright is on the wane, and he prefers living in a renovated old house in a quiet New England town, to life in New York or Hollywood, which places forever lure Emily. Tom puts all his fortune in a play which proves a dreadful flop. His career seems ended. Then Tom's son, Harold, brings him an urgent message from Rhoda. She wants to see him. Tom, at this

By Marjorie M. Hall

PIANO TUNERS occasionally get unusual assignments.

For instance, William E. Johns, 1912 Bermuda St., a piano tuner for 45 years, once installed an organ attachment on a piano at the foot of Mt. Whitney!

In vain, Johns tried to persuade the piano owner to call upon an expert who might live closer. The owner wanted him to do the job. So the piano tuner and his wife spent a pleasant weekend in the home below the towering peak, and the organ attachment was installed on the piano.

A piano has 10,000 parts, many of them at different levels, explains this man who served his apprenticeship with the Steger Piano Co. in Steger, Ill., and has given a lifetime to his chosen work.

"PIANOS MUST be tuned regularly," Johns says. "An upright at least once a year and a spinet every six months.

"A piano in storage, or seldom used, gets out of tune the same as one in use."

Tuning may start on middle C, F below C, or A above C, depending on where you were taught. A tuning fork is used to get a perfect note as a base. A having 440 cycles per second; middle C, 535.3 CPS; and lower F, 174.60 CPS. Due to the mechanical layout of the piano in absolute tone and halftone keys, it can't be tuned in perfect fifths as stringed instruments are, because, if it were, you could play the piano only in the key of C. That is the way the piano is made. So it is necessary to "temper" the strings.

Starting in the middle of the keyboard with A 440, you "lay the temperament," as this first tuned octave is called. Treble keys have 3 strings each, so you insert loops of felt between each 3-string key unit to silence the outer strings, tuning only the middle string of each group first. A440 and D below it is a perfect fifth interval, and you begin here to lay your temperament, first in fifths, then in sixths, fourths, thirds, in every conceivable combination within this octave. You tune each interval perfectly, then diminish it very slightly until the primary vibration of the strings set up a secondary vibration of so many beats per second, memorized by the tuner. There are 5 to 12 or more, depending on the interval and its place in the scale. They sound like very faint wu-wu-wu-wu-wu-wu. Only highly trained ears with knowledge of perfect pitch and tone can detect these secondary vibrations and count them, as must be done.

After the temperament is laid on only the middle strings of this first middle octave, the felt is gradually removed and all 3 strings of each key unit are tuned in perfect unison. From this perfectly laid octave, the technician tunes octaves from each key, using rubber wedges to silence two of the 3-string note units as he works upward.

Finished with the upper half, the tuner works downward and finds that the 3 strings of each note or key become 2 thicker strings in the bass section, and finally 1; huge strings wrapped tightly with the finest steel wire to give the bass notes body or resonance; the lowest bass note having a vibration of only 27.5 per second and the highest note, 4185.6.

When finished, the tuner will have built up a total string tension of approximately 18 tons against the many tuning pins imbedded in the sounding board, for the 230 strings and 3¾ miles of steel wire.

THE EARLIEST piano precursor was the clavichord, which must have existed by 1323. Its principle was simple: 19 strings covering 2½ octaves were enclosed in a small box. The strings were gently touched by upright metal tangents solidly fastened on the rear ends of the keys. The tone was weak, but so expressive it caused a renewed boom in sentimental Germany between 1729 and 1780.

From tangents, free standing jacks were used, with small quills or leather tongues projecting horizontally. When the jack jumped up the quill plucked the strings.

Three principal shapes were: square (Clavichord) with strings running right to left. Upright, with strings running upwards. Grand, with strings running from front to back.

THE EARLIEST evidence of a plucked keyboard instru-

A Summer Home You Can Afford

This summer homesite, surrounded by 14,000-foot mountains, is located in Inyo National Forest.

By Ellen Saunders

HOW WOULD you like to own a summer home right in the middle of some of the most rugged and spectacular mountain scenery in California? A home within easy reach of some of the state's finest fishing and hunting areas yet close to recreational developments-featuring diversified sports activities?

You would? Then write Uncle Sam, for he's the genie who makes this possible for a sum the average family can afford.

It's all a part of a little known program operated by the government whereby certain areas in National Forests throughout the United States are leased to citizens for summer homesites.

A "special use permit," giving you the right to about one-half acre of land on which you can build your home, costs between $25 and $45 per year. Leases may be renewed yearly or you can obtain a 20-year permit.

SIXTEEN THOUSAND of these building permits have already been issued to families in many of the 149 national forests scattered throughout 38 of the 48 states, Alaska and Puerto Rico. These national forests are entirely separate from the National Parks and are administered by the Forest Service of the United States Department of Agriculture. They include over 180 million acres of land, or more than an acre apiece for every man, woman and child in the United States.

California has more of these national forests than any other state—17 in all. Among them are Shasta Trinity with its extensive stand of virgin timber and five glaciers; Six Rivers, located in the heart of the giant redwoods; and Angeles, with its scenic drives and wonderful views of city lights at night.

Ususally five to 30 summer homesites are grouped in one area of a national forest, but crowding is not a factor since the permit stipulates there must be 200 feet between structures. Only one residence building may be erected on a site. Construction must be finished by the end of the second season after the permit is granted. You may build what you can afford—a cabin, bungalow or lodge, provided it harmonizes with the forest environment. All construction plans must be approved by the forest supervisor before building commences.

THERE ARE A FEW other restrictions. The dwelling may not be used as a year around permanent residence, nor can it be leased except with the approval of the forest supervisor. Should you decide to sell, the district ranger must approve the transaction in writing And the keeping of livestock, poultry, or saddle horses on the premises is prohibited.

The frequent inspection of these homesite areas by forest patrolmen insures a high standard of protection against fire. Another plus value is that real estate taxes cannot be collected on national forest lands, although local governments usually assess the improvements.

NOW'S A GOOD time to start planning, if such a summer home appeals to you. Further information can be obtained by writing to the Forest Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. and asking for a copy of the illustrated booklet "National Forest Vacations." In it you will find the location of each of the national forests and descriptive material regarding the attractions. Once you have decided in which forest you would like to locate, apply directly to the forest supervisor of the area of your choice. If he has several sites ready for use, you will be able to make your own selection. If not, he will direct you to another where sites are available.

Harmony

nent dates from 1404 for the clavichord and monochord.

In the making of piano hammers which is done by machinery, one entire set is covered with felt at a time, there is a variation as to hardness in the individual hammers and voicing is relied upon to lighten up the felt and give uniform character of tone throughout the entire scale of the piano.

The actual tone of an upright and a spinet cannot be measured by the size of the soundboard. It is more definitely measured by the kind of wood of which the soundboard is made. Spruce is widely used.

WHITE KEYS are ivory. Yellowing of keys is caused by heat and dampness under the cover, when it is closed over the keys. Air should be allowed to circulate amidst the ivorys.

The outer shape of the piano has followed the same three basic forms as the plucked keyboard instrument; grand, square and upright. The principal woods used are mahogany, maple and ebony.

The square or grand was the oldest of these forms. Second in development was the upright; third, the spinet.

Oldest known square piano is one in Nurenburg, Germany, bearing the date 1742. Several clavichords were manufactured as late as 1920 for revival of ancient music.

The hardest piano to tune? Johns says there is no particularly hard one. But the spinet offers difficulty for the lack of working space. The upright fits in here, too. Most of the existing ones are very old. The soundboard may become "set." The strings then are more susceptible to breaking.

Johns moved to Long Beach in 1928 and is piano tuner at Humphreys Music Store.

Partners in a Cookie Adventure

Cereals can add nutlike quality to molasses cookies, a sweet that always finds favor with the youngsters. A few of these cookies pictured above.

By Mildred K. Flanary

Independent, Press-Telegram Home Economics Editor

MOLASSES COOKIES and little boys . . . little girls, too. They seem to go together. Then, with the nutlike addition of cereals to this taffy flavor mixture, and you have a treat which even grandma will like.

These cookies can be fashioned into lacy, crisp cookies, or truly delightful macaroons can be achieved with molasses and bite-sized, shredded rice biscuits. These little cereal pillows give a chewy macaroon texture to cookies. Molasses and rice crispies or puffed rice become cookie balls, a sort of variation of the popcorn ball.

Following are some recipes:

Molasses Puffed Balls

- ½ cup molasses
- ½ cup sugar
- 1½ tsps. butter
- 2 qts. puffed rice cereal

Combine molasses, sugar and butter in a 2-quart saucepan. Place over low heat, stirring constantly, until sugar is dissolved. Cook over medium heat until syrup, when dropped in very cold water, separates into threads which are hard but not brittle, or until candy thermometer reaches 270 deg. F. Pour syrup over puffed rice, stirring quickly to coat each kernel. When cool enough to handle, shape into large balls with lightly buttered hands. YIELD: 1 dozen.

Note: To make miniature balls, cut recipe in half and substitute crispy rice cereal for puffed rice. Shape into 1-inch balls. YIELD: 3 dozen.

Molasses Oatmeal Lace Thins

- ½ cup butter
- ¼ cup milk
- ¼ cup molasses
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- ¾ cup sifted all-purpose flour
- ½ tsp. baking powder
- ½ tsp. salt
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 cup rolled oats
- 1 cup finely chopped nuts

Melt butter in large saucepan. Remove from heat; stir in milk, molasses and vanilla. Sift in flour, baking powder, salt and sugar; mix well. Stir in oats and chopped nuts. Drop by level teaspoonfuls 2 inches apart on greased baking sheets. Bake in a moderate oven (375 deg. F.) 6 to 8 minutes. Cool about 1 minute; remove from pan. Cool. YIELD: Approximately 4 dozen.

Molasses Meringues

- ¼ cup molasses
- ½ teaspoon cornstarch
- ½ teaspoon baking powder
- 2 egg whites
- ¾ cup sugar
- ½ teaspoon almond flavoring
- ½ teaspoon lemon flavoring
- ½ cup coconut
- 1 cup bite size shredded rice biscuit crumbs (2 cups shredded rice biscuits)

Combine molasses, cornstarch, and baking powder; reserve. Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry; gradually add sugar and beat until very stiff. Carefully fold in molasses mixture; fold in flavorings, coconut and crumbs. Drop by teaspoonfuls about 2 inches apart on baking sheets covered with brown paper. Bake in a slow oven (300 degrees F.) 30 minutes. Remove from paper when cool. YIELD: Approximately 2½ dozen.

Veal Paprika

- 4 cups corn flakes
- 1½ lbs. veal cutlets
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- 3 teaspoons salt
- 1 tablespoon water
- 1 clove garlic
- 3 teaspoons shortening
- ½ cup water
- 1 cup sour cream
- 1 tablespoon paprika

Cut veal into pieces about 2x1 inches. Crush corn flakes, combine egg, salt and water. Dip veal pieces in egg mixture; roll in crumbs. Cut garlic into pieces; brown in heated shortening. Remove garlic. Brown veal on both sides in heated shortening and add water. Cover. Simmer gently about 1 hour. Pour in sour cream, but do not stir; sprinkle with paprika. Cover. Simmer about 15 minutes longer.

YIELD: Six servings.

time realizing she is the one woman he loves, decides to visit her.

This Literary Guild selection for October is a quiet novel which compels you to read on—a book that holds you by the words and actions of characters that breathe and think.

"JUBILEE: One Hundred Years of the Atlantic," (Little, Brown, $7.50): Finest selections from 1,200 issues of the Atlantic are combined in this volume, a library in itself, issued to celebrate the hundredth anniversary of the literary magazine. Its roster of contributors ranges from Mark Twain to William Faulkner, from Oliver Wendell Holmes to George Bernard Shaw, from Browning to Yeats and Dylan Thomas. Theodore Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson are represented, as well as Pulitzer and Nobel prize winners. Selections are grouped into "galaxies": One Nation Indivisible, New England and the Hub, the Civil War, Love in America, the World Wars and the Creative Process and so on. One section concentrates on Atlantic fiction—for instance Ernest Hemingway's "Fifty Grand" ran in Atlantic after four other magazines had turned it down!

"INSIDE PRO FOOTBALL" by Joe King (Prentice, Hall, $2.95): Los Angeles Rams fans now can get the complete low-down on their club—its front office, team strategy, trades and personality glimpses—from the time it first operated in Cleveland in 1941 right up to the beginning of the 1958 season. Other teams in the NFL, of course, get similar treatment, based on King's first-hand observations from the pressbox, and there's also a chapter on Canadian pro football. Red Grange, Tom Harmon and Johnny Lujack contribute special articles designed to help television viewers get more out of the games.

"THIS IS ADAM" by Brainard Cheney (McDowell, Obolensky, $3.95): When Adam Atwell, Negro overseer for the Hightower family, discovers that conniving white men are threatening to victimize Col. Hightower's widow in a land deal, he starts his own facile brain working. The colonel had been his friend in time of need. Adam stands by the widow although it means risking his life to the plotters and alienating himself from his own people. Cheney, author of other novels about the back-country of Georgia, in this novel presents a new viewpoint of Negro-white relations in the South; of two people, one white, one black, drawn together by a common loyalty to the land they love.

"CALIFORNIA LURE: The Golden State in Pictures" by Evelyn Neuenburg; prologue and epilogue by Oscar Lewis (Hill and Wang, $2.45): This third edition of a popular book is probably the most up-to-date and comprehensive picture tour of California to be found in the bookstalls today. Within its paperback covers are literally scores of photographs—some past but mostly present — of places of interest from the Mexican border to the Oregon line. There are sections on Long Beach, Orange County, Catalina Island, and an extensive coverage of Los Angeles County.

Pony Rocker for the Kids

Ronnie Ayers, NBC actor, enjoys this pony rocker that can be made easily with full-sized patterns.

By Steve Ellingson

NO THOROUGHLY occupied man was ever yet very miserable. The great secret of human happiness is this: Never let your energies go stale. The old adage of "too many irons in the fire," conveys an abominable lie. You can't have too many — poker, tongs and all — keep them going. If you doubt this statement, look around among your friends. You'll find the ones with the most projects are the most happy.

That's why the season ahead, from now until Christmas, is a happy one for do-it-yourselfers. They have projects galore making gifts for all members of the family. They're saving money too.

Since it's the small fry that get the biggest thrills at Christmastime, we thought we should begin the do-it-yourselfer's busy season with a pony rocker for real tiny tots.

THIS TOY is designed so even the smallest infant can sit in it without fear of falling out. When it's painted with bright colors and decorated with a few upholstery tacks, you'll have a real range ridin' bronc.

To build the article requires no particular skill because you simply trace the full size patterns on plywood and then saw them out and put them together. Painting is easy because you merely trace the horse features on the plywood, then paint over the tracings. The pattern gives complete directions for putting the parts together and the colors to use in painting. There are lots of pictures printed on the pattern which show the various steps of assembly. Simple tools are all you need. A jig saw, or even a hand coping saw, will suffice.

To obtain the full-sized pony rocker pattern No. 131 send $1 to Steve Ellingson, Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram, 15155 Salicoy St., Van Nuys, Calif.

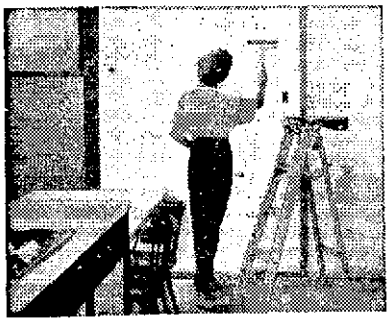

Just Plant It

California's native toyon, or Christmas Berry, is an easy means to some colorful decorations at the Yuletide. Accepting more water than most natives, it fits into the general garden scheme, bears tiny clusters of flowers in early summer, bright clusters of berries in the late fall and early winter. Toyon's long, deep green leaves and free growing habit make it suited to backgrounds. Few plants come easier to care for. Just plant it and let it grow.

Let's Take a Ride on the Burro Train

BURROS TAKE their time. If you try to hurry them, they get stubborn and nothing can be quite as stubborn as a stubborn burro. You can build a fire under them and they will step along the trail just far enough to get away from the flames and then stop and take roots again. But when a burro starts moving, he'll go tirelessly in a slow sleepy way, covering a lot of country and the rougher the trail the better.

"And they're fighters, too," Johnson said. "The wildest thing in the Wild West is a mother burro, if her baby's safety is at stake — a mother burro has been known to completely rout a mountain lion that had eyes on her offspring."

JOHNSON'S BURRO RIDE offers some type of ride for every member of the family starting with the very youngest. Located on the home grounds is a circle which 32-year-old Peggy takes the kiddies around to give them a thrilling, if slow, ride. The fact that Peggy's fastest gait is a slow amble with an occasional stop to grab a bite of grass doesn't seem to bother the younger set at all. Peggy has had riders as young as eight months. Another ride for children that are a little older lasts for about 15 minutes and covers the desert trails in the immediate vicinity of the corral.

The ride for older children and adults is, of course, the best and longest of all. This ride lasts for three hours and winds its way up the Tahquitz Canyon trail — named for the evil spirit of the Cahuilla Indians — where the mountain walls which rise sheerly against the sun are a spectacular sight. This ride terminates at the Tahquitz Falls which has running water all winter, affording the riders a breathtaking view and a wonderful drink of clear, cool mountain spring water.

Owning a burro or just riding one is a way of life, according to Ken Johnson, and if you pass up an opportunity to get aboard the Burro Train you have denied yourself one of the real pleasures the Far West has to offer — and one of the most genuine.

Archery: Fun for All the Family

ONE RULE for the novice is to find a bow he can pull easily to full draw, then buy one five pounds heavier. And don't buy a bow you can't hold at full draw steadily for at least six seconds, they say.

Good arrows are as important as good bows. The best bows won't shoot poor arrows straight. Standard arrows for adults come in three lengths: 24, 26 and 28 inches. Custom arrows may be purchased in any length desired.

The weight of a bow also is important in buying arrows because an arrow's stiffness, which archers call "spine," should be matched to the weight of the bow that will shoot it. Arrows with too much spine shoot to the left of the target for a right-handed archer, and those with too little spine shoot to the right of the mark. And remember that an arrow curves upward when it leaves the bow and makes an arc.

Every archer in the family should have a quiver for his own arrows. The most common type is hung over the back with a single shoulder strap. Equip each archer with a finger tab or glove to protect his fingers when he pulls the string, and an arm guard to protect his forearm from the string when he releases his arrows.

Archers usually carry their equipment in a tackle box.

Targets are no problem. You need something to stop the arrows and a couple of bales of hay will do nicely. But archers say it is more fun to join an archery club in your locality and enter into organized competition. This is particularly beneficial to the beginner, for the beginner gets off to a better start by learning the correct form right away.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH DELAPLANE

"We heard there was a new air flight from Hawaii to Tahiti. Do you know about it?"

THERE IS NO field at Tahiti. But Hawaiian Air Lines and Transocean both run some test flights, landing at an old Air Force strip at Bora Bora and sending passengers on by flying boat. Neither of these seem to be in regular operation.

There is a new flight by Transports Aeriens Intercontinentaux from Paris to Bora Bora with a flying boat connection.

Pan American Airways says they have a connection with this flight every Thursday at Nadi Airport in Fiji- a regular stop on PAA's flights to Australia. (This is an excellent airport and has an airport hotel and night club.)

You can also fly to Nadi and take Fiji Airways' puddle jumper across the island to Suva. There you pick up the TEAL flying boat. Alternate Thursdays to Tahiti with an overnight stop at Apia in Western Samoa. (A wonderful South Sea island, by the way!)

TEAL now has tourist rates —a saving of some $74. But you need strong reservations. The islanders keep this route full all the time. TEAL is the New Zealand airline and is very good.

"What will we pay for cigarettes in England and how many can we take in?"

YOU PAY about 50 cents a package for American cigarettes all over Europe. About 40 cents for English.

The rules in most countries say one carton. But I never have any problem bringing in five cartons—except in Japan where you pay a fearful tax.

If you are stopping at Shannon, you can buy American brands for $1.50 a carton at the free port. If not, there is a counter at Idlewild Airport in New York where you can order cigarettes tax-free delivered aboard your plane. About $1.80 a carton.

"What is the most economical transportation through Europe for a family of four?"

I HAVE never found anything cheaper than the bus. There are wonderful buses in Europe. Linjebuss is one company. CIAT in Italy is another.

For example: Three days from Rome to Nice, France, cost me $16 on CIAT. The bus had roomy seats. They carry a stewardess and serve from a small bar.

"Can you recommend a hotel in Vera Cruz?"

I STAYED at the Hotel Emporio and found it very good. You might find it more fun to have your dinners at the sidewalk cafes in the main plaza. I think Prendes on the corner is the best.

"We are planning to take the boat train from Paris to London. I hear the Channel is very rough. . ."

SOMETIMES. Look at the weather, upper left-hand corner of the Paris edition of the New York Herald Tribune. It gives the surface conditions of the Channel.

Travel Increases

Travel between the United States and eight European countries on Trans World Airlines 48,000 miles of system routes increased by an average of nearly 18 per cent during the first half of this year over the same period in 1957, Frank S. Donant, district sales manager, Los Angeles, reported.

A breakdown of the increase to and from the eight countries on TWA's trans-Atlantic flights is as follows: France 20 per cent, Italy 26 per cent, England 20 per cent, Iceland 12 per cent, Spain 24 per cent, Portugal 15 per cent, Switzerland 3 per cent, Greece 18 per cent. Travel to Germany was off slightly in comparison with the exceptionally heavy travel to that country the year before.

Scrap Old Ship

The last of a freighter quintet that served as Hawaii's lifeline for two decades is now under the shipbreaker's hammer at Osaka, Japan.

She is the 37-year-old steamer Portarlissa, which as the former Matson freighter Maunawili, was one of the mainstays in California-Hawaii service from 1925 to 1946.

The 10,600-ton vessel and four other freighters - the Maunalei, a sister ship, and the Maliko, Manukai and Manulani - - ran in convoy during World War II as the Islands' chief line of supply. The latter two, at 14,000 tons each, were the largest freighters in the Pacific till the postwar advent of Matson's modern C-3 fleet.

The five ships, which initially called only at San Francisco on the West Coast, were used to establish service between Los Angeles and Honolulu in 1931.

Introduction to the Darkroom

By The Shutterbug

THESE ARE THE days when a re-acquaintance with your darkroom — or an introduction to darkroom developing, if you haven't tried it until now—seems in order. For one thing, it's a season of natural comfort which makes working easier than in summer heat or winter cold.

And one of the best ways to ease into darkroom work with understanding, and even enthusiasm, is to read about it first.

At least that's how I felt when going through the newly revised edition of "Available Light and Your Camera" (published by Amphoto, N. Y.). Its editor-author, George B. Wright, unfortunately died just as the book came out.

Baby pictures are best in natural light, says expert in book, "Available Light and Your Camera."

THE BOOK ITSELF is a guided tour in the realm of available light photography with 11 experts acting as personal guides in their own special fields.

Waiting at the darkroom door is Ralph Baum, the man who has specialized in custom processing for the most demanding professional photographers and made it available to all photo fans through his Modernage lab in New York City.

Though a good many photographers do their developing by the "time and temperature" method, Baum is a staunch advocate of what he calls the professional method of handling film, developing by inspection. It certainly has advantages in the field of available light photography where exposures may be an uncertain factor. But the ability to judge negatives during developing comes only with experience, by handling and inspecting many rolls of films.

A MINIMUM of equipment is needed for a beginner. Item one are trays or hard-rubber or plastic tanks, small enough so that a quart of solution will fill each tray to at least an inch in depth. One contains the developer, another the short stop (1½ oz. of 28 per cent acetic acid to each quart of water). The hypo goes into a third tray or tank.

Also needed are a darkroom clock and a safelight with a green filter glass (Wratten series 3 or equivalent). A footswitch arrangement to turn the light on and off for the 10-second inspection glimpses is a convenient accessory and much safer than fumbling for a light switch with wet fingers.

All work is done in total darkness. The film is unrolled, held by the ends in each hand in a U-shaped loop and run through the developer solution in the first tray by raising and lowering each end. The darkroom clock keeps track of the timing.

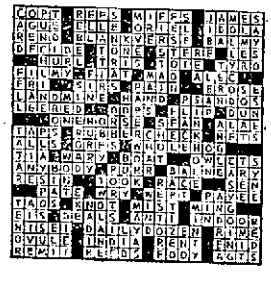

THE FIRST INSPECTION by green safelight can take place after three-fourths of the manufacturer's recommended normal developing time has elapsed. After no more than a 10-second look, other inspections can come at one minute intervals. When the proper negative density is reached, the film is dunked in the short stop for a minute then immersed in the hypo.

After a few experiences with film in its latter stages of development, the appearance of the image on the shiny base side as well as on the creamy-looking emulsion side will become apparent to you. Then fewer and shorter looks under the safelight will be necessary and you can omit the densitization.

The end result, properly developed film which has been custom-finished to its specific subject matter or exposure, is the basis for the best possible prints of enlargements. And, in photography, that is what all the shooting is about.

"CLOSE-UP PHOTOGRAPHY" will be the topic of a talk by S. R. Giles of South Gate at a meeting of Long Beach Camera Guild at 7:45 p.m. Wednesday in Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd. Colored slides will illustrate the talk. A business meeting will precede the program. Winners in this month's contests are: Black-and-white prints, Clare Grounds, first and third awards; Marion Paglow, second; Eugene Nye and Eugene Abraham, honorable mention. Color: Eugene Abraham, first; Gerald Church, second; Elva Hayward, third; Clara Watkins, honorable mention; Bert Sims, two honorable mentions; B. L. Laursen, best scenic; Murray Shaner, best table top, and Marion Paglow, best creative.

What Kind of Dog for You?

By Eleanor A. Price

WHICH is the most satisfactory dog to own? This question is a familiar one to any person who exposes himself to the public as an authority on these pets.

Any authority being questioned, however, is usually at the disadvantage of not knowing the inquirer personally and so does not have the slightest knowledge of the temperament or personality of the questioner. He is often tempted to ask, "Are you a satisfactory person for a dog?"

"If you are a neophyte on the subject of dogs, you should be advised not to buy a puppy just because someone tells you it is a wonderful breed. The matter of personal preference plays a very important part in the selection of a dog. There is no reason to saddle yourself with a breed to which you are not personally attracted. So, first of all, decide which breeds please your eye.

THEN MAKE A project of choosing the best one for you by inquiring around, visiting breeders, and reading up on these dogs. Take the C. R. Steinman family, 1107 Central Ave., Seal Beach, for example. These people, longing for a dog, familiarized themselves in every way with dogs that appealed to them and finally decided on a Japanese spaniel as the right one for their two young daughters.

The J. D. Wilson family, 4718 E. 14th St., Long Beach, believing that a good dog makes a good master, want a dog that will meet this standard, and each member of the family has been spending months seriously studying dogs with "eye appeal" to them.

Make very certain the pup you eventually choose comes from good stock, for only through selective breeding can desirable qualities be intensified. Even then, in every breed, there are individuals with variations of temperament which make it impossible for you to know positively that the pup is the right one. But, with proper training and loving understanding, you just may get the dog of your dreams.

HERE ARE WHAT a few breeds should offer: All terriers are alert, peppy, seldom effusively sentimental. Toy dogs are decorative, lovable, easy to handle, and fit in best in a happy home. Shetland sheepdogs are affectionate, merry, and gentle house pets.

German shepherds, dobermans, Great Danes, border collies, collies, sled dogs, and most all other working dogs as well as airedales, Kerry Blues, Dalmatians, chows make fine, loyal watch dogs.

Retrievers are a thrill to own, and they are unusually quiet and devoted. Spaniels are attractive, friendly, have a happy disposition. Beagles are delightfully gay, like to explore and "go places." Bassets, sadsacks though they appear, are happy and adaptable. Dachshunds are fun-loving, clean, enjoy children. Basenjis clean themselves like cats, are alert but do not bark. In fact, all sporting dogs fit in well with the family scene and return affection tenfold.

And, of course, to the poodle owner, there is no other dog like him. He is fun personified and a glamorous pal as well.

NOON, OCT. 20, is closing date for entries of Glendale Kennel Club benched show and obedience trials set for Nov. 2 in Glendale Civic Auditorium.

Sad sack basset puppy owned by W. H. Robinson, 1509 Stanley Ave., is really charming and pleasant.

Anyone Can Grow Orchids

By James F. Scheer

ONCE YOU START growing orchids, you just can't quit.

This is the experience of James T. (Jim) Thresh, 1191 Bryant Rd., chief inspector of North American Aviation's Autonetics Division. As a hobby, he has been growing orchids at his Long Beach home for the past five years.

Jim built a small greenhouse, started with the lowest cost Mexican orchids and did well for a while. Then the flowers started to go downhill, and a number died. Some botanical detective work was necessary to find out why.

First he talked to other amateur growers, then began reading books on orchid culture, and interviewing commercial growers. He found that native environments of orchids varied from high cool regions to tropical areas. They normally grow in high humidity in sky forests, where the rainfall is well above 100 inches per year, where there is frequent fog-rain, and the ground is covered with decomposing tree leaves, needles and cones.

IT WAS CLEAR to Thresh that to get best results he would have to simulate closely the conditions of these native areas. He concentrated on proper light, temperature, humidity and potting media. He built and installed an automatic humidifier with a number of fog nozzles to keep the air constantly at 70 per cent humidity, a desert air cooler that holds temperatures under 100 degrees, a heating system that keeps the greenhouse above 50 degrees F. at all times and apparatus for automatically operating vents.

The orchids responded but not enough. He was still missing an important environmental aspect. It occurred to him that the water might be the villain.

His analysis of the Long Beach water—largely obtained from the Colorado River—revealed a high sodium content harmful to orchids and various other plants. During the winter season he could collect rain water, which contained no toxic salts. However, for the dry spring, summer and fall seasons he had to take another step.

Thresh designed and built a 2,000-gallon, home-size de-mineralizer, which produces water equivalent to distilled. He added proper proportions of fertilizer and trace elements to the pure water.

Results were phenomenal.

Although Thresh is vice president of the South Coast Orchid Growers Society, affiliated with the Western Region Orchid Congress, and an active member of the Long Beach Amateur Orchid Society, growing flowers just to enter prize competition is not his principal aim.

"It's the technical end of this hobby that intrigues me most of all," he says.

Recently he presented a comprehensive, well-received paper, "Water Effects in Orchid Culture," to the Long Beach Amateur Orchid Society. The more he learns about these beautiful flowering plants, the more he wants to know.

Contrary to popular opinion, orchid-growing is more than just a millionaire's hobby. But it can be prohibitively costly for the person who goes at it in the wrong way, he says.

If one buys stud—breeding stock—these fully mature plants can run from $125 to $300 apiece. Seedlings that are 2 years old and in 3-inch pots can be bought for as little as $1 to $3 each. Unflowered seedlings can be had for from 50 cents to $1. Once started, it is possible for a grower to trade with others for increased variety.

Thresh points out that there are about 9,000 known varieties of orchids, with blooms ranging from a vision-defying size which requires magnification of a 10-power glass to 10 or 12 inches in diameter. There are also many variations in hardiness and cost.

As a hobby, there's nothing like orchid-growing for relaxation, says Thresh. Any nervous tension accumulated during the day is lost in a greenhouse, where some of nature's most fabulous flowers are in bloom throughout the year.

Thresh and his wife, Emily, enjoy orchid-growing. His wife has been studying orchid-arranging for table centerpieces and also corsage-making. In her particular specialty, she is as expert as her husband.

In and about Autonetics, Thresh's office is recognizable any day by the rich variety of orchids that usually grace the desk of his secretary. And those who don't know him by sight can spot Thresh easily by the small orchid in his suit lapel—a flower of different color each day.

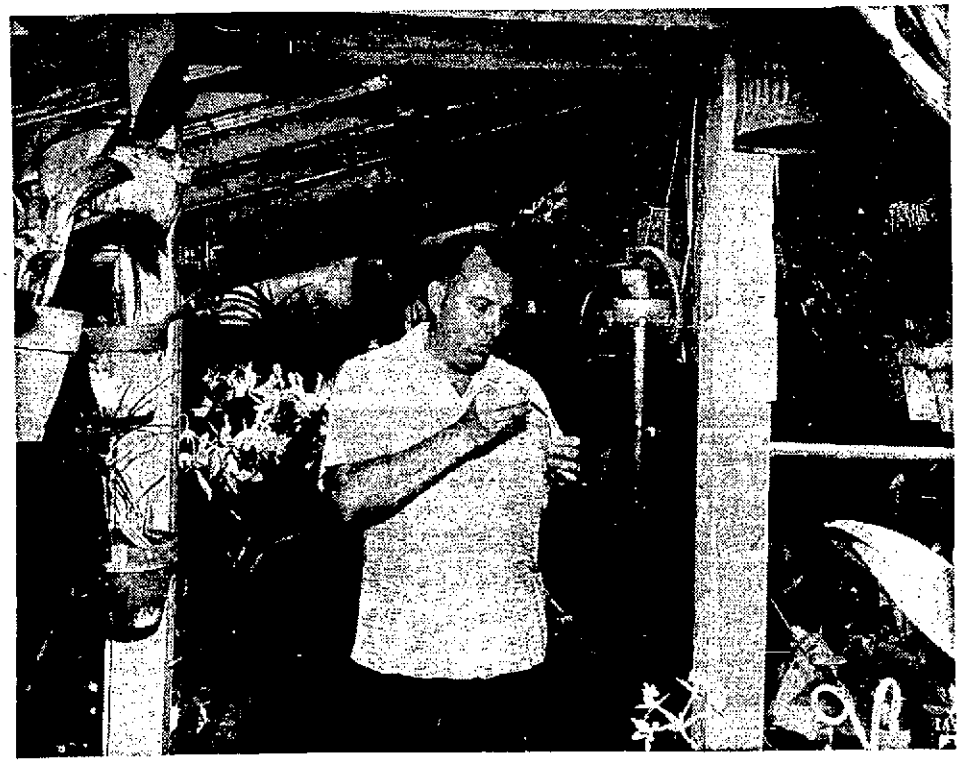

—Photos Courtesy Autonetics Skywriter, North American Aviation

Applying the scientific approach to a hobby, James Thresh has achieved an unusual degree of success as orchid grower. Above, he is shown with a few of his plants.

Emily Thresh has become expert in making orchid corsages from husband's flowers.

Thresh is constantly alert to improve his orchid-growing technique. Here he tests special water in his greenhouse. He has found the right water pays off in blooms.

Fall Is a Busy Planting Season

African daisies thrive in this area in winter and early spring; they may be started from seed now.

By John Ronson

RESIDENTS from out-of-state, as well as a large number of natives, fail to realize that fall is the ideal planting season. The impression that spring is the only planting season is certainly not based on fact; throughout most of Southern California there is no closed season for growing either ornamentals or vegetables. The next few months offer certain advantages for growing plants that do not exist during the spring.

One of the main benefits of fall planting is the decreased competition from weeds and certain other garden pests. Plants started now will find their ancient foes . . . crab grass, devil grass and other comparable infestations . . . on the decline. They are either tending towards a dormant state or drying out entirely. Then, too, dozens of familiar garden enemies . . . worms, spiders, beetles and their associates in crime . . . become less active as the temperature drops.

SEEDS GERMINATE easily during the fall. This is due largely to the more even temperatures prevailing; the change between day and night is less extreme. The broiling sun has also lost much of its heat, and seedlings are less susceptible to broiling in the hot sun. Flowers in the open garden hold their color longer and appear more radiant.

Fall gardening may actually prove a more economical undertaking than in the spring. At least some rainfall may be expected. Natural rainfall tends to cool the surface, satisfy the thirst of plants and perhaps save you some time and money. Dame Nature is thus on your side, rather than against you.

Bulb planting is, of course, synonymous with the fall planting season. It is looked forward to with perhaps greater eagerness than almost any other gardening routine. This is possibly due to the fact that some bulbs . . . notably tulips and hyacinths . . . are imported from Holland and have a fairly romantic background.

FALL IS AN IDEAL time for sowing lawn grass seed. This is true for starting a new lawn, re-seeding an old one or just filling bare patches. For general re-seeding be sure to match the blend or mixture with what was sown originally. If a new lawn is planned, be sure to obtain only a high-grade seed mixture.

There are numerous varieties of vegetables that will thrive in this area during the fall and winter months. A few of the better known among them are: beets, carrots, broccoli, cabbage, cauliflower, lettuce, onions, radishes, spinach and peas.

Planting winter annuals is another gardening practice relatively restricted to the Southland. One of the most interesting varieties is the winter flowering sweet pea. More sweet peas are grown in Southern California during the fall of the year than all the rest of the year put together. But be sure and plant the early or winter flowering strain; other types will simply make vegetable growth, flowers not appearing until the weather warms up next spring.

OTHER POSSIBILITIES among the winter flowering annuals include: pansies, snapdragons, stocks, calendulas, primulas, larkspur, verbena and African daisies. You can save time in planting by starting the established transplants available at garden supply stores.

Winter Sweet Peas Are a Joy

Winter flowering sweetpeas will last for many days as cut flowers, and are a joy to see in off season.

By Bob Gilmore

WINTER FLOWERING sweet peas delight the home gardener in the off season, but be sure to get the winter flowering strain for this purpose. There is still time to get them in the ground, although blooms may not mature until after the holidays.

The Cuthbertson or regular summer flowering peas may also be planted soon and will make some growth during the cool weeks ahead. Planting in the fall only gives them a start and their progress may be slow until warm weather returns and the summer blooming season begins.

The winter flowering strain is quite different from other types. The plants have the capacity for flowering not only when the temperature is low but, also when the skies are overcast. This is quite a feat because most of our more common ornamentals are at their best only with plenty of direct sunshine. Winter flowering peas are preferred by local commercial cut flower growers for their long stems, high productivity and wide range of colors. Even during the spring months this strain will flower from ten days to two weeks earlier than other types.

SWEET PEAS are heavy feeders and the soil should be thoroughly conditioned.

Winter flowering sweet peas with colored "coats" are now available as well as naked seed. Each seed is coated the color the flowers will be, thus allowing you to work out in advance your own color combinations and also to obtain the seed at low cost. In addition, the coating around the seed acts as a fungicide, protecting the seedling from soil borne diseases. It also offers protection in cold damp soils and induces more rapid root action.

PLANT THE SEED of the ordinary type in furrows about one inch deep, spacing them from 3 to 4 inches apart. As the seedlings grow you should fill in the depression gradually until it is just slightly below the surface. For prize winning blooms thin the plants to stand about eight inches apart in the row.

As soon as the plants are just a few inches tall they should be trained to a trellis. A special sweet pea support that looks like a fish net is now available. It is weatherized and will last for several seasons. The vines may be attached to this trellis with plant ties. Do not allow the plants to flop across the surface of the ground. Keep them up in the air.

SWEET PEAS should be irrigated, not sprinkled. They are fairly heavy drinkers. This is especially true early in the season when the temperature is still high. Yellowing of the foliage is usually a sign of insufficient moisture supplies.

During the season the plants will have to be fed at regular intervals to sustain their immense growth. Either liquid plant food or a dry commercial type may be used. It is advisable to feed the plants about once every 14 days when the buds start to appear. This will lead to greater overall productivity, larger flowers and richer colors. Be sure you use a well balanced food that provides liberal quantities of nitrogen, phosphorous and potash as well as a fair amount of the trace elements such as magnesium.

Lawns Need Autumn Care

By Ed Roy

LAWNS NEED attention during the fall months if they are to look their best come spring and summer.

The lawn that looks ragged or dull, or beset by Bermuda grass, needs renovating. There are numerous methods to choose from but the easiest, of course — and probably the best —is to hire a commercial lawn renovation service. Many of these have power equipment and these power machines quickly rip off all top growth as well as a certain amount of the root growth. All waste is removed and the entire area is reseeded.

In case this method is impractical, budget wise, the gardener who enjoys working outdoors can do the job himself.

First, mow the existing turf as closely as possible. Remove as many weeds as possible and, if possible, spray the entire area with a good weed killer (your nurseryman can recommend a good one). Next, apply a top dressing to the surface, using good, clean topsoil that has been enriched with peat moss and steer manure. Apply liberally but not enough to smother the grass, and work back and forth with a garden rake. Then sow your seed at about half the regular rate, and keep the lawn moist until new grass seedlings are established.

Remember these don'ts: Don't mow until the new grass is two inches high. And don't water too heavily; if you do, you'll wash away seeds and tiny plants.

A beautiful lawn is no accident. It requires attention now to look its best in spring, summer.

If you are going to renovate an old lawn, now is the time to do it. I have renovated my lawn successfully two or three years in succession but it should be done before the weather gets too cold for germination. It consists, first of all, in what we call "scalping" . . . cutting the grass as close as possible to the sod with a special lawn mower.

My bulletin, "Renovating Lawns," outlines the procedure in detail and is free. Just send 4c to cover postage. (Also my bulletin on How to Put in a New Lawn). Now is the time to put in a new lawn so that it will have ample time to become established before hot weather sets in next season. For bulletins, address: Dorothy Jonson, 208 W. California, Pasadena, Calif.

Tips on Gardening

GARDEN TIPS for the week . . . Blue iris and yellow daffodils will prove one of the most exciting scenes in your spring garden. The bulbs may be planted now, and will flower at about the same time. Both plants enjoy liberal quantities of water during the growing season.

Growing hyacinths indoors in hyacinth glasses is a gardening venture available to everyone. You can watch the roots gradually form and move towards the bottom of the container; then the top growth starts and finally the buds form and open into a delightful color. For indoor gardening this is a natural.

Poinsettias set out now should do a lot towards filling your holiday garden with the Christmas colors of red and green. This plant prefers a sunny location.

You Can Grow 19 Fall Vegetables

Carrots are an easy-to-grow crop in the Fall. The seeds should be started in a sunny spot.

By A. C. McLeod

GROWING vegetables during the fall and winter in the Southland may prove more successful than raising them in spring or summer. The rainfall, even if on the light side, is highly beneficial and the cooling temperatures will prove encouraging to steady growth.

A fairly wide range of vegetables is available, there being 19 separate varieties from which to choose. Some can be started from seed, others — for more rapid maturity — from established transplants. Certain crops, such as carrots, beets and radishes, may be grown in this area throughout the year. Others are definitely cool weather crops and should be started at this time.

Among the cool-weather vegetables are the cole crops, such as cauliflower, cabbage and broccoli. It is too late now for seed sowing of these varieties, but nurseries are offering excellent seedling plants for immediate transplanting to your garden. Keep in mind that the warm weather crops will not succeed during the months immediately ahead. Although our winters are comparatively mild, they are still not warm enough for tomatoes, summer squash or beans.

ALL SMALL ROOT and leaf vegetables may be grown in "double rows," or raised beds. This method of culture is practiced extensively by large-scale commercial growers in the west. You can emulate their tactics and expect comparable results.

Raised beds are constructed by making furrows in the soil, parallel to each other and from 24 to 30 inches apart. The area between these furrows becomes a raised bed and the plants or seeds are started on the shoulders of the furrows. This gives rise to the name of "double rows."

Height of the beds depends on the season and type of soil. In winter and early spring, plantings on heavy soils should measure from 8 to 10 inches high; in the same soil during the summer the height can be dropped to 5 or 6 inches. Light soils during winter months require furrows measuring about 6 inches. Light soils require more shallow furrows due to their inability to retain moisture.

THE SURFACE between the furrows should be level and smooth. Irrigating is accomplished by running water, fairly slowly, through the furrows. Take care to prevent the water from rising above the top of the furrows and spreading across the beds. This is wasteful, and usually causes the surface to crust after drying.

Vegetables that may be started now either from seed or transplants includes beets, carrots, cabbage, cauliflower, broccoli, celery, chard, Chinese cabbage, endive, kale, kohlrabi, lettuce, leek, onions, peas, radishes, spinach, turnips and onion sets.

Soil preparation is essential for a bumper crop. The root vegetables seem to do better in a slightly lighter soil. This allows for easy expansion of the roots, such as carrots and beets. Root vegetables that are misshapen are often the result of a hard-packed soil.

Moisture must be supplied at regular intervals. This is essential if the crop is to be palatable and tender.

Fill Bare Spots

The combination of children and summer has a way of creating bare spots even in the best-cared-for lawns. The California Association of Nurserymen suggests you scratch the surface up thoroughly with a steel rake and sow new seed where bare spots show up. Cover the seed with a quarter to half-inch layer of steer manure or peat moss and keep it constantly wet. An enclosure of string or wire around the area will insure that further traffic is stalled before it can do the new planting any harm.

He Grows His Own Apples

Clark Pettingill picks apples from a tree that grew from a seed in his yard and was patented.

By Walter Finch

CLARK PETTINGILL calls it the "Pettingill Apple Tree."

He takes no credit for it, but he has enjoyed it for a quarter of a century.

It flourishes in the front yard of his home, 205 5th St., Seal Beach, each fall producing a big crop of large red apples.

The apples are so good that the tree has been patented, and grafts are distributed by Armstrong Nurseries.

"Twenty-five years ago, or maybe it was 30 years, I don't just recall," says Pettingill, "two young apple trees came up side by side, so close as almost to make contact, in my yard. I think they came from the same apple core.

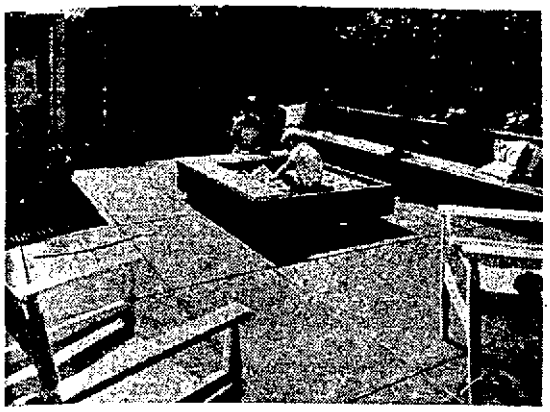

"I separated the trees."

THE PETTINGILL tree, in his front yard, is highly successful. The apples are on the sharp side until they are entirely ripe. Apples are large, 10 to 12 ounces, and once he picked a 22-ounce apple.

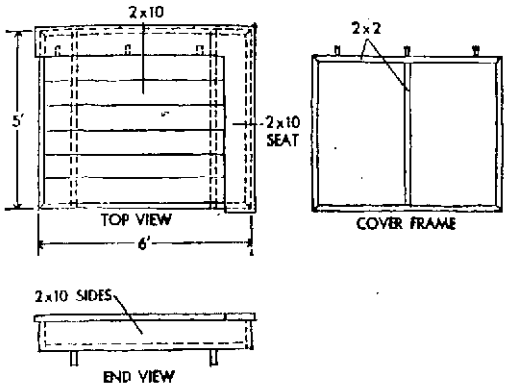

The Pettingill No. 2 tree, its twin, in the back yard, is a "fair, but not a super tree." Its apples also are red, but the stem is so short the apples "crowd themselves off the tree" before they ripen.

BOAT TALK

America's Cup Rehash

By Bob Ruskauff

IT MIGHT BE unseemly to give treatment to the recent America's Cup series twice in one month in this space.

Especially out here, when it was held off Newport, R. I., and under New York Yacht Club's sacrosanct rules.

Also, when it seemed fairly obvious from the beginning that England's Sceptre would wave in ignominious vain, then so-proved. But it produced conjectural material:

Such as the AP releases on the event. The yachting nomenclature improved steadily.

Lightish airs greeted the first race, but we noted "the white-hulled American sloop 'shot' across the finish line, in 5 hours 12 minutes and 55 seconds." Shot?

WHEN COLUMBIA handed Sceptre her fourth straight licking in a good breeze of wind, the account told us "she 'swept' over the 24-mile triangular course in 3 hours 4 minutes 22 seconds, leaving the disillusioned pride of the Royal Yacht Squadron 'plodding,' etc."

"Swept" is much nicer. But "plodding"?

However, could it have only gone the full seven races, there would have been some mighty salty words blowing out of Newport.

We noted, too, that the British dubbed Sceptre's bosomy Parisienne sail the Brigitte Bardot. Maybe the Brigitte pictures we've seen don't properly fill her out.

In the life jacket realm, "Mae West" seemed more fitting. Strangely, yachtsmen must have had their minds elsewhere, in the days of Lillian Russell. Nary a fitting nor even a well-cut bit of sail was ever named after her.

MORE SERIOUSLY, there's much to the comment of Columbia's brilliant skipper, Briggs Cunningham, who says he'd like to see boats of more sea-going type compete for the America's Cup.

Seems a lot of it also hinges on the sordid word "financing." When the big J-boats got too costly under the tax structure, the 12-meters were the intelligent replacement. Now it appears they're too costly.

Maybe there should be government subsidies.

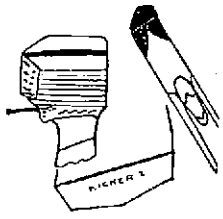

Whatever, if the event is to retain the worldwide popular fancy which it has commanded, two things seem apparent:

1. There should be a class in which inter-sectional competition is feasible, leading to national eliminations, and 2. It should be a class in which several, not just two, nations can bring forth a worthy competitor and make it a true world series in yacht racing.

BOAT HOOKS: second round of Cabrillo Beach Yacht Club fall series tops Southland sailing today; national outboard championships under way at Lakeland, Fla. (Long Beach was 1956 host); Outboard title races at Devil's Lake, Ore.

OUTBOARD TOWING POWER

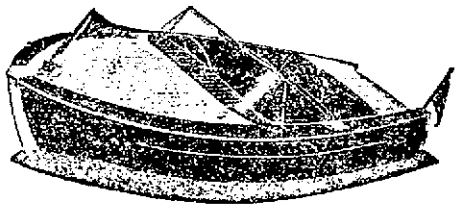

Water skiing is a highly popular activity for outboard enthusiasts. The towing power of a rig depends upon the length of boat, transom width, horsepower and surface area of skis. Generally, the greater the transom width, the easier the tow. Write to your engine's manufacturer for his towing recommendations and get the most out of your motor.

ANDERSON GASSAWAY

In 2 Months—A Surprise

LET'S PUMP the calendar ahead two months and for a moment imagine it's December at Andy's Hotcake House, 643½ Pine Ave.

As the patrons pass the glassed-in serving counter, they are astonished at how the place has grown. To their right is a beautiful new dining room, with a seating capacity of 84, bringing the cafeteria's total capacity to 218. (It presently seats 134.)

The new room is luxurious and comfortable. Its tables and chairs are of expensive teakwood, made in Denmark. Its walls are paneled in gleaming walnut and on display at one side is a fabulous $4,000 silver service used for banquets and special parties.

FLIPPING THE calendar back to the present, we find that owner Anderson Gassaway will start work soon on the new dining room (and his new office), which will extend the Hotcake House into space now occupied by the Iowa Pork Shop. He and interior designer Hartley Gurrey hope to have the enlarged area ready by Christmas.

Meanwhile Andy, a tall chap in a white chef's hat and a white smock, continues to delight his patrons with the quality of his food and the skill of his preparation. His meat loaf is exceptional and so are his Swedish meatballs. And you should hear how the people comment when they taste Andy's tender ham, roast beef, fancy fish, Swiss steak and lamb dinners.

All the entrees are modest in price and served with two vegetables, roll and butter and choice of beverage, including a blend of Central-American coffee which is so delicious it receives comments of "Ole!" and "wonderful!" from American and South American sippers alike.

All day and into the night Andy serves the lightest, easiest-to-swallow hotcakes you've ever tasted. He also serves terrific pies baked right on the premises along with his rolls and cakes. Closed Sundays, the Hotcake House is open from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily and until 2 p.m. Saturdays.

A BABY'S ADVICE TO PARENTS page 17

Same size, features, manner stamp Gary Crosby, 25, as the son most like Bing. Here the two meet on film set.

Father and son mutual admiration society

IF BING CROSBY looks like a proud father in the picture above, it's easy to see the reason—his oldest son Gary, standing right beside him. Now 25, Gary is starting to go places.

Of the Crosby boys' quartet, Gary has been the top "achiever" this year. When he was discharged from the Army this past spring, he went to work in a movie, Mardi Gras, shot in Lynchburg, Va. He also journeyed to New York and dated several girls, among them Joan Crawford's niece.

When Gary arrived on the coast, he didn't expect his famous dad to meet him, but Bing was out at the airport ready with a warm and welcome handshake.

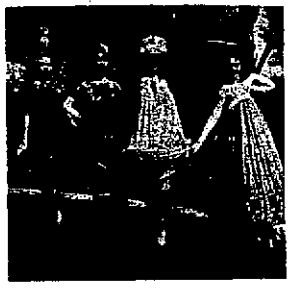

A few days later when Gary reported on the sound stage at 20th Century-Fox, Bing again was on hand to wish him luck. At the time Bing was a busy man himself, nervously awaiting the impending arrival of his fifth son, Harry Lillis "Tex" Crosby, Jr., now all of two months old. Gary was surprised when his old man ambled onto the sound stage and said with genuine gratitude, "I sure appreciate your looking in on me, Dad. Never thought you would."

Mardi Gras starring Pat Boone, Gary Crosby and Tommy Sands is finished, but Gary did such a fine job in the film that the studio has recently signed him to a 5-year contract.

Bing Crosby likes to affect an air of nonchalance. It's his stock in trade. But from the photo above, you can glean that Bing is mighty proud of his first-born and vice versa. ■

On Parade

We learn that many readers were either startled or intrigued by PARADE's cover showing four pretty young ladies wearing four very strange-looking dresses (July 27). What took us by surprise, though, was the pile of inquiries that have come in — not about the dresses but who was inside them.

The girls, all thriving young models, offer these vital statistics: From left, above — Joanne Mayer (23, light blond, 34-23-34. Hometown: Elmhurst, N.Y.). Marion Abbott (23, reddish blond, 35-21-35. Hometown: Sioux Falls, S.D.). Sally Anne Choate (22, red hair, 35-22-34. Hometown: St. Louis, Mo.). Karla DeRoos (22, brunette, 34-23-36. Hometown: New Orleans, La.).

Here's a challenging note from Mrs. Clyde Kimbrough, Beaumont, Tex.: "Just finished Tall Tales Champ: Alaska or Texas? [PARADE, Aug. 24]. Alaskans can't begin to compete with us. If Alaskans had all the hot air we Texans have, it would melt all that ice up there. Furthermore, with all that ice melted, they'd be lucky to have as much dry land left as little Rhode Island! Tell those Alaskans up there to put that in their bonnets."

In the news

'Dear Sir or Madam:'

by PAUL STEINER

For the past week, we have been observing National Letter-writing Week. Here are sundry items about what happens when some people take pen in hand.

FAIR WARNING: In Washington, D.C., a Senator received the following letter from a New Hampshire school girl — "All my friends are saving pictures of movie stars, and I want to be different, so please send me photos of 12 Senators, but pick carefully, even the best are sort of funny looking."

NAKED QUESTION: The New York Public Library reports receiving this inquiry — "I am planning to go to a fancy dress ball dressed as Lady Godiva. What did she wear?"

FREE LANCE: A 14-year-old North Carolinian auctioned off his entire collection of love letters for a local charity drive, beamed when he received 27 cents for the choicest missive. It was addressed to "Sugar Doll."

CAPPING REWARD: A college girl from Boston, visiting in New York City, sat on her hotel bed writing home, when the cap of her pen rolled under the bed. She groped for the cap, found it — and $130 in cash.

MUM: In a Los Angeles railroad station, a 76-year-old man suddenly came face to face with his 71-year-old brother, from whom he hadn't heard in 50 years. Said the younger man: "Guess I'm not much of a letter writer."

CHINE IN THE MAIL: And in an Indiana town, a man recently got an announcement that his brother had become the father of twins. It was mailed in 1946.

TIDY WIFE: Police headquarters in Independence, Mo., received an envelope containing a dollar, a parking ticket and this note —"I found this in my husband's pocket."

WORKING PAPERS: After parking illegally, a California motorist tucked this written message under the windshield wiper—"Dear Officer: I ran out of gas and money, too." He returned to find this message from the cop on duty—"Dear Citizen: I'll give you an hour to earn some money and buy some gas."

GOING IT ALONE: Airline officials in Florida got nowhere trying to figure out this letter from a passenger — "Your service was just fine. I have flown 19 times, but this is the first time I ever landed in an aircraft."

SELF HELP: Applying for a course in typing at a London business school, an 83-year-old English country squire remarked — "Can't read my own writing, y'know."

FUNNY BOUNCES: An inmate of a Pennsylvania prison got an uncensored communication to his wife by writing it on a rubber ball which he tossed over a 34-foot wall for delivery to the Midwest.

STOOL PIGEON: But a prisoner in North Carolina wasn't so lucky. Seeing a pigeon on the ledge of his cell window, he coaxed the bird within arm's reach, fastened this note to it: "Help. I'm in jail. My rights have been violated." The pigeon flew straight to city hall, where the note was turned over to police.

DEAD LETTER: A Texas resident, informed by Indiana authorities that he would have to show an Indiana address before he could get an auto license for that state, wrote back, "The only property we own is an Indiana cemetery. Could we use that address?"

• • •

HELD UP: In Springfield, Ohio, a man walked into a candy store, asked for paper and pencil, handed a note to the proprietress. She returned it, saying, "Can't read English." The man threw the note to the floor and stomped out. The next customer informed her that the note read: "This is a holdup." ■

ATTENTION: HUSBANDS AND WIVES

Eight views on how to handle arguments

The eight residents of Charleston, W. Va., pictured here speaking candidly to a PARADE reporter, have two things in common. Each of them is happily married and has been for periods ranging from four to 26 years. Each admits to a technique for dealing with the marital conflicts that crop up now and then.

Husband-wife quarrels are inevitable in a working marriage, say family counselors. But they classify them as productive or destructive. The productive ones often can be tools for solving the crucial problems of marriage. On page 8, an expert gives his rules for making arguments count for something.

MRS. BARBARA EMRICK

"We very seldom argue. We just say, 'Ah-h, shut up!' We differ about minor things like his pants hung on the doorknob for three days or the way I drive. He's easygoing, a living doll. I'm the witch! I lose my temper, blow off steam. But my husband wouldn't like a meek little woman."

SAM AROSE

"When we do have family arguments, they generally are on religion. Ours is a mixed marriage. We try to compromise. I'm inclined to give in where I disagree. When it's serious, we get it off our chests, but don't stay mad more than 10 minutes. We don't make it a point to say who wins."

MRS. KATHLEEN SIMPSON

"We've been married 18 years and never had a serious argument. We disagree sometimes but then we compromise. I agree with him or he with me. We try to meet half way and each one gives a little. 'Let the sun not go down on thy wrath,' I say. We don't let little things grow big."

FRED CASDORPH

"My wife is a school teacher. You don't argue with school teachers and policemen! When there's an argument, I just tune her out. I don't listen. We usually sit down and discuss things. It's better than building up tensions inside. If I get mad, I can't think. So I usually just cut it short."

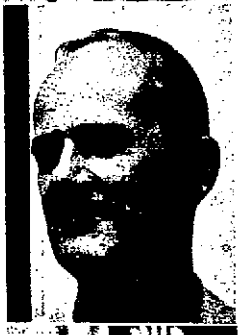

DON HOFF

"Very rarely do I have an argument. If there's one, it's usually a very trivial thing. Neither of us is very demanding or domineering. We both feel that losing one's temper is pointless. We try to settle everything by discussing things, instead of resorting to angry explosions."

MRS. VELMA MOORE

"I always let my husband have his way, even when I think he's wrong, because he's the head of the family. I have the more even disposition. When we argue it's mostly a difference of opinion over the children. I sometimes think he's too strict but I can see his point of view."

CHARLES SYDNOR

"When arguments do come up it's usually money — family finances. It's a mutual thing, trying to make both ends meet. We don't get to blows over it, just sit down and talk things over. When we do fight, I generally just walk off and leave. I give her a fair chance to cool off."

MRS. LORRAINE OWENS

"We don't have a fight unless I have one of my grouchy spells. Then I pick on him for little things. He's easygoing but won't let anyone walk all over him. He takes my grouchiness a while. But if I drag it out, he asks why. He's firm with me then and we start to talk it out."

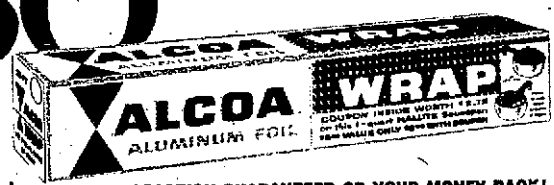

To get the most out of your arguments, see an expert's rules on page 8

How to get the most out of your arguments

Fight to win? Sometimes it's wiser to run away, says an expert

by CLARK W. BLACKBURN
General Director, Family Service Association of America

It isn't whether or not you have disagreements, but rather how you handle them that matters in marriage. When a man and woman marry, they usually agree on basic issues. But until they realize that they also disagree on important things, and learn to recognize and discuss these disagreements, their marriage relationship is not yet on solid ground.

In the past, some experts have encouraged marriage partners to "blow off steam" and "put the cards on the table." But the experience of counseling thousands of people in our 279 agencies throughout the U.S. has taught us that this is only part of the story.

The keys to disagreeing constructively are in these words: communicate, understand, hear, listen, acknowledge anger, balance.

We don't encourage fighting. We do encourage talking it out, discussing disagreements, accepting differences. Uncontrolled outbursts of anger and of bullying can be destructive of the marriage relationship. Neither should disagreements be repressed or forgotten. From the way they observe their parents handling their differences, children learn to tolerate the dislikes and likes of others, and to realize there should be a healthy give and take, a respect for the feelings of others. All of these are a necessity in human relations as well as marriage.

These points should be kept in mind about marital disagreements.

Some Love to Argue

- Understand the other person's attitude toward arguments. Some people feel threatened when someone disagrees with them. Others love to argue as a sort of mental exercise or to express hostile feelings. What is fun to you may be shattering to another member of the family, depending upon the nature of a disagreement.
- No two people can be expected to agree on all questions. But most differences between a man and wife can be resolved.
- Only a fair and square fight can be constructive.
- A person has a right to change his mind. When one partner concedes an argument, the other shouldn't rub it in and be an "I-told-you-so."

Here are some rules for making disagreements a plus factor in your marriage:

1) Define the issue and limit the fight to the question at hand. Be sure that you are both talking about the same thing.

2) Avoid going off on tangents which befuddle the issue.

3) Take a break when feelings run too high.

4) Be sure that serious arguments are confidential and held in private.

Where's Your Sense of Humor?

5) Be a good listener. Don't try to outtalk the other.

6) Remember that a sense of humor can help get through a fuzzy question. But don't ridicule the other's point of view.

7) Sometimes it may be smart to run away from a fight provided the matter itself is not allowed to simmer, and grow bigger by being hidden.

8) Friendly, sympathetic discussions of different points of view on different subjects help to strengthen marriage and represent continuing interest in each other.

9) Don't be unfair to your partner even if he or she is unfair to you. Someone has to break the vicious cycle.

Avoid these unfair tactics when you disagree: sulking, being a martyr, over-politeness, name-calling, threats and ultimatums, fighting only to win, bullying, setting verbal traps, stating that you don't care, hurting the other's feelings.

10) Postpone decisions if necessary. The time of argument is often a time of high emotion. This is not the climate for rational decision-making.

It may be wiser to compromise in an argument, leaving unsettled questions to be brought up later. Often it is well, if you "give in," to let the other know that you are really giving in just for the moment and are not "convinced," but want to discuss the issue again at a future date. ■

LONDON.

THIS UNUSUAL CASE of "togetherness" in the feathered world was photographed shortly after the two fuzzy chicks emerged from their shells at the Whipsnade Zoo here. Papa and mama — rare sarus cranes from Northern India — appear to be tied up in knots as they bend down to hear the squawks of their offspring. After the doting, red-headed parents hatched the eggs near a fence, thousands of visitors came to the zoo to see the 5-inch sarus babies, the first born here in 40 years. The parents, who proudly stand guard over the youngsters, have been Whipsnade residents for five years. ■

Attractive wife of California's Attorney General finds it's "exciting" to help husband Pat Brown in his campaign for Governor.

BERNICE BROWN:

The story of a candidate's wife

Politicking in earnest for the first time, she hits a hectic pace

by LLOYD SHEARER

Parade West Coast correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO.

When election year rolls around, the wives of most campaigning politicians usually fall into two groups: 1) the Bess Truman category — aloof, removed and non-participating, or 2) the Eleanor Roosevelt category — ardent, active and right smack in the middle of the political slugfest.

Bernice Brown, the patrician-looking, blue-eyed wife of California's attorney general Edmund G. "Pat" Brown, Democratic candidate for governor, is an exception. She belongs to neither group. When it comes to politicking, Mrs. Brown is a middle-of-the-roader.

"I've always done what I could to help Pat," she softly explains, "but when you've got four children in the family and no help and a house to look after, I'm afraid you can't do very much. You just can't take off and barnstorm up and down the state with your husband. Somebody's got to stay home and raise the children."

During Pat Brown's previous campaigns for political office, the Brown children were young and growing. But now the two oldest girls Barbara, 26, and Cynthia, 24, are married, the Brown's only son Edmund G. Jr., is studying for the priesthood at the Jesuit novitiate in Los Gatos (where his parents may visit him once a month for two hours) and there is only Kathy, 13, to supervise. Thus, at 49, Bernice Brown has finally found time for politicking.

She is now in the midst of her first full campaign tour, and she's finding the experience hectic, rewarding, stimulating.

Holds Press Conferences

"I used to think," she candidly admits, "that a woman went along on these trips just to prove to the public that the candidate had a wife, that he was a respectable family man. But I find it's very different.

"Pat's campaign managers use me for more than decoration. I speak on the radio, on television, in auditoriums, at street meetings. I hold press conferences and answer questions. And in between I have to see to it that Pat has a clean shirt to wear. It's all new and exciting to meet people who are genuinely curious about every facet of your life."

What kind of questions have the citizens of California been asking Bernice Brown? Strangely (to her) they've been asking personal questions: Where did you and Pat first meet? How long have you been married? Are you a native daughter? Is is true that you're Episcopalian and Pat is Catholic? Would you have married Pat if you'd known he was going into politics? There haven't been very many questions on the political issues of the day, largely because people who turn out to meet the Browns are Democrats who ostensibly know or don't care where the Attorney General stands on labor, the balanced budget and crime in California. That Bernice Brown is a loyal Democrat is enough for them. When an occasional few obstreperous attempts are made to involve her in political arguments; Bernice Brown always says, "I leave the politics to Pat."

The facts on Mrs. Brown are these: She is an attractive size-12 of a woman with an unlined dimpled face, an ethereal beauty and a brilliant intelligence. She was born in this city, the daughter of police captain Arthur Layne, and sent to grade school at the old State Normal.

A brainy pupil, she completed eight years of grammar school in three and a half years and was ready to enter high school at age 10. Fortunately, her wise mother kept her at State Normal for another two years, where she took cooking and other domestic science courses, until she was old enough to mix socially with students of regular high-school age.

Decided to Elope

At Lowell High she met Pat Brown, chief cheerleader and secretary of the student body. He was one year ahead of her. She was 14; he was 17. They began dating and fell in love. Pat went on to study law at night school, Bernice to major in history at the University of California. After a year of graduate work she obtained teaching credentials and taught school in San Francisco. Pat passed the state bar exams in 1927 and set up a law practice.

On October 30th, 1930, Bernice and Pat Brown eloped to Reno, Nev., and were married. "If I'd known back then," Mrs. Brown says, "that Pat was going to enter politics, I never would've married him in October, so close to election day. I thought I was marrying a plain old lawyer. But now in election years we usually spend our wedding anniversary at some campaign function. In 1950, when Pat was running for Attorney General, we spent our twentieth wedding anniversary drinking a cup of coffee and munching a sweet roll in a taxi cab while on our way to the Redding airport. Some twentieth wedding anniversary!"

The Democratic candidate and his wife greet crowds on a recent tour. They met in school, eloped 28 years ago, have had an extremely happy marriage.

But Bernice Brown has no regrets, "because Pat is apparently a political creature with a personal chemistry that attracts him to political office.

"We had several years of private life," Mrs. Brown explains, "when Pat was practicing law. And these were wonderful years, because he was home more frequently. But during World War II they asked him to run for District Attorney of San Francisco, and he did. He was elected and paid $8,000 a year, but we found we couldn't live on that and had to go into our savings. To go into politics a man must have a missionary spirit and, I guess, an understanding wife."

The Brown children, raised in the Catholic faith although their mother is still Episcopalian, have always been a source of pleasure to their parents. Barbara, now Mrs. Charles Casey, and Cynthia, now Mrs. Joseph Kelly, are mothers themselves. Each has one child. Edmund G., Jr., the Brown's only son, decided two years ago that he wanted to become a priest. "I wanted him to wait until he had finished college," says his mother, "but he was determined to do it. So we let him. He seems very happy. I'm glad he apparently knew so early in the game what was right for him. So many times a child, especially a boy, will waste year after year, unable to make his mind up what he wants to be."

Private Life Sacrificed

With the other children away, Bernice Brown feels a special responsibility to Kathy, 13, currently going to Herbert Hoover Junior High. "There was always so much activity around our house, but now, it's sort of quiet. And then again, there's always the political factor. Kathy's 13th birthday was on September 25th, and she wanted to spend the day with the whole family. But September 25th was the day ex-President Truman came to San Francisco for a $100-a-plate dinner. So you see, there had to be a compromise. When a man devotes his life to public service, his children don't see too much of him."

For the past 25 years the Browns have lived in a nine-room white stucco house in the Forest Hill district of San Francisco. Mrs. Brown has no help and does her own housework "except for the really heavy work." Years ago she was quite active in the League of Women Voters, but when Pat entered politics she bowed out of the organization. She loves to baby-sit with her two grandchildren and cook for the Brown home gatherings. When she has nothing to do, she plays golf. Her game is about as good as President Eisenhower's, and she's broken 90 half a dozen times.

Tall, lean and youthful-looking despite her iron-gray hair, parted in the middle, Bernice Brown is regarded in many quarters as Pat Brown's greatest attribute. She is gentle, soft-spoken, unambitious, lady-like, friendly and capable of giving strangers the belief that she is genuinely fond of them. "To me," she says, "everyone in this campaign has been nothing but nice."

At a recent Democratic rally in Long Beach, this reporter heard one female spectator say to her husband, "I'm going to vote for Pat Brown. I like the sweet way his wife smiles."

But the Browns do not rely on such vagaries. This is a campaign of issues—and it is on issues that Bernice Brown takes her stand beside her husband. ■

TOPSY TURVY legs in Stamford, Conn., store solve mystery of what keeps the dancers' tights from slipping. They go clear to the waist.

LOOK MOMMY, they stretch, says a small shopper in store's kiddie shop. Tights now are sold in many departments, appeal to all ages.

AT HOME Mrs. Adelaide Mearns, of Greenwich, Conn., likes to wear red Chinese jacket with black tights—a present from her husband, Jack.

Tights grip U.S. women

OFF ON STILL another style kick, American women are jumping leglong into tights this fall. Feminine limbs of every age are being encased as snugly as sausages in a contagious fashion borrowed from the ballet.

Made of stretch nylon, the tights (also called leotards or leotights) fit any shape or size. This hip-to-toe coverage comes in vampish black, brash colors and stripes. Cost: $2 to $6.

An Ivy League campus discovery of last year, the tights fad is expanding to national epidemic proportions. Tights are being worn for "precaution" under kilts or skating skirts, for warmth under Bermuda shorts and dresses, for exercise by girth-fighters and for fun by dinner party hostesses.

Merchants are advertising and selling them hotly, straining to get their reorders filled. "Phenomenal," exclaimed one executive of a department store, where tights are moving by the thousands. "It's like the chemise. Husbands are kicking but it's wonderful for business."

Much like the sack, tights promote a controversial kind of feminine allure. But fashion history decrees that when the bosom is snubbed, the legs have it.

AT THEIR BEST, tights suit leggy and slender girls like this model, who wears striped ones with orange tweed pleated bicycle skirt, charcoal sweater ($11.95 each). Tights also are in patterns.

A baby's advice to parents

This year, a grand total of 4,220,000 babies will be born in the U.S. The baby boom is still on, swelling our population, changing the face of the American economy.

Of course, the biggest changes that come with a new baby occur right in the home. Bearing this in mind, PARADE went to prominent pediatricians with this question: If babies up to two years old could speak their minds, what advice would they give their parents about baby care? Here is what the doctors feel the babies would like to say in their own behalf.

I admit it, I'm cranky now and then.

I'm not a little man (or woman).

And don't expect me to behave like a grownup. I'm dependent on you to show me the way. I make mistakes. You make mistakes. They're inevitable. Don't feel miserable when the mistakes crop up. I'm pretty flexible — probably more so than you.

I'm not a toy or a gimmick.

And I'd prefer not to be "wound up" for the benefit of friends or strangers. When I begin to say those first few words, please don't insist that I repeat them over and over. You're really showing me off for your own benefit. This kind of stuff bores me.

Motion simply fascinates me.

There's something about being tossed up in the air — with you holding on, of course — that delights me. I can't quite put my finger on the reason, but I know I like it. This also applies to bouncing on legs, swaying and other safe movements. But don't whirl me by one arm. My doctor tells me this can cause real problems.

Honest, I like that food.

Don't worry, I'll eat. Like you, I have to — if only to satisfy my hunger. Relax. I'd appreciate it if you would not thrust the stuff down my throat or keep forcing large amounts on me after I've eaten a goodly portion. Being fat isn't always a sign of good health. I have a friend who, at 18 months, is so fat she had to be put on a diet.

I admit it, I'm cranky now and then.

Here's the pattern. I get a little out of sorts, but you can find nothing really wrong. I'm not hungry, tired or sick and the diaper pins aren't sticking in my sides. You worry and fret. Forget it. I have to fuss now and then.

Want to know my sleep system?

Now here's how I operate. If early in the game I cry at sleep time and my folks rush in and start playing with me, I like it. And I avoid sleep. If this gambit works, I repeat it over and over. And for some reason, I become known as a problem sleeper, or a sleep fighter.

Really, if you must argue . . .

Am I to blame?

I need affection, but . . .

Sure, I like (and need) to be picked up, cuddled, kissed, fondled. What baby doesn't? But let's face it. Constant hugging and attention begins to lose its meaning — even to me. And that leads right into my next point, which is . . .

I like privacy, too.

Just a moment. Don't laugh. But I do like to be alone once in a while. You know, I'm discovering things, their feel, taste, sound. I'm exploring. And if I'm left to do this by myself once in a while, I stand a good chance of becoming pretty self-sufficient later on.

Make up your mind, I'm going to fall.

It has to happen. I'm going to fall down, even on my head, if past performance is any tipoff on things to come. The overwhelming majority of falls don't bother me for too long — even if I cry a little at first. But I don't go for downright carelessness on your part. I mean watch me around sharp, pointed objects.

Really, if you must argue . . .

I, and all my friends, realize that parents have their little spats. I've heard they're a part of marriage and even healthy. If you must argue in loud tones, please leave my room, because loudness somehow irritates me. Or if you do stay in my room, kiss and make up — just to show me that you still like each other. I like both my parents on the beam emotionally, with me and with each other.

Am I to blame?

While I'm handing out all this advice, I'd like to add: Don't put me in the middle because you have problems. Don't blame me for things that I have little control over. I realize that I have changed your lives, but let's look at it realistically. Lots of problems are yours and yours alone. I need to be considered. I'm human, too.

Remember the "other child."

OK, I'm the baby and I need a lot of attention. Granted. But that 4-year-old over there is going to work up one heck of a resentment unless you spend some time and effort with him, too. But let me caution you. Don't exaggerate your feelings and actions with him to "make up" for having me. If you push too hard, he'll sense it and all your efforts will go down the drain. Remember, he's a little leery of me from the start.

A word about diapers.

Sure I need changing several times during the day. But this constant preoccupation with neatness can be wearing. If I'm wet for short periods the world will go right on, same as always.

Another small mechanical note.

I won't break when you pick me up. But I can be hurt if you do it incorrectly. Get a firm grip under the armpits and support my head, please, until I can hold it up myself. When I'm very young, remember that my back isn't too strong and my equilibrium isn't what it will be. So support my back.

Here's when I've had enough.

Put yourself in my place. You've been tickled, pinched under the chin, jostled, rough-housed and it is pleasant — for a while. But when the smile isn't as big, when the laugh not so hearty, I think I've had enough. Or, I've had enough when you, my parent, begin to get tired. I can sense it — and then all that playing around is no fun at all — for either of us.

Just one more word . . .

I know I sound like I'm preaching, but here goes.

Lately, you've heard a lot about the "right way" to raise children. Well, let me tell you, pal, there is no right way. Most parents do a fine job and they use different techniques.

From where I sit, I believe you, my patient and long-suffering parents, can benefit by remembering one word: relax. Enjoy me. I'm prepared to enjoy you and the whole wonderful, unfolding experience of childhood.

THE WORLD'S MOST BEAUTIFULLY PROPORTIONED CARS

The newest word in cars is proportion—the classic measurement in the fine art of automotive design and styling.

Proportion makes the beautiful difference in the Fords for 1959. You'll see it in every new shining inch of finely designed steel. It flows the whole clean length of these brand-new cars. You'll see it in the new thin-line roof, in the fresh, straight-through look of its big picture windows, and in the long glittering accents of chrome.

So elegant is the new Ford that it received the Gold Medal of the Comité Français de l'Elégance—awarded at the Brussels World's Fair. The citation in French: "Pour proportions exceptionnelles et la ligne élégante."

Proportion is a matter of power and motion, too. In Ford's new Thunderbird V-8 engines for 1959, the power is proportioned for increased responsiveness. You will get more responsive power at the speeds you actually drive—30 to 70 miles per hour. The new Fords are proportioned for new economy with new Fordomatic savings, new thrift in gas and oil that's easy on the pocketbook every smiling mile. These cars act new, look new, are new in every gleaming inch!

The new features are tailored together to give you a rewarding feeling that until now has only been available in the Thunderbird. See for yourself the 1959 Ford's Thunderbird elegance.

And all this Thunderbird sort of sweet-moving action . . . all this new performance and economy . . . will come to you at traditionally sensible Ford prices, which means the most possible value for the fewest possible dollars. You'll get more car per dollar than ever before!

There is a special feeling in these 1959 Fords—and you can get that New Ford Feeling in the World's Most Beautifully Proportioned Cars starting soon. That's when your Ford Dealer puts the newest of all Fords on display.

Amazing Purifying Power in

Polident soaks

FALSE TEETH

there's not a trace of Denture Breath!

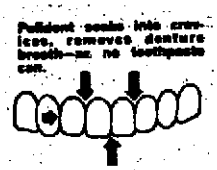

Here's a dental discovery that revolutionizes denture cleansing. It's Polident, the amazing white crystals made especially for cleaning false teeth. The instant Polident crystals touch water, they burst into super-cleaning action. They release remarkable Purifying Power that cleans your plates as no toothpaste can.

Dentures need not have that tell-tale odor.

The purifying solution you get from Polident crystals goes to work instantly. It penetrates deep down into the tiny cracks and crevices of your plates toothpaste never reaches. It soaks out clinging food particles and odor-breeding bacteria, the chief causes of offensive Denture Breath.

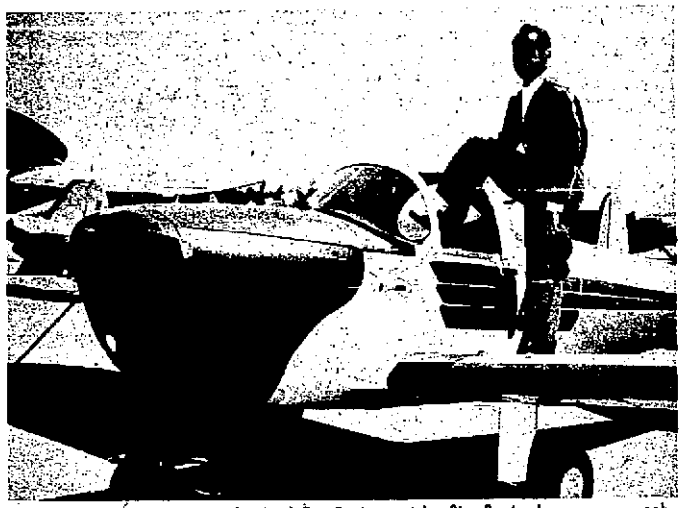

What's more, unsightly yellow stains and dingy, gray film instantly start to dissolve away. Suddenly, your false teeth are naturally white and, best of all, odor-free.

What a hero thinks about bravery

by COL. GREGORY "PAPPY" BOYINGTON

Winner of a Congressional Medal of Honor and Navy Cross for his World War II exploits as a Marine fighter pilot, "Pappy" Boyington hit the skids when the shooting was over. For years he drifted from job to job, refereed wrestling matches now and then and carried on a losing battle with alcohol. His courageous comeback as a human being is described in his recent best-selling book, Baa Baa Black Sheep (G. P. Putnam's Sons), from which this article is excerpted.

WHILE IN PRISON CAMP, and for a long time afterwards, I was very much in the dark, so to speak, concerning two words. I prided my ego on both of them, although I knew, even then, that my pride in one of them was not honest.

The first one is "bravery," for which I took many a phony bow, and I imagine to this day that many people still believe I was mighty brave. I mention this because I was beginning to learn the difference between daredevil and brave. In looking back over the years I wouldn't go so far as to say I have never been brave, but most of the things for which I had been given credit for bravery were nothing but daredevil stunts. It was trying to build up my own ego, trying to imitate the bravery of people I had read about or had been told about in the years gone by.

The second word, will-power, closely allied with bravery in my mind, was a thing in which I honestly prided myself, for too many years. And, needless to say, it was quite a spiritual revelation to finally get these two bothersome, ego-feeding expressions straightened out in my mind. The reason it had taken me so long a time, even though it happened to be nobody's fault but my own, was that my emotional maturity was very retarded.

Can you imagine how the air went out of me when I finally found the true meaning of will-power? Will-power means that one is going to do whatever he wants to do most at any particular time. So actually one of the things I prided myself for is really no accomplishment at all.

Daredevils Are Played Up

My definition of bravery is when a person does what he honestly believes is the best thing for him to do at any particular time. So the majority of my life can be linked up with showoff, or daredevil. The bravest man in the world would be the man who acts as he honestly thinks best more particular times than anyone else. Little wonder, then, that so many of the true acts of bravery go unheralded, while the daredevil antics are played up.

I'm not trying to change the world any more—people can go on writing and thinking what they damn well please—but for my own peace of mind I have to realize the truth about myself, and not what somebody writes about me—good or bad. ■

IF WOMEN EVERYWHERE could get together over coffee cups and exchange recipes, the world might be a better place. We can't, of course. But one thing all of us can share with pleasure is good food from far-off places. This idea prompted some of the United Nations people to publish a fine new cookbook called, *Favorite Recipes from the United Nations.

It is a cookbook we can recommend with pleasure and from which we have taken the two recipes on the opposite page. It had its origins in family kitchens all over the world, and embassies, legations and our own Department of State have helped to compile it. All 170 recipes, from some 76 countries were tested by the American Home Economics Association to make them easy to use. With this book as a guide, why not serve an international dinner on United Nations Day, October 24? It will be a treat for the family!

*Send $1.50 per single copy to the U.S. Committee for the UN, P.O. Box 1958, Washington 6, D.C. If 10 or more copies are ordered, the price is $1.00 each; 25 or more, 90¢ each.

THE CHINESE TAIL...

Is it wagging the

by JACK ANDERSON

Parade correspondent

TAIPEI, FORMOSA.

In the flowery language of Oriental oratory, Mao Tse-tung, boss of Red China's teeming millions, always refers to the struggle between the free and Communist worlds as the "War of the East wind against the West wind." The phrase may be as significant as it is colorful. For the wind that sweeps over China from the West comes from Russia. Perhaps the cautious, far-seeing Chinese schemer is aware that a day may come when the twin titans of Communism will find themselves no longer in warm alliance.

No other aspect of the cold war is receiving more attention by the free world's diplomats than the relationship between Moscow and Peking. Our own experts are working day and night evaluating information — even the tiniest fact is not overlooked — that may shed light on the question: Who is the real boss, Khrushchev or Mao?

PARADE's reporter searched for the answer from New Delhi to Tokyo. He chatted privately with India's Prime Minister Nehru, huddled twice with Philippine President Garcia, talked to diplomats in a dozen countries and to secret agents who follow what goes on behind the Bamboo Curtain.

Upon this question can hinge the fate of the free world. If differences divide the masters of Communism, a wedge might be driven between them. Their doubts, suspicions and jealousies can be exploited to split them.

By 1970, China's population will hit the one billion mark. If her industrialization proceeds at its present pace, she will be equal in power to the United States or the Soviet Union. In close alliance, the two Red partners would face the free world with overwhelming might.

Cracks in the Front

Yet top diplomats have long suspected that the friendship between the Russian bear and Chinese dragon has not been as cozy as Communist propaganda makes out. These observers always have been on the lookout for cracks in the common front. They argue first from history, going back to China's ancient hatred of her Soviet neighbor. They reason that Russia is becoming apprehensive of the awakening giant on her frontier. A disciplined, industrialized China with vast natural resources and almost limitless power might renew the territorial ambitions of a Ghengis Khan.

Still the partnership seems stable; the few frictions exposed have been trivial. Although Mao emerged after Stalin's death as the world's senior Communist, he seemed content to accept the Kremlin's political lead in exchange for Soviet equipment and know-how. Then came the three fateful days last summer, July 31 to August 3, when Mao and Khrushchev sat in secret conclave in Peking. No matter how the two Communist Caesars tried to disguise the strains, it was apparent to the whole world that Mao was no longer taking orders; he also was giving them.

AFFABLE REDS, China's Mao Tse-tung and Soviet's Nikita Khrushchev turn on wide grins in Peking during a recent fence-mending trip by Russian boss.

Khrushchev abruptly dropped his call for a summit meeting. He gave up his crisis in the Middle East so Mao could stage one in the Far East. From information our Central Intelligence has pieced together, the Chinese leader read Khrushchev a sharp lesson on the dangers of being too lenient. Mao wanted to keep the cold war going, to seize every opportunity for placing the blame on the West. At the same time, he urged that they take a cue from John Foster Dulles, Secretary of State, and be prepared to go to the brink of a hot war. Communist discipline, said Mao, must not be sapped away by pleasant dreams of peace and good living.

Mao did not exactly dictate policy to Khrushchev; there were concessions on both sides. Mao agreed to accept Khrushchev's lead in future summit negotiations and to confine the Formosa adventure to a probing action. They also adjusted their ideological differences over Titoism, which Mao wanted to brand as a hostile outside force but which Khrushchev succeeded in treating as a problem within the Communist movement.

As an old-style Communist who plotted and fought his own way to power, Mao believes a showdown is inevitable between Communism and capitalism. In his view, peaceful coexistence is at best a ruse to gain time. If carried too far, he fears, it will weaken Communism and produce a host of Titos.

Mao Went Along

When Khrushchev set out to tear down a Stalin legend and soften the police state, Mao went along. He inaugurated a similar movement, inviting China's millions to criticize the government under the slogan "Let a hundred flowers bloom." But instead of blossoms in the Communist garden, he got the weeds of dissension. Intellectuals

JACOB BEAM, U. S. Ambassador to Poland and negotiator in talks with Red Chinese, lives with wife Margaret and son Alexander, 4½, in Warsaw house. Beam walks to embassy.

The U. S. dares not gamble on a China-Russia split spoke up, students rioted. And he ordered out the execution squads. When Poland started to seethe, then the Hungarian revolution exploded, his distrust of Khrushchev became acute. It was sharpened further after Yugoslavia sided with the Hungarians.

Khrushchev's policies also have encountered powerful opposition inside the Kremlin. In the struggle to squeeze his pudgy feet into Stalin's shoes, he stepped on important toes. Among the trampled was Stalin's veteran foreign minister, the tough and ruthless Molotov, whom Khrushchev exiled to a minor ambassadorial post in Outer Mongolia. This was an error, for it placed Molotov close to Mao. And the two men think alike.

Intelligence agents did not miss the fact that when Khrushchev flew to Peking for his crisis meeting with Mao, Molotov had been there before him. The significance also did not escape India's Nehru, whose personal contacts with Moscow and Peking probably are better than those of any other free world statesman. He confirmed to PARADE that Khrushchev still is surrounded by Stalinist rivals. Other authorities report that Molotov leads the anti-Khrushchev faction and that Mao used him to bring Khrushchev to heel.

There are signs that Khrushchev has become increasingly nervous over his Chinese ally. "Mao is still dominated by Khrushchev," insists a high nationalist official here. But the Kremlin czar has had to give Mao stronger reassurances of Soviet support than ever before. He has not been allowed to forget that Red China is Russia's best customer, and, much as he may dislike it, he is beginning to learn the truth of the old capitalist saying that "the customer is always right."

Battle of the Bluffs

In a battle of bluffs, Soviet nuclear weapons are being used as trump cards. Russia's U.S. Ambassador Mikhail A. Menshikov has dropped a hint that the Kremlin already has handed over nuclear arms to Red China, but American officials doubt it. For Khrushchev's known anxiety is that Mao will start a war that could devastate Russia but leave Red China unscathed. Mao has said he easily can spare 300 million people for victory over the West. Some experts believe he'd make the sacrifice, if only to get Soviet nuclear arms.

Nehru points out that the strange, enigmatic Mao and his chief henchman, Premier Chou En-lai, believe in the traditional Chinese strategy of avoiding a head-on clash while seeking an opponent's weak spots. In overthrowing the Nationalist regime, he always avoided formal battle if he could. He would lure his enemy towards him, then the Red armies would vanish into the civilian population only to reappear elsewhere.

PARADE's reporter had many meetings with Chou En-lai in postwar Chungking, where Chou was dickering for status in a coalition government. He could be found in a dingy basement down a narrow, slimy alley. The suave and shrewd Chou, who can be as charming as he is ruthless, used the same technique in negotiation that Mao used in the field. He always was probing for a weak spot, always waging small battles, always avoiding the big battle he might lose.

The Water Torture

This same capacity for patience, this same determination to wear down an opponent by a process as remorseless as the notorious Chinese water torture was to be replayed again in the Korean truce talks. Ambassador Jacob Beam, our negotiator in Warsaw, was up against the same tactics in his talks with Communist Ambassador Wang Ping-nan.

The ebullient Khrushchev has had his first taste of Mao pressure. It will not be the last. Mao has committed Russia to join him in a steady probing for the free world's weak spots, which he believes will bring the final triumph for Communism. And while Khrushchev still must be counted the top man in the Communist world, his authority also will be sapped.

For the U.S., there is only one course: determination to meet the challenge. As President Garcia told PARADE: "There must be no surrender to Mao Tse-tung. Many free people in Asia did not wholeheartedly agree with your support of Chiang Kai-shek but went along out of friendship for America. To give in to Mao would be to betray them. To the Red leaders of China, there is no such thing as right, only might." ■

Colored candies and other bright treasures kept in jars, along with the geraniums, make the shelved wall a pretty composition. The setting is by Christine Jones of Emily Malino Associates. HOLLYWOOD.

Early last month production halted abruptly at 20th Century-Fox, the most successful, progressive motion-picture studio in the industry.

The reason? Producers could find no box-office stars to cast in their prepared and polished scripts. Why? Because 10 movie stars, all male, and considered top box-office, were unavailable. They were either tired of working, like Jimmy Stewart, fearful of too much exposure, like Cary Grant or William Holden, busy on their own projects, like John Wayne and Burt Lancaster.

The 10 actors most in demand by movie makers are: 1) Rock Hudson, 2) Marlon Brando, 3) William Holden, 4) Cary Grant, 5) John Wayne, 6) Frank Sinatra, 7) Burt Lancaster, 8) James Stewart, 9) Gary Cooper, 10) Clark Gable. (To make it an even dozen, Gregory Peck and Tyrone Power can be added.)

With the exception of Rock Hudson, who is under contract to Universal-International, all these men are independent operators who sell their services in the open market. And brother, how they're selling them in today's sellers'-market! Because demand for them is infinitely greater than supply, they've got Hollywood on the rack, and they're tightening the screws. Never before in the history of motion pictures has a handful of actors been able to engineer so tight a stranglehold on the entire industry.

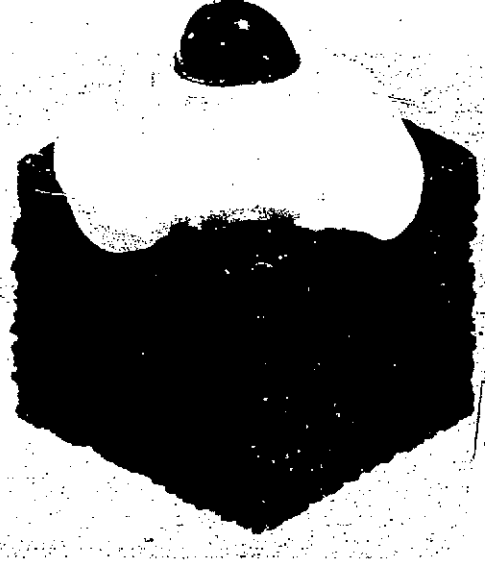

Any Demand Is Met

No matter how far-fetched and fantastic the demands of any of these actors, some desperate and deferential producer will meet them.

Recently Marlon Brando asked for 100

Which one is the Dromedary Gingerbread?

Not this! Pale color means pale taste! This gingerbread was baked with a competitive mix. If you like a bland appearance and weak flavor, this is the kind of gingerbread for you—but it won't satisfy a real gingerbread appetite.

This is the real, dark, hearty gingerbread you get only from Dromedary. Loaded with golden-brown molasses and tangy Jamaica ginger for that true old-fashioned gingerbread taste. Real gingerbread texture, too!

Compare the color!

Compare the texture!

Compare the taste!

for the moon—and get it

per cent of a picture's profits before he would star in it. Paramount said sure. Cary Grant, who can conjure up the most extensive list of demands ever dreamed of by a player, requested a Rolls Royce with chauffeur to tour Scotland for the promotion of Indiscreet. Warners promptly agreed.

William Holden demanded that his share of the profits from Bridge on the River Kwai be distributed to him at the rate of $50,000 a year for the next 40-or-so years. Columbia Pictures was happy to oblige. Burt Lancaster wanted his wife and four children to accompany him to England for the making of The Devil's Disciple. United Artists said, why not? John Wayne allowed that he might be able to squeeze in three films for 20th Century-Fox within the next two years but at no less than $2,000,000 for the deal. The studio quickly complied.

Generally speaking, the above mentioned actors (again excepting Hudson) demand and obtain 10 per cent of a film's gross, or a guarantee of $250,000 against 50 per cent of a film's profits, whichever is greater; or a flat deal of $300,000 to $750,000 a picture.

All except Hudson and Brando are millionaires several times over. The most wealthy are Grant, Cooper, Stewart, Lancaster and Gable in that order. Together they are worth from $25 to $35 million.

Three Started Poor

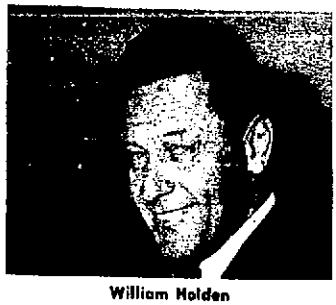

Of these five, three started out in life as poor boys. Grant was the son of an impecunious British tailor, Lancaster is the son of a New York City policeman and Gable the son of an Ohio farmer. Stewart's father ran a hardware store in Pennsylvania and sent his son to Princeton. Cooper's dad was a Montana judge who sent son Gary to Grinnell College, Iowa, where the boy started out to be a doctor.

Regardless of their backgrounds, all five men are thrifty. These actors also are financially shrewd, perceptive and jaded. They have worked in the industry a long time and a few regard many film executives with contempt. They know all the angles, and attempts to "chisel" down their demands are met with immediate negation. They do not look upon the studios' dilemma with sympathy.

"Sure the studios are in a tight spot," Gary Cooper admits, "but it's their own fault. They panicked when television came in and cut way back. They got rid of all their contract players, and now they're trying to buy them back."

Cary Grant adds that on many occasions he's warned the studios not to pursue him as ardently as they are doing. "'Take it easy,'

The peas that are bred to be big while still babies at heart

Most surprising thing about Green Giant peas is how they get so big at such a tender age.

You can thank the special seed for that. The Green Giant has developed an exclusive pedigreed seed. It grows into great big peas with the thinnest of skins and the sweetest of meat in 60 days or less.

The Green Giant plants this seed in the choicest soil and tends it like the finickiest farmer ever. When the fleeting moment of perfect flavor comes he whisks his peas into cans within three short hours. That's the reason they taste so special. Green Giant Brand peas. Treat the family soon.

Soup Saint Germain created by James A. Beard, the Green Giant's creative cooking consultant. Purée 17-oz. can Green Giant peas in blender or food mill. Combine with 1 cup chicken broth and 1 cup whipping cream. Season with salt and pepper. Chill and serve in chilled cups garnished with spoonful of sour cream and chopped chives. Serves 6.

We grow peas all winter, too. The Green Giant and his "plant doctors" are always fussing, trying to better the breed. Can't do it all in summer, though. Hence, there's a winter crop every year. From such tireless work comes regular improvements in Green Giant Brand peas.

One studio's promise: 'We'll audition anybody'

I've told them. 'This way I'll have to drive a hard bargain and you'll be sorry afterwards.' " Grant not only demands astronomical amounts of money but insists that no studio release a single photograph of him without his personal okay. He carries a rubber stamp around with him for this specific purpose.

He also refuses to play opposite any actress who wears body makeup. Further, he insists in all films upon wearing his own clothes. "The list of his demands," says one studio executive, "has a feline quality about it. It's as if Cary is now punishing us for all the slights and indignities he suffered on his way up as a youngster."

It is sad but true that the studios have no one to blame but themselves for this stranglehold by the stars.

In 1953, when the impact of television began to take its toll, the studios in stupid panic and short-sighted defense, began to effect economies. Their first step was to pare down their list of contract players without providing young substitutes.

The Big Grow Bigger

The result was threefold: 1) The remaining players, usually well-established and of long-standing value at the box office, whose contracts had a few years to run, became even bigger box-office draws; 2) Realizing the lack of replacements, these stars then refused to renew their exclusive contracts as they expired; 3) Once they were contractually free, these stars formed their own production companies, thus becoming more expensive and less available to the studios.

This is the talent situation that now prevails in Hollywood. The one studio trying desperately to break the star bottleneck is 20th Century-Fox. Two years ago its president, Spyros Skouras, earmarked $1,000,000 a year to set up a new talent training and development program. He placed Ben Bard, veteran Hollywood drama coach, in charge and urged full speed ahead.

New Talent Screened

Bard immediately announced that he would audition any young player in the country who wanted to be auditioned. He would interview all newcomers. From the thousands he saw, he sent the best to 20th's casting department. Here, more wheat was culled from the chaff, and those chosen returned to Bard for 13 weeks of intensive training. At the end of this period the newcomers performed for studio executives. Those with the most promise were signed to long-term contracts.

Concurrent with the training program, Skouras initiated a scouting program, seeking new talent from Europe and Broadway. Swedish actress May Britt was brought from Italy, Christine Carère from France, Don Murray, Hope Lange, Ray Stricklyn from Broadway. To date, Skouras has invested $2½ million in his "newcomers campaign" and has come up with other hopefuls: Suzy Parker, Diane Varsi, Dolores Michaels, France Nuyen, Jill St. John, Lee Remick, Bradford Dillman, Stuart Whitman, Barry Coe and Gary Crosby. Still others will be coming.

Unfortunately for the studio, none of these names is as yet strong enough to carry a picture by itself. They need help from the established stars. "Give us time," says Spyros Skouras, "and we'll break the bottleneck. We Greeks are pretty good wrestlers." ■

Having won the critics' praise recently for his serious roles in movies and on TV, Ed Wynn is back in comedy again (The Ed Wynn Show, NBC-TV, Thursday evenings). The old touch still is there, as his choice of these Bob Tupper cartoons proves. Tupper, you can see, specializes in the absolutely absurd. HO-KAY— BUT AL AIN'T GOIN' TO LIKE IT IF YOU GOOFED AN' LOST HIS PIGEON—

WHILE ACROSS TOWN—

ANNIE, THIS IS AN OLD PAL OF MINE, CAL CASE— HE'S IN, AH, GOVERNMENT WORK—

THAT'S RIGHT— GLAD TO MEET YOU, ANNIE—

SOME TIME LATER—

THAT'S EVERYTHING WE KNOW OR SUSPECT, CAL— YOU SEE HOW OUR HANDS ARE TIED—

YES— BUT I'D SAY YOU'VE DONE PRETTY WELL, IN SPITE OF THAT—

WE'VE KNOWN THE MESS IN FUTILE SPRINGS FOR A LONG TIME— THIS MAY GIVE US A LEGAL REASON TO MOVE IN HERE—

JUST WHO IS HE, BILLY? IS HE AN F.B.I. MAN?

LET'S SAY HE'S THE BEST INVESTIGATOR I KNOW— MET HIM IN THE WAR— HE WAS IN INTELLIGENCE, WORKING UNDERGROUND—

MAYBE WE COULD HAVE SOLVED THIS THING, AND GOT TO BE DEAD UNKNOWN HEROES FOR OUR REWARD—

YEAH— WHEN Y'DON'T DARE GO TO TH' CHIEF O' POLICE EVEN—

I'M AFRAID NO ONE ALONE COULD LICK THIS ONE, BUT CAL WON'T BE ALONE—

HMM— AND NEITHER ARE WE—

HI, WISE GUY— WHERE Y'BIN FER OVER T'REE HOURS?

AH, BOYS— DID YOU MISS ME? I MET MY BEST GIRL AT "JEEVE'S SCOOP" AND WE LINGERED OVER OUR DOUBLE CHOCS—

10-12-58

"JEEVE'S SCOOP"! I TOUGHT Y'SAID STEVE'S STUBE—

STUBE, STUPE! YOU'RE TH' STUPE!

SO, WE LOST HIM— WE FOUND HIM— WHAT'S TH' HARM? WE KNOW HE DIDN'T MEET NO GUY—

AH, HE'S A HARMLESS NUT— I STILL CAN'T SEE WHY AL SEZ WE SHOULD FOLLOW HIM—

MARK TRAIL

BRITISH COLUMBIA IS A FAVORITE HABITAT OF THE GREAT SOCKEYE SALMON, AND AT SPAWNING TIME THEY SWARM TO THE FRESHWATER STREAMS OF THE PROVINCE

FROM SOME 3000 MILES OUT IN THE PACIFIC OCEAN, THE SALMON SWIMS UNERRINGLY TOWARD ITS GOAL

ONCE IT LEAVES SALT WATER THE "BLUEBACK" REFUSES TO EAT...

BUT STORED IN ITS POWERFUL BODY IS JUST THE RIGHT AMOUNT OF FAT TO FURNISH ENERGY FOR THE TRIP TO THE SPAWNING AREA

AND AIDED BY A SENSE OF SMELL SO KEEN THAT IT CAN DETECT THE SLIGHTEST CHEMICAL CHANGE IN THE WATER...

THE AMAZING SALMON FIGHTS ITS WAY UP-STREAM UNTIL IT REACHES THE VERY SPOT WHERE IT HATCHED FOUR YEARS EARLIER!

PAUL WAIS

BRITISH COLUMBIA IS HOLDING ITS "SALUTE TO THE SOCKEYE" CELEBRATION OCTOBER 10-13, HERALDING THE RETURN OF MILLIONS OF SPAWNING SALMON

THE EGGS OF THE SOCKEYE ARE LAID IN THE GRAVEL OF THE SPAWNING STREAM AND INCUBATE FOR SIX MONTHS BEFORE HATCHING
